CHOOSE THE CAPTAINS FOR WILSON'S FIGHT

Committee of Fourteen Named to Counsel National Chairman and Keep a General Lookout.

HEADQUARTERS IN 3 CITIES

Times Square Preferred for New York Offices—Other Campaign Bureaus in Chicago and Further West.

Special to The New York Times.

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 18.—In two conferences, one lasting throughout the afternoon until dinner time and the other continuing from 8 o'clock until midnight, Gov. Wilson and ten invited members of his new "veranda cabinet" picked out the men who are to run the Democratic National Campaign, and sketched, so far as time would permit, the plan of battle.

There was no Chairman and the only Secretary was Gov. Wilson himself, who took shorthand notes. While his guests were dining with members of his family, Gov. Wilson called the reporters and made this announcement of the results arrived at up to that hour:

"The members of the Campaign Committee which National Chairman McCombs was authorized at Chicago to appoint, will be as follows: Robert S. Hudspeth of New Jersey, Josephus Daniels of North Carolina, Willard Saulsbury of Delaware, Col. Robert Ewing of Louisiana, A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania, Joseph E. Davies of Wisconsin, and Judge Will R. King of Oregon, all members of the National Committee; and these outside of the National Committee: Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma, Senator James A. O'Gorman of New York, James A. Reed of Missouri, Congressman Daniel J. McGillicuddy of Maine, Congressman Albert S. Burleson of Texas, and William G. McAdoo of New York.

"The committee is full, and no other appointments will be made. The fourteen men comprising the committee will have full charge of the campaign.

"We postponed consideration of the matter of appointing a Vice Chairman and of selecting a Treasurer and Chairman of the Finance Committee.

"A headquarters will be established as soon as possible in New York with a branch in Chicago and another branch in some city further West. That is as far as we have gone on this initial meeting to organize for the campaign. To-night we shall map out plans for expanding the campaign organization and the formation of sub-committees."

"It is a matter of gratification," the Governor remarked, "that the entire matter came out the way it did. We arrived at each conclusion on a basis of informal discussion among friends, and our conclusions were practically unanimous."

Immediately after giving out his statement during the recess of the conference Gov. Wilson called the "cabinet" in night session.

There were present William G. McAdoo, Col. McCombs, Mr. Burleson, Joseph E. Davies of Wisconsin, Robert S. Hudspeth, Josephus Daniels, Willard L. Saulsbury, A. Mitchell Palmer, Senator Gore, and Senator O'Gorman.

Mr. McAdoo remained only throughout the afternoon conference, and Senator O'Gorman did not join the others at dinner in the Wilson home, he having made a previous appointment for dinner at the home of a friend in the nearby village of Spring Lake.

It is the intention to open the New York headquarters at once in the uptown hotel district, and if possible near Times Square. National Chairman McCombs will keep in close touch with Sea Girt over a special long-distance telephone wire, which will be put in next week. He will hold conferences frequently with the members of the Campaign Committee, but not at stated intervals, and will preserve, so far as practicable, the full powers in their respective States of the members of the National Committee.

It is planned to make each National Committeeman Chairman of the Finance Committee for his own State, and to raise the bulk of the campaign fund through the National Committee. At the Chicago headquarters and the Far Western headquarters National Committeemen from the surrounding States will be freely consulted, as will the National Committeemen from the Eastern tier of States at the New York headquarters.

One member of the Campaign Committee, Joseph A. Reed of Missouri, is a close personal friend and adherent of Champ Clark. It was Reed who nominated Clark at Baltimore, and when Senator Stone released the Clark delegates near the end of the struggle, Reed arose in his place to remark that he proposed to go right on voting for Clark and go down in the last ditch still fighting for him.

William J. Bryan is well represented on the committee so far as personal friends are concerned. Senator Gore has long been an admirer of the Nebraskan leader. Senator O'Gorman was indorsed by Bryan at Baltimore as an ideal compromise candidate, while Burleson of Texas and King of Oregon have long been Bryan enthusiasts.

"I shall try to get the campaign started at the earliest possible date," said Col. McCombs after the night conference, "and all our plans are being made with that end in view. I have not yet selected a place for the New York headquarters, but I favor a site not far from Times Square."

Among Gov. Wilson's callers to-day were Edgar Allan Poe, Attorney General of Maryland, and a number of other Maryland politicians, who wished to talk over the local situation in their State.

Before their conference with Gov. Wilson his distinguished visitors held something closely approaching a love feast on the Little White House lawn. William G. McAdoo greeted warmly the veteran North Carolina editor, Josephus Daniels, and also the blind Senator from Oklahoma. Mr. Palmer of Pennsylvania, a young leader of young men, leaned against one of the old brass cannon near Gov. Wilson's residence while he exchanged confidences with Mr. Davies, the only man in the "veranda cabinet" who is Palmer's junior in point of years.

The first visitor of the day to arrive was Mr. McAdoo, who came in a small touring car from his Summer home at Bay Head. With him was his daughter, and while McAdoo talked with Gov. Wilson, Miss Jessie Woodrow Wilson took Miss McAdoo for an automobile spin along the Jersey coast.

An hour after Mr. McAdoo's arrival an automobile brought Col. McCombs, Congressman Burleson, and Mr. Saulsbury from the New Monmouth Hotel at Spring Lake. Close behind them came Josephus Daniels, Senator Gore, and Mr. Davies. Senator O'Gorman came alone from the 2:39 train, and Mr. Palmer came on a train arriving a few minutes later from Philadelphia. The last of those who had been summoned to arrive was Robert S. Hudspeth, who was Gov. Wilson's spokesman at Chicago.

By common consent Senator Gore was accepted by his fellow-conferrees as the political oracle of the day. He was urged to bring Senator La Follette and his supporters into the Wilson campaign.

"There is one thing I am sure of," said Senator Gore, "and that is that La Follette won't have to be baptized when he comes in. He has already made his profession of faith. We can accept him on his letters."

"You see, it was this way," laughed Col. McCombs, addressing the reporters; "the committee met in Chicago and read the newspaper forecasts on what we were going to do. We concluded we had to behave as scheduled or else leave the Sea Girt correspondents in a very bad way with their newspapers. That left us nothing to do except carry out the programme as published. Hence I am here and ready to take up the duties assigned to me."

At midnight Col. McCombs announced that the conference would stand adjourned until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, when it would reconvene at the New Monmouth Hotel. Most of the members of the conference went to the New Monmouth to spend the night.

MAYOR IN AUTO ACCIDENT?

Witnesses Say He Was in Car Which Struck Pole—No Police Report.

There is a broken electric light pole at the corner of Pacific and Clinton Streets, Brooklyn, around which Mayor Gaynor's limousine turns about 4:30 every day on the way to his home in Eighth Avenue. A limousine turned the corner about that time yesterday, struck the pole, which snapped off, and in falling broke the railing and a piece of the window ledge on the first floor of 201 Clinton Street.

Mrs. Annie Brennen and her four children live there, and when they heard the crash yesterday they ran out of the house. Mrs. Brennen recognized the car as the Mayor's, or at least one like it in every particular, but she wasn't sure whether Mayor Gaynor was in it. Two youths who saw the car skid into the pole were sure he was, however.

Mrs. Brennen saw the chauffeur, who had dismounted, talking to two policemen, and as she watched the chauffeur climbed back to his seat and drove away.

Later it developed that there was no report of such an accident at the Butler Street Station, and the two policemen, when they were questioned, finally admitted that a car had hit the pole, but it had got away so fast, they said, that they hadn't got the number. They didn't seem to recall having talked to the chauffeur.

Mayor Gaynor was not at his home when reporters called, and no one there knew anything of the accident.

GIRL OF 12 AND BABY PUT OUT

Sat on Steps All Night—Found Hungry on Bench Next Day.

Patrolman Beerman, of the Mercer Street Station, noticed a tired little girl sitting with a baby on one of the benches of Washington Square Park at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and again when he passed there at 7 o'clock. When he questioned her, the girl said she had been wandering with the baby since Wednesday and had no place to go.

She said she was Jennie Giele, 12 years old, and lived on Prospect Avenue, the Bronx. On Wednesday, she said, her mother had been taken away to a hospital, and when her father came home in the evening he put her and Julia, the 18-month old baby, out of the house, locked the flat and went away. Jennie said she and the baby spent Wednesday night on the steps of the house. Yesterday morning, with the baby in a go-cart, Jennie started for the home of an aunt in upper Second Avenue. The aunt gave them something to eat, and then told them to go along.

Then Jennie wheeled her little sister down town, intending to go to Fourth Street, where they had formerly lived. She remembered Washington Square Park, she said, when she saw it, and having nowhere else to rest, and feeling very tired, she stopped there.

"We are pretty hungry," she told the policeman. She and Julia made good the statement at the station where, through the providing of Lieut. Finn, they managed to put away two quarts of milk and cakes innumerable.

The children were turned over to the Children's Society for the night. The police meanwhile are trying to find the father and mother, although Jennie could not tell them the number of her home or the name of the hospital to which her mother was taken.

$12,000 SEASIDE BURGLARY.

Villa of Charles P. Sinnickson at Narragansett Pier Robbed.

Special to The New York Times.

NARRAGANSETT PIER, R. I., July 18.—Burglars last night visited the villa of Charles P. Sinnickson of Philadelphia, on Ocean Road, and stole about $12,000 worth of jewels.

It is understood that Mrs. Offley Shore, wife of Lieut. Col. Shore, of the English Army, who is a guest at the Sinnickson villa, is the largest loser of jewels. She and Miss Elizabeth Sinnickson of Philadelphia are other occupants of the villa.

According to Chief of Police Caswell, he was notified by telephone late last night, and he dispatched Patrolmen George H. Browning and Samuel Tucker to the scene of the robbery. They found that the burglars had forced an entrance through a window over the piazza in the second story of the villa, and had entered three bedrooms and taken the jewels.

It is supposed that Mr. Sinnickson and his guests were dining on the first floor when the robbers entered the house. Among the jewels taken by the burglars were a diamond brooch in the shape of a Greek cross and pendant and necklace of antique Spanish design.

One of the theories advanced is that the burglars arrived at the pier in a motor boat and made their way to the Sinnickson villa, which is near the Summer place of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hanan. Last year seven robberies occurred here during the season. The list of jewels as given by the police includes:

One diamond brooch in the form of a Greek cross, 1 Tecla pearl necklace and clasp, 1 pair of diamond earrings and diamond pendant in blue velvet box, 1 pair of enamel links with rose diamonds, 1 pendant and necklace, old Spanish design; a small jewel box containing black enameled stickpin, a diamond pin, 1 diamond ring with black enamel, 1 moonstone ring, 1 diamond pin set in platina, 1 yellow money bag containing about $60 in cash, another wallet with about $4 in change.

The Police Departments of New York, Providence, and Newport have been notified of the burglary.

HAYS'S DEATH SPOILED DEAL.

Now Holders of $10,000,000 Option on Ohio Coal Land Are in Quandary.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, July 18.—When Charles M. Hays, President of the Grand Trunk Railroad, perished with the Titanic, there were lost signed contracts closing a deal for 30,000 acres of coal in Belmont County, Ohio. The deal involved the payment of $10,000,000 to a syndicate of Pittsburgh men who held options on the property.

The deal was arranged with Mr. Hays by J. R. Paul, ex-Vice President of the Bank of Pittsburgh, and W. R. Woodford, ex-Vice President of the Pittsburgh Coal Company. Mr. Hays went to London and laid the offer before the Board of Directors of the Grand Trunk and advised that the land be bought. The Directors authorized Hays to close the deal and the papers were signed.

Since the death of Hays the Pittsburghers have found the Grand Trunk officials indifferent to the purchase and may be compelled to pay dearly for an extension of their options or raise the price of the property to protect themselves.

THIRD PARTY LEADERS FEW AT OYSTER BAY

Scarcely Any Political Powers Among Everyday Visitors Now and Roosevelt Seems Worried.

FACTIONS HARD TO RECONCILE

Some Want a Straight Movement and Others Demand Compromises to Save State Tickets.

Special to The New York Times.

OYSTER BAY, July 18.—The abandonment of his Western primary trip by Col. Roosevelt has lent color to the reports that the third party movement is not going ahead as smoothly as the Colonel had hoped, and, that with the National convention drawing near, this is giving him no little worry. The visitors at Sagamore Hill during the past week have been those who came on to discuss economic questions, and do not hold places prominent in the political life of the country. Few of his former leaders have been in conference with the Colonel of late. As yet nothing definite has been done to smooth over the differences between him and some of his managers in Pennsylvania, and the Colonel has remained grimly silent when told that similar situations seemed likely to develop in other States.

Col. Roosevelt is now facing a dilemma where the more radical of his followers are demanding a straight third party movement, while other leaders, who wish to save their State tickets and organizations, are for some form of compromise which will aid their personal interests. With all his political shrewdness and experience the Colonel is finding it an almost impossible task to reconcile the factions, and the lack of success with which his efforts have met has left him in no very pleasant frame of mind.

To-day he explained the giving up of his primary campaign by saying that it had been found impossible for him to make the trip before the convention and do the other work in hand.

His two most prominent advisers at this time, Senator Dixon and George W. Perkins, had decided that he should send letters to the States where he had promised to appear on the stump, outlining his position on the more vital questions. He would deal also in these letters with local situations.

The majority of his managers has contended right along that it would be best to allow the various States to work out their own problems, and these managers are trying their best to have Col. Roosevelt keep his hands off.

As if in acquiescence to this request, Col. Roosevelt let it be known to-day that final declaration of his political beliefs would be held in abeyance until the convention of the Progressives, and would then come in the form of an address by him, to be delivered the first day of the convention. "The platform of the National Progressive Party," he said, "would be a contract with the people, and the party would sign a contract to undertake certain well-defined duties. It would be a movement close to the people."

A report that Senator Dixon, the Roosevelt campaign manager, was at heart against a third party brought a prompt reply from the Colonel. Dixon, like Gov. Johnson of California, he said, was one of the men who had been for a straight Progressive Party, and was opposed to any cleavage between the Progressives and the Republicans.

Col. Roosevelt had a number of visitors to-day, but only two of them—Ralph C. Otis and Day McBirney, Roosevelt workers in Chicago—could be classed as leaders in the political field. They said the situation was satisfactory in Illinois, and expressed the belief that Gov. Deneen would come out for Roosevelt in the end.

"Yes, I believe we will take Illinois," was Col. Roosevelt's comment after the conference. He said also that he hoped to carry Kings County 3 to 1, and that the situation in New York was very hopeful.

Other visitors at Sagamore Hill included Dr. Henry Moskowitz, Dean Kirchwey of the Columbia University Law School, Homer Folks, Secretary of the State Board of Charities, and Walter Weyl, John A. Kingsbury, and Paul W. Kellogg, settlement workers. Last night the Colonel was in conference with Mr. Linehan of Indianapolis, a representative of the unions of railroad men.

$1,000 TO SEE ROOSEVELT.

One of the Colonel's Followers Buys Fifty Convention Tickets.

CHICAGO, July 18.—The sale of tickets to the third party National convention in Chicago on Aug. 5 was opened at headquarters to-day. Within a few hours it was announced that $1,500 had been received, $1,000 of this amount being for fifty tickets for one man, whose name was not made public. Medill McCormick said it was planned to have the receipts from the tickets pay most of the convention expenses, estimated at $25,000.

A general Committee of Arrangements, with various sub-committees, was appointed to-day. Ralph C. Otis, who has been at Oyster Bay consulting Col. Roosevelt, was made Chairman. The committee is to have charge of all details, including disposal of tickets and finances.

Gov. Deneen was asked by telegram to-day when he would receive a committee appointed to ask him and other candidates for State offices whether he would support Col. Roosevelt or President Taft.

Mr. McCormick to-day gave out the substance of a telegram from Senator Joseph M. Dixon in which the Senator was quoted as recommending that a ticket be put out in Illinois upon which a candidate for Governor favorable to Col. Roosevelt might run.

The mass meeting which recently issued a call for the State Convention on Aug. 3 did not provide specifically for a State ticket.

National control of the building through any State of a lakes-to-the-gulf deep waterway and the use of the Panama Canal machinery in guarding the Mississippi River against floods were favored by Col. Roosevelt in a letter made public to-day by La Verne W. Noyes.

"Only by a new party, in which all join on equal terms, can the needed social and industrial tasks demanded by our people be successfully undertaken," says the letter, "and one of the greatest of these tasks is the development of the Mississippi."

Mr. Noyes had asked Col. Roosevelt whether Illinois should expend $20,000,000 for building its part of the deep waterway. Col. Roosevelt's reply said there was no need for Illinois to pay $20,000,000 or any part of it in an individual attempt to build a deep waterway from the Lakes to the gulf, that being a task for the Nation, since the Nation alone could properly do it. It was an inter-State matter.

Alexander H. Revell, Chairman of the Roosevelt National Committee, has issued a statement denying the repeated allegations in French and English newspapers that Col. Roosevelt's campaign was unsportsmanlike, according to a Paris cable to The Chicago Daily News. Mr. Revell predicts that Mr. Taft will run a weak third in the November Presidential election.

"I have seen," said Mr. Revell, "some criticisms in English and French papers of Col. Roosevelt's sportsmanship or lack thereof in not accepting the result of the Chicago convention and in not congratulating the victor. Thank goodness, Roosevelt is an American first and then a sportsman.

"Let me ask is it customary in England or France after a test of strength to extend the glad hand to the man still up when the spectators saw the blow beneath the belt?"

CUBAN TROOPS KILL THE REBELS' LEADER

Gen. Ivonet Surrounded and Slain After a Search Lasting Three Weeks.

WITHDRAWING OUR MARINES

Navy Department, Owing to the Improved Situation, Orders Two Companies to Return Home.

SANTIAGO, Cuba, July 18.—Gen. Pedro Ivonet, the negro rebel leader for whom the Government troops have been diligently searching since the battle three weeks ago at Vega Ballaco, was surrounded and killed this morning at Nueva Escocia, near Caney, by troops under Lieut. Ortiz.

Gen. Ivonet's body will be brought into Santiago to-night.

Gen. Julio Antomarchi, the negro rebel leader who threatened death to all foreigners and the destruction of all foreign properties, surrendered to-day to the authorities at El Cobre with two of his followers, the remainder of his once numerous band. Antomarchi was the last rebel leader of any importance remaining at large.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The reassuring reports of quiet in the eastern end of Cuba and the capture and death of Ivonet, one of the most active of the leaders of the negro insurrection, have made it practicable to withdraw some of the marines that were sent to Guantanamo six weeks ago, when there was a possibility of a general outbreak.

Orders were issued to-day for two companies of marines to be transported on the collier Cyclops, from Guantanamo to Philadelphia.

Gen. Ivonet, together with Gen. Evaristo Estenoz, took to the field in Oriente Province with about 1,500 men in May as a protest against the Morua law, which provides that there shall be no recognition of political parties on racial lines.

After burning and pillaging for a month the rebels were finally surrounded by Government troops at Vega Ballaco. The troops attacked on June 26 and the rebels were routed, Gen. Estenoz being killed.

Gen. Ivonet was reported to have been severely wounded, but he eluded the cordon of troops and fled to the Guantanamo Valley, where he took refuge.

CAUGHT AFTER 13 YEARS.

Prisoner Denies It, but Employers Sure He's Defaulting Bookkeeper.

The woolen firm of Goodman Brothers found a shortage of between $20,000 and $30,000 in their books thirteen years ago when they were at Broadway and Grand Street, and suspecting their bookkeeper, James Fisher, who had had the power to sign checks and had had much to do with the firm's finances, they reported to the District Attorney, and Fisher was indicted. Suspicion was directed against him by the discovery that he had opened a saloon.

They never caught the man, however, for he left his house without coat or collar just as a detective called with a warrant, and from then the police got no trace of him until last night Joel B. Goodman and Benjamin Goodman, the brothers who compose the firm, were in a Broadway car, and at Thirty-first Street saw a man whom they decided was their missing bookkeeper.

They alighted and followed him to Fifth Avenue and Thirtieth Street, where they met Policeman Trimont, and got him to make the arrest. At the Tenderloin Station the prisoner said he was Thomas Fisher, a liquor dealer at Smith and Livingston Streets, Brooklyn. He admitted that he had worked for Goodman Brothers, but said that he was a brother of the man the police were looking for. He said he had been a salesman for the firm and not the bookkeeper, and left the firm's employ a year before the embezzlement was discovered.

Despite Fisher's protestations he was locked up when Detective Crystal, who had been assigned to the case thirteen years ago, visited the station house and identified him from an enlargement of the bookkeeper's photograph which he had had made at the time of his disappearance.

DENIES DIVORCE TO PAIGE.

Reno Judge Hears Wife's Accusations and Decides Accordingly.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, July 18.—Edward A. Paige's application for a divorce from Mary A. Paige was denied to-day by Judge Orr of the District Court. Paige came from New York and asked divorce on the ground of desertion.

His wife through an attorney declared that he wanted a divorce so that he could marry the mother of her son-in-law, John E. Simpson. She also accused him of improper conduct with Minnie Brannon, a New York actress, with whom he went to Europe on a trip of several months, she asserted. She produced the records of the steamship company to prove it, even to a photograph of Paige's signature on the customs baggage declaration.

Paige stated on the witness stand that on the ocean trip the woman occupied the stateroom while he slept every night on the deck of the steamer.

He was with the Fletcher Company in New York. His wife, Mary A. Paige, is at present in New York.

SUFFRAGETTES TRY TO BURN A THEATRE

A Blazing Chair Is Thrown Into the Orchestra of a Dublin House.

HATCHET HURLED AT ASQUITH

Premier Was in a Carriage When Futile Attack Was Made—City Gives Him an Ovation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 18.—Militant suffragettes perpetrated an extraordinary outrage this evening in the Theatre Royal, Dublin, where Premier Asquith is to speak to-morrow.

Just as the audience was leaving the theatre after a vaudeville performance a woman in a box set fire to the curtains of the box and then hurled a lighted chair, which was apparently soaked with oil, into the orchestra.

The audience became alarmed, but the attendants were able to restore calm and extinguish the flames. In the box was found a quantity of petrol and other inflammable material.

Another woman, seated in the dress circle, simultaneously threw something at the cinematograph operator.

Both women were arrested. After the incident the two suffragettes handed in a statement at the office of The Irish Times, saying they had come to Ireland for the purpose of burning the theatre.

Earlier in the evening a number of suffragettes chartered boats with a view to making a demonstration as the steamer carrying Mr. Asquith came near the harbor. They were frustrated by the police.

Home Secretary McKenna was the subject of a suffragette attack at Caerleon, Wales, to-day. He was about to mount a platform in order to deliver an address when a woman burst through the crowd, caught Mr. McKenna by the shoulders, and gave him a vigorous shaking.

The police hustled the woman unceremoniously down the steps of the platform amid cries of "Throw her into the river!"

DUBLIN, July 18.—Two outrages attributed to suffragettes marred the welcome which Dublin to-day extended to Premier Asquith. While his carriage was passing through Prince's Street a woman threw a hatchet at it.

It was at first reported that the weapon struck John E. Redmond, the Nationalist leader, on the head, but this proved to be erroneous. Mr. Redmond was slightly injured while entering the Gresham Hotel, where the crush was so great that his head was jammed against the door. When he appeared on the balcony with the Prime Minister it was seen that his ear was bleeding, and it was supposed that this was due to a blow with the hatchet.

Another serious affair, also seemingly of suffragette origin, occurred at the Dublin theatre where Mr. Asquith will speak to-morrow. In the course of an entertainment a blazing chair, apparently oil soaked, was thrown from a box into the orchestra. The curtain of the box caught fire and the audience was thrown into a panic. Attendants extinguished the flames and order was restored. One woman in the box made her escape from the theatre. Another woman, who aided in the incendiarism, was arrested. She will be examined by a Magistrate to-morrow.

The woman arrested gave the name of Gladys Evans. She said she came from England. It is reported that a supply of petrol was found in the box.

Suffragettes chartered small boats at Kingstown, about seven miles from Dublin, with a view to making a demonstration on the arrival of the Premier's boat, but were prevented from doing so by the vigilance of the authorities.

The Prime Minister received a vociferous popular welcome here to-night. On his arrival he was met by Augustine Birrell, Chief Secretary for Ireland; the Nationalist leaders, and the Mayors of Dublin, Cork, and other cities. A torchlight procession, with forty bands and thousands of lights, escorted the carriage to a hotel amid a sustained roar of welcome, the Premier constantly standing in his carriage and bowing his acknowledgments, and Mrs. Asquith scattering flowers among the crowd.

On the arrival of the carriage at the hotel, Premier Asquith and Mrs. Asquith, John E. Redmond, leader of the Irish Nationalists, and the Lord Mayor of Dublin proceeded to an elaborately decorated balcony, where Mr. Redmond publicly welcomed the Prime Minister. Great crowds gathered in the street and gave the Premier an ovation.

Mr. Asquith, in a brief speech, said that this was the first time the chief Minister of the Crown had visited Ireland since the Act of the Union, and it was beyond his power adequately to thank the people for their magnificent and memorable welcome. He came on a mission of peace between artificially estranged peoples. They would not forget Grattan and Parnell now that they were entering into the fruits of the labors of those men.

The Premier said he was the Ambassador of a treaty of perpetual peace between Ireland and Great Britain and he assured the Irish people on behalf of the Liberal Party and British Democracy that they meant to bring their cause to a speedy issue.

The procession then reformed and the party drove to the Viceregal Lodge, where they will be guests during their stay in Dublin.

LONDON, July 18.—Another Minister, the Right Hon. Reginald McKenna, Secretary for Home Affairs, has been the victim of unpleasant Suffragette attentions.

At a public ceremony at Caerleon, Monmouthshire, to-day a woman burst through the spectators, seized Mr. McKenna by the shoulders, and shook him vigorously before the onlookers realized what had happened. The woman was then roughly ejected.

Only last month the Home Secretary was attacked by a Suffragette in the presence of the King and Queen at Llandaff, South Wales.

GIRL OF 15 VOTED.

Los Angeles Judge Orders Investigation of Election Fraud.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 18.—There was a stir in Justice Summerfield's court to-day when Lillian Handy, asserting that she was only 15 years old, admitted to Deputy District Attorney Graham that she had registered to vote at the last election.

"Do you mean to say you swore falsely as to your age?" demanded the court.

"I did not swear at all," was the answer. "The woman who registered me was working for the Socialist Party. I was a patient at the County Hospital. She said all I need do was to sign my name to a blank, and I did so."

Mr. Graham produced the affidavit, which was brought into court from the Registration Bureau. He submitted it to Justice Summerfield, who ordered a thorough investigation.

ST. LOUIS GIRLS WEAR SOCKS

So Warm Out There They Can't Stand Long Hose.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 18.—St. Louis society girls are wearing men's silk socks and using men's garters to hold them up, just because the weather is warm. Anyhow, that's the excuse they give here for the latest fad.

They don't confine themselves to black and gray and brown, according to inside information, but some of the most riotous colors in the rainbow are most in demand. No protests have been heard.

One girl, who was among the earliest this Summer to buy socks instead of stockings, was asked by a curious visitor to whom she had confided her new scheme for staying cool how she kept them up.

"It's a funny thing, but I find I don't need to use any garters," she said. "They stay up themselves."

She admitted that most of her sisters had to use the masculine style of garter.

ANNUITY FOR HUYLER DOCTOR

Physician Who Accompanied Candy Man Abroad Gets $3,000 a Year.

Dr. Richard Ellis, who was the physician for John S. Huyler, the candy manufacturer, is to receive from the Huyler estate $3,000 a year in compliance with an agreement made just before Mr. Huyler sailed for Europe in September, 1908.

At that time Mr. Huyler was not in good health and had been advised to go abroad. He asked his old friend, Dr. Ellis, to travel with him, and made the agreement that Dr. Ellis receive $3,000 from Mr. Huyler or his heirs during the lifetime of the doctor. The executors, after looking over the agreement, decided to abide by its terms.

This agreement was found among Mr. Huyler's papers by the State Appraisers. According to the calculation of the State Controller's office, the value of this annuity, based on the standard mortality tables, is $35,676.

JACK ROSE HELD; AUTO'S OWNERS SEEK FOR TERMS

Now Reported That "Big Jack" Zelig Was Seen Bargaining with Latest Prisoner.

ROSE ADMITS HIRING CAR

But Declares He Left It Long Before Rosenthal Was Shot Down.

MAYOR STARTS AN INQUIRY

Waldo Brings Becker and Other Policemen to Gaynor's Office on His Order.

LAWYER IMPLICATES POLICE

Levy Says Men Who Shot Rosenthal Told Shapiro the "Cops Were Fixed."

WHITMAN REPLIES TO WALDO

Says Murder Checked His Inquiry and He Must Depend on Superior Facilities of the Police.

Jack Rose, the man whom Herman Rosenthal charged with being the "collector" for Police Lieutenant Charles Becker of the "Strong Arm Squad," in the accusations the gambler made before he was murdered in front of the Hotel Metropole early Tuesday morning, walked into Police Headquarters yesterday morning. A few hours later he was locked in a cell in the Tombs, charged with murder. Rose's arrest followed closely upon the appearance of the newspapers yesterday morning with the story that Jack Rose was the man who on Monday hired the gray automobile which carried the murderers into West Forty-third Street and in which they escaped.

The arrest of Rose for murder was the longest stride made so far in the investigation which is being pushed simultaneously by the District Attorney, the Police Commissioner, and Mayor Gaynor. Mayor Gaynor has taken a hand in the case, and yesterday summoned Commissioner Waldo and Lieut. Becker before him, together with two members of Becker's squad. The Mayor declined to discuss the situation, but it was plain to those that know him that the Mayor was more deeply distressed by the developments in the Rosenthal case than by anything that has arisen since he took office. He was determined to go to the bottom of it, it was said, but his complete confidence in Commissioner Waldo was unshaken.

The Commissioner, it was said, felt justified in telling the Mayor that the police have a very good idea of the men's identity who were in the auto Rose hired. He assured the Mayor, it was said, that those men would be arrested without exception.

Sure of Capturing the Murderers.

When Deputy Commissioner Dougherty and Inspector Hughes departed from Police Headquarters yesterday afternoon they expressed confidence that they would get the murderers. This confidence seemed to have grown stronger after Rose's arrest—Rose, who, according to the information obtained by the police and by the District Attorney, made no attempt to deny that he hired the gray automobile on the night of the murder.

"Rose's statement to me," said Deputy Commissioner Dougherty, "does not implicate Lieut. Becker. I believe that Becker was entirely without knowledge that the murder was going to take place, and all I ask in this case is fair play until the facts are made known."

District Attorney Whitman yesterday answered the sharp letter which Commissioner Waldo wrote him the day before, in which the Police Commissioner said he regretted that any one should be so moved by a desire for publicity as to attack the reputation of 10,400 men. In his answer yesterday Mr. Whitman said:

> We are servants of the public. In this crisis our duty of co-operation should not be affected by too much attention to printed stories. My heart is in this matter. I want to show the criminals of New York that when a man, no matter how low, offers his aid to the Public Prosecutor he will be protected, or, if he falls, that those responsible for his death, however remotely, shall be punished to the extremity of the law.

In his letter Mr. Whitman pointed out that his resources for detecting crime were small as compared with the Police Commissioner's, and that he was proceeding with the work "dreadfully checked by murder." The fact that the District Attorney's office was not equipped with a corps of detectives made the prosecutor feel that he was hampered in dealing with the present situation, and it was reported that Mr. Whitman had hired Detective W. J. Burns.

Whitman Won't Admit Hiring Burns.

This report could not be confirmed either at the Burns office in Park Row, from Mr. Burns himself, who was reported last evening to be in Atlantic City, or from Mr. Whitman. When Mr. Whitman was asked if he had retained the services of the Burns Agency to clear up the Rosenthal case he refused to answer the question.

"I would rather you wouldn't ask me," he said. "You can see that, even if I had called upon the Burns people to [illegible] me, it would be manifestly impossible for me to say anything about it. So why ask me?"

Mr. Whitman had as a visitor at his home, 37 Madison Avenue, for almost three hours last night a man concerning whom there is complete mystery to every one except the District Attorney. Mr. Whitman would not discuss his visitor, although he admitted that the talk had to do with the Rosenthal murder and the gambling situation.

"I shall have nothing to say to-night concerning the man who called on me," said Mr. Whitman. "You have guessed why he was here. Perhaps to-morrow I shall have matters so arranged that I can discuss his visit to-night and give details of what I have learned."

The name of Jack Rose was first brought into the story of the movements of what has come to be called the "murder car," when Assemblyman Aaron J. Levy of 320 Broadway, counsel for Louis Libby and William Shapiro, the owners of the automobile, said on Wednesday evening that Shapiro told him in the Tombs that Rose had hired his car. Mr. Levy saw his clients again for a few minutes yesterday and then went to the Criminal Court Building for a brief talk with District Attorney Whitman.

"I believe," he said, "that the right thing for my clients to do, is to tell the whole truth about the affair of Monday night and Tuesday morning to the District Attorney. I think that they should be so advised in the interests of the whole community, and I think I can promise that that is what they will do, after I have completed my arrangements with Mr. Whitman."

Libby and Shapiro Seek Terms.

From this it was gathered that both Libby and Shapiro were anxious to get under the protecton of the prosecutor, but if Mr. Levy maintains the attitude he assumed yesterday, there isn't any likelihood of their telling anything to the police. Mr. Levy did not appear to be satisfied with the treatment accorded his clients at Police Headquarters. He denies that they gave the police any information. This morning Mr. Levy will have his first long talk with his clients, and he says he will have it under the protection of Coroner Feinberg. He said yesterday that he had had trouble in seeing them alone.

"I haven't been able to see those men by themselves," he said. "There was always some one in the counsel room. I don't want to accuse the Tombs management of hampering me, however, for they have a difficult problem because of the limited space."

Because of innumerable requests for interviews and what he described as "garbled statements" attributed to him, Mr. Levy handed out a typewritten statement yesterday, in which he said:

> I will say at this time, that the following occurrence is rather peculiar and the delay occasioned by it, under ordinary circumstances, might have well afforded an opportunity to the police to have made necessary arrests.
>
> Shapiro told me after the shooting he was working with his motor, and pretended it would not start. One of the parties said: "Don't stall that engine. You had better get it started and be damned quick about it.
>
> Shapiro still hesitated, and one of the parties said: "Go on, you fool, get started; don't you know the cops are fixed and no one will bother us? It is a clean getaway."
>
> Until this feature is properly and satisfactorily explained, I am at a loss to understand it.

This statement from Mr. Levy added flame to the criticism of the police inactivity at the time of the murder. Reporters gathered about Mr. Levy later in the afternoon as he was starting for Long Branch and asked him to give more details of what his clients had said.

"Do you believe that this murder was a gamblers' feud?" he was asked.

"I do not," he replied.

"Do you believe that it was a gang feud?"

"I do not."

"Well, then, what kind of a feud do you think it was, Mr. Levy?"

"Now, then, I am afraid I have as good as told you already," he said.

Says Murder Was Due to a Plot.

"No," he went on in answer to another question, "I do not think that the killing was done on the spur of the moment, and that is why I think it is of such great moment to the people of this city. A plot? Yes, a plot that began, I should say, when the newspapers let it be known that Whitman was going to carry the Rosenthal story to the Grand Jury."

"But, Mr. Levy," the reporters said, "you know that all the District Attorney was investigating was the Becker story."

"Well," said Mr. Levy, nodding his head significantly.

One story that cropped up yesterday concerned the movements of Rose on Monday night and brought in the name of "Big Jack" Zelig, said to be the right hand man of Sam Paul. The police are now investigating his movements. Zelig was arrested in a Second Avenue café two months or more ago, charged with carrying concealed weapons after a gang fight. In the station house Detectives White and Steinhardt, who were before the Mayor yesterday, and who at that time were temporarily off the "strong arm squad," took from his pockets a revolver. He declared that they had put it there. It was Zelig, in this same case, who was shot down by one of the Chick Trigger gang outside the Criminal Courts Building when he was released on bail. It was Zelig who after his recovery and upon his arraignment on the gun-carrying charge was to have been taken from the detectives, according to an elaborate plan that brought down to the neighborhood of the Criminal Courts Building the very same gray auto, the police say, that carried the murderers to the Hotel Metropole on Tuesday morning.

And Zelig, so ran the story which was heard in the Criminal Court Building yesterday, was seen talking to Jack Rose at Twelfth Street and Third Avenue on the night of the murder. According to the story, Rose was trying to get Zelig to do something for him, and the reward was to be large. Zelig was to be freed, without further inconvenience to him, of the gun-carrying charge still lodged against him in the courts.

The one striking thing about Rose's apprehension yesterday morning was the fact that he walked into Police Headquarters, unattended. According to his lawyer, he was surprised to see his name in the papers, appearing as that of the man who hired the auto on the night of the murder, and went immediately to Headquarters, after notifying his lawyer of his intention over the telephone. According to Commissioner Dougherty, he and Inspector Hughes had told Sam Paul and "Bridgey" Webber, a material witness in the case, that the police would like to see Jack Rose. According to one story, Mayor Gaynor ordered that Jack Rose be "brought in" and another story had it that Becker himself attended to the capture.

"Isn't it rather odd," asked Assemblyman Levy, "that within one hour after Mayor Gaynor gave the order to produce Rose he was produced, when all the day before they had been saying he was out of this jurisdiction—out West somewhere?"

However odd it might have seemed to Mr. Levy, it was certain that a very strong impression was created yesterday that Rose was nowhere to be found. Not from the police and not from the District Attorney did the reporters learn of the part that Rose had played, and yet they printed it. Then Rose appeared and was held under a short affidavit drawn by Detective Wilbur, which read:

> I charge Jacob Rose of 515 West 110th Street, on information received from William Shapiro, that he did hire Shapiro's automobile and rode to the vicinity of Forty-second Street and Forty-third Street and Sixth Avenue about 2 A. M. on July 16, at which time the deceased, Herman Rosenthal, met his death by pistol shot wounds. I accuse him of acting in concert with others in causing Rosenthal's death.

Rose appeared before the Coroner cool and collected. He was well dressed in a suit of gray with a silk shirt. But the pre-eminently conspicuous thing about the man's appearance was his baldness. There is not a hair on his head and he has hardly any eyebrows, wherefore they call him "Billiard Ball Jack."

Rose Once Rosenthal's Partner.

It was Rose, who, according to Rosenthal, was installed in the West Forty-fifth Street establishment to see that Lieut. Becker got his share of the receipts. It was Rose, who, according to Attorney Hibbard, leant Rosenthal money on a chattel mortgage. It was Rose, who, on Monday night, went with Charles Plitt to Rosenthal's first wife, Dora Gilbert, in East Twenty-seventh Street, and there obtained from her a long affidavit to be used in Becker's behalf should Rosenthal ever take the stand to press his charges against the head of the Strong Arm Squad.

As the story was reconstructed yesterday from the conferences in the Tombs between Lawyer Levy and his clients, Libby and Shapiro, Libby was at the stand by the Café Boulevard when the call for his auto came from a man speaking for Rose, from Tom Sharkey's saloon at Fourteenth Street and Third Avenue. According to the story told yesterday, Rose first hired an auto from the Imperial Garage in East Second Street. The tire of this auto was punctured outside Sharkey's saloon, it was said, so the gray car was sent for. It was Shapiro who took it up to the appointed place and there Rose got in. It was not brought out whether there were any others with him at the time.

The route followed was to where Forty-second Street crosses Sixth Avenue. There, according to Shapiro, Rose got out and two other men got in from a building near by. Was this building the one that houses a gaming establishment said to be run by "Bridgey" Webber, the material witness now released in $100 bail, who, however, is to be produced any time the police give the word to his lawyer, Harford T. Marshall? This question is unsettled. But the seeming liberty given to Webber is not believed to be very real.

One of the two men who climbed into the car at this point was described by Shapiro as "Itzky." They left Rose there and went on up to the Bronx, there to take on another passenger. This man came from a private house in that section, and the exact location of the house is known to the authorities. The Deputy Commissioner knows the names of all the men in that car, it was said at Headquarters. The District Attorney is sure he knows the name of at least one. But with Rose out of the car—and he declares positively that he was out of it—there were only three besides Shapiro when the auto came downtown and swept into Forty-third Street for the murder. Yet the District Attorney says four men took part in the murder, and he does not believe that Libby was in the car at all after it left the Café Boulevard until Shapiro routed him out of bed and bade him take the auto back to the garage. Who was the fourth man? On the story of Shapiro and on the story of Rose, it was not Rose. He wasn't there at all, although it isn't certain where he was, as he did not wax very communicative yesterday. He spoke of having gone to Jack's.

Says Rose Surrendered Voluntarily.

James M. Sullivan of 38 Park Row, Rose's lawyer, said yesterday afternoon that Rose surrendered after a consultation with him early yesterday morning, and that the police story that word had been sent to him to surrender was false. Mr. Sullivan was indignant because, he said, the police had made it very difficult for him to get to his client, and he added that if he was interfered with any more he would sue out a writ of mandamus to compel Commissioner Waldo and other police officials to permit him to see Rose at any time he desired. Rose, he added, would, acting under his advice, refuse to make any statements for the time being to either the police or District Attorney Whitman.

"Rose had no idea," said Mr. Sullivan, "that he was wanted until he saw it in in the morning newspapers to-day. When he read that the police wanted him he got into communication with me on the telephone, and said that he would surrender, asking me to meet him at Police Headquarters, so that he would have counsel present when he gave himself up to Commissioner Dougherty. I was there, but the police saw to it that I was of no use to my client in so far as advising him as to his rights and privileges was concerned.

Complains of Rose's Examination.

"Immediately after Rose surrendered the police proceeded to handle him in the usual but unlawful way they have at Headquarters. He was taken into Dougherty's office and there put through the third degree, while I was kept outside, and my repeated requests to be present at the examination were refused. I know they now say that Rose said a lot of things about the Rosenthal case, but I can assure you that I will fight to the limit to keep any part of the alleged statement from the evidence when Rose comes to trial in the event of his indictment.

After the police got through with Rose he was taken to the office of the District Attorney, where I saw him. In my presence District Attorney Whitman told Rose what his rights were and then asked him if he had any statement to make. After consulting with Rose I advised him not to make any statement. Of course, he followed instructions. I wish to say that I do not consider Rose to be in any danger whatsoever in connection with the killing of Rosenthal."

"How about his reputed admission to the police that he was in the automobile that figures in the killing on the night of the murder?" Mr. Sullivan was asked.

"I do not wish to discuss that part of the case beyond making the statement that, even if he was in the car that night, it was nothing unusual. Rose and his friends had used that same auto hundreds of times before, and there was nothing illegal or wrong in their having done so."

"Why, anybody who knows Rose," Mr. Sullivan added, "knows that he would not for the world even injure a fly. His whole career is a peaceful one. He is of a pleasant, happy disposition, and those who know him will bear me out when I say that the last thing in the world he would be mixed up with would be a crime of so violent a nature as this one was."

"Did Rose, to your knowledge, ever have a quarrel with Rosenthal," Mr. Sullivan was asked.

"They never had a quarrel, although they may have had a misunderstanding," the lawyer replied.

"Is there, so far as you know, any truth in the allegation that Rose was the go-between in Becker's alleged dealings with Rosenthal?" was another question put to Mr. Sullivan.

"I deny that Rose was in any way a go-between between Becker and Rosenthal in any capacity whatsoever," Mr. Sullivan answered.

"Have you advised Rose to turn State's evidence and tell Mr. Whitman all he may know about the murder of Rosenthal?" was still another question.

"I certainly have not given him any such advice," the lawyer replied.

This was all that Mr. Sullivan had to say about the predicament that Rose is in.

Gray Car Not at Belleclaire's Door.

One fact that Assemblyman Levy contributed yesterday to clear the situation was his positive statement that whatever the "mysterious woman" may have thought to the contrary, the gray car owned by Louis Libby and used in the Rosenthal murder was not standing at the curb from 6 to 9 on Monday night in front of the Belleclaire Apartments in Washington Heights, where Lieut. Becker lives. Mr. Levy learned this from Shapiro, and he says Shapiro knows. The car, Mr. Levy says, was in the garage being tinkered with the greater part of the evening before its return to the stand near the Café Boulevard.

One favorite visitor at headquarters yesterday and at the District Attorney's office was Sam Paul of the Sam Paul Association—Sam Paul, said to be the backer of the gaming house in the old Sans Souci Music Hall, which was raided late last Monday afternoon, a raid that the police in their theory connect intimately with the murder of Herman Rosenthal. Paul was questioned at length both by Commissioner Dougherty and by Mr. Whitman.

Another visitor of note was "Jack" Sullivan, a news dealer, who, according to Lieut. Becker's own account of his movements on Monday night, was with Becker down in Park Row three-quarters of an hour before the shooting. Sullivan was dropped at Forty-second Street and Sixth Avenue on the Lieutenant's drive uptown, and that is how Becker's car happened to swing toward Broadway at Forty-second Street and to pass within a few feet of the Metropole, not more than twenty minutes before the murder was done. Sullivan, as his story was passed from person to person in Headquarters yesterday, joined "Bridgey" Webber after leaving Becker and spent the early morning hours in that worthy's company.

Lieut. Becker turned up smiling at his office in Police Headquarters at 9 o'clock yesterday morning. He declined at first to say where he had been the night before, but later, it is said, informed friends that he had been home all evening and did not propose to let that fact be known because of Mrs. Becker's illness.

MAYOR TAKES UP THE CASE.

Becker and Other Policemen Taken to His Office on His Orders.

The fact that Mayor Gaynor had decided to take a hand in the tangled situation following the murder of Herman Rosenthal became apparent yesterday when Lieut. Becker came to the City Hall early in the morning. It grew more apparent when he was joined by Commissioner Waldo. Then the two went in to see the Mayor. Later Charles Foy and Charles Steinhardt, detectives, who are members of the Strong Arm Squad, joined them in the Mayor's office. Becker departed from the Mayor's office in no very pleasant frame of mind, to judge from his appearance, but it must be said that through all the excitement since the Rosenthal case first came up, no one has seemed cooler and more composed than he. Never a ruffle appears in his manner, and he laughs and jokes until all at Police Headquarters marvel at his perfect calm. The Commissioner departed from the Mayor's office smiling broadly, but he would not comment on what had gone on inside. The Mayor would not tell what had transpired, but those close to him say that nothing has disturbed him more since he came into office than the murder of the gambler.

Mayor's Letter to Waldo.

The presence of Waldo, Becker, Foy, and Steinhardt in his office was explained by a letter which the Mayor wrote on Wednesday to the Commissioner. Here it is:

> Office of the Mayor, July 17.
>
> Sir: Please have Lieut. Becker and Policemen James White, Charles Foy, and Charles Steinhardt before me at this office at 11 o'clock to-morrow morning. After the precautions we have taken, and all we have devised and done to do away with the long-seated and deep-seated grafting in the Police Department, it is very discouraging to have even these Rosenthal accusations bandied about. To be sure, he was a miserable outlaw, against whom you and your predecessors have been continuously contending, but I would have the repect for the police raised so high that the accusations of such a character would not be extensively credited.
>
> His successive places have been entered by the police under warrants, and held possession of, one after another, for ever two years. And I now see that he was at war with the police and Mr. Jerome before I became Mayor. But he grew more defiant and vindictive all the while. Those who killed him will be found, no doubt and their motives disclosed. But he died as he had lived, having been a lawless character and briber of the police from his youth up. I cannot understand why Lieut. Becker should sit down to dinner with such a scoundrel. That he did seems to be admitted. When Rosenthal made his accusations against your predecessor and his deputy, Mr. Driscoll, I fully investigated the matter, and the statement that I found any wrong on the side of the Commissioner or the deputy, or that the deputy lost his place on the ground of that complaint, is false. On the contrary, I found that Rosenthal and his associates who called on me were the worst gang of men that I had ever seen. This is why I am so greatly surprised that Lieut. Becker should sit down to dinner with any of them or associate with them in any way. Yours very truly,
>
> W. J. GAYNOR, Mayor.
>
> RHINELANDER WALDO, Esq., Police Commissioner, New York City.

Rosenthal's Charges Against Becker.

The ground for the Mayor's letter to the Commissioner was the affidavit sworn to by Rosenthal and published in The World on Sunday. The James White mentioned in the letter and the affidavit could not attend the conference as he was ill in the Presbyterian Hospital. The affidavit said:

> Herman Rosenthal of 104 West Forty-fifth Street, being duly sworn, deposes and says:
>
> The first time I met Charles Becker, now a Lieutenant of police in New York City, and who was holding the same office at the time of our first meeting, was at a ball given by the Order of Elks, in Forty-third Street, near Sixth Avenue, and we had a very good evening, drank very freely, and we became very good friends. Our next meeting was by appointment, on New Year's Eve, 1912, at the Elks' Club. Dinner was served for ten in our party, including Lieut. Becker, Mrs. Becker, and Mrs. Rosenthal, Mr. George Levy and daughter, Mr. Sam Lewis, Mr. Louis Hyman.
>
> We drank a whole lot of champagne that night and late in the morning we were all pretty well under the weather. He put his arms around me and kissed me. He said: "Anything in the world for you, Herman. I'll get up at 3 o'clock in the morning to do you a favor. You can have anything I've got." And then he called over his three men, James White, Charles Foy, and Charles Steinhardt, and he introduced me to the three men, saying: "This is my best pal, and do anything he wants you to do." We went along and we met pretty often.

Both Steinhardt and Foy joined with Becker in denying flatly that any such conversation as that described in the affidavit ever took place. Becker told the Mayor, as he had told the reporters before in the office of his lawyer, John W. Hart, that he and Mrs. Becker were guests at the same ball in the Elks' Club on New Year's Eve with Rosenthal, and that, far from fraternizing with Rosenthal on that occasion, he spent a good part of the evening in trying to avoid the gambler's company, which was thrust upon him from time to time.

When Commissioner Waldo and Lieut. Becker returned from the City Hall yesterday they found ex-District Attorney William Travers Jerome waiting in the Commissioner's office. Mr. Jerome paid Mr. Waldo a half hour's visit. Neither would talk afterward of the visit, but it was understood that the conversation concerned the gambling situation. Mr. Jerome frequently visits Police Headquarters, and it was made clear yesterday that on this occasion he was not sent for.

WHITMAN RETORTS TO WALDO.

Police Duty, Not His, to Continue Inquiry "Checked by Murder."

District Attorney Whitman made public yesterday afternoon a letter which he wrote to Commissioner Waldo in answer to the tart letter the Commissioner sent him the day before. Mr. Whitman "passed over the insulting tone" of the Commissioner's letter, but, for his own part, made a point of telling the Commissioner that attacking the courts for inadequate sentences of gamblers did not help to find the murderers of Rosenthal or to determine the question of partnership by certain policemen with gamblers. He pointed out also that the much urged inquiry could not be conducted save through detectives, and that it was Mr. Waldo and not Mr. Whitman who had charge of the detectives.

The District Attorney reminded Mr. Waldo that the murderers of Herman Rosenthal got away from seven policemen who were very close to the scene of the crime, and who obtained no evidence whatever. One of these was Policeman William T. File, who was in the Metropole off duty when the shooting occurred, and Commissioner Waldo announced yesterday that he had suspended File from duty altogether for the present. Mr. Waldo declined to discuss this move, except to say that there would be an investigation and a trial. File is the only one of the seven to be touched so far. When Mr. Whitman heard of it yesterday, he is reported to have exclaimed:

"File's special offense was that he came down to see me. That's a crime, you know."

File did go down on Wednesday to see the Prosecutor, disturbed beyond his ordinary composure by criticisms of his celerity on the night of the killing, which had been attributed to Mr. Whitman. File, who was seated a few tables away from Rosenthal after midnight in the Metropole, was one of the first to reach the street when the shots rang out. It was File who gave chase in the taxicab, and he has vehemently asserted that he strained every nerve and muscle to make the capture, so greatly did his own future depend on it. The department medal and honorable mention and a certain advance in grade and pay were bright before him. File was formerly a first grade detective, and a great favorite of William J. Flynn when he sat in the throne of Dougherty. File was reduced to patrol duty at the East Sixty-seventh Street Station under Dougherty's régime.

Whitman to Waldo.

Here is the District Attorney's letter:

> July 18, 1912.
>
> Hon. Rhinelander Waldo, Police Commissioner, New York City.
>
> Sir: Answering your letter of July 17, you "again urge" that I make a complete investigation "without further delay" of public allegations of partnership between policemen and gamblers.
>
> When you asked this before Herman Rosenthal, who had made the charge, was alive. I had proceeded so far that he was to appear before the Grand Jury and give details and names of other gamblers to substantiate his charge. On the night preceding the day fixed he was assassinated, evidently by men who feared his testimony, or their agents, on the principle that dead men tell no tales. The awfulness of this situation cannot be lessened by "again" urging me to proceed "without further delay."
>
> You are the one to defend the reputations of "10,400" policemen. Their real defense rests in the unraveling of this murder mystery, and you have under your direction a small army of detectives and a fund of money applicable to detective work.
>
> With such resources as I have, small as compared with yours, I am continuing the work so dreadfully checked by murder, and I will make the best use of evidence which you may discover. The duty of investigation rests upon you as well as upon me, and in proportion to our means for investigation.
>
> The newspapers have printed my autographic statement to the effect that I do not charge the Police Department with the murder of Rosenthal. A copy of that statement is inclosed. Nor have I, at any time, suggested that the entire force is associated with gamblers. I have worked with the Police Department many years, and I bear cheerful testimony to splendid work done by policemen.
>
> The insinuation that I am moved by a desire for publicity in attacking the large body of policemen on account of the alleged wrongdoing of a few is untrue, unfair, and seems to be an attempt to turn public attention away from the vital point. So is the suggestion that the investigation include the conduct of courts and Judges and District Attorneys or alleged inadequate punishment of gamblers. Perhaps you do not know that the District Attorney does not impose the sentence. But attacking the courts for inadequate sentences of gamblers does not help to find the murderers of Rosenthal; nor to determine the question of partnership by certain policemen with gamblers.
>
> Passing over the insulting tone of your letter, for in grave public business, officials have no right to give way to personal resentment, I remind you that this is the present situation, and that you have an official responsibility in connection with every phase of it:
>
> First—Herman Rosenthal charged that he had been forced into a partnership with a police Lieutenant, and that other gamblers were in a similar situation. Just as he was about to testify on this subject, and to give details and names he was murdered publicly—dramatically. You demanded, and continue to demand, that his charge be investigated. How? By what witnesses? He is dead. He has taken the other names with him. In the face of this murder, will other gamblers rush forward to tell? Will guilty policemen confess? Is this inquiry one that can be conducted, except by the agency of detectives, which branch of the public service is under your charge and direction?
>
> Second—The murderers of Herman Rosenthal got away from seven policemen who were very close to the scene of the crime, and who obtained no evidence whatever. In running down the murderers the first responsibility is yours, for you have the force and the means provided by the city and by the State for such work.
>
> Whatever is within my power as a presenter of evidence and a prosecutor will be done, and what resources I have for the work of investigation will be used to their utmost.
>
> I have this additional suggestion. We are servants of the public. In this crisis our duty of co-operation should not be affected by too much attention to printed stories. My heart is in this matter. I want to show the criminals of New York that when a man, no matter how low, offers his aid to the Public Prosecutor he will be protected, or, if he falls, that those responsible for his death, however remotely, shall be punished to the extremity of the law.
>
> Respectfully,
> CHARLES S. WHITMAN,
> District Attorney.
>
> P. S.—As you published your letter to me, I give this answer to the press.

What Waldo Had Said.

The letter from Mr. Waldo was sent to the District Attorney on Wednesday. Here it is:

> Sir: I have the honor to again urge that a complete investigation be made by you without any forther delay of the allegations made in the press that members of the police force have been in partnership with gamblers, and of the statement that you are alleged to have made publicly that members of the department were guilty of instigating the murder of a gambler. Immediate action is necessary in the interest of good order and that the good reputation of 10,400 men who are honestly doing their duty should not be besmirched by individuals who may be rascals.
>
> Under the present organization of the department less than 150 men have any connection whatsoever with the enforcement of gambling laws, leaving over 10,000 members free from suspicion of connection with gamblers. It would appear to be unjust that the reputation of the entire force should be attacked on account of the allegations of a self-confessed gambler that a subordinate police officer, who has never been intrusted with any special power, has been his partner. It is unfortunate that the desire for publicity should lead any one to unjustly attack a body of men on account of alleged wrongdoings of a few.
>
> In investigating the action of the police in connection with the gambling situation, investigation should also be made of the courts and District Attorneys, who could stop gambling if they desired by upholding the police and sending convicted gamblers to jail instead of letting them free on suspended sentences or with an insignificant fine and issuing court orders requiring the police to return to the gamblers gambling apparatus seized in the raids.
>
> Again assuring you of every support in bringing all facts before the public and convicting the guilty. Very respectfully,
>
> R. WALDO, Police Commissioner.

This letter was prompted by a flood of interviews attributed to the prosecutor in which the police were accused of responsibility for Rosenthal's murder.

POLICE RESENT ATTACKS.

Charges of Alliance with Gamblers Unwarranted, Officials Say.

The murder of Herman Rosenthal, the bitter criticism of the Police Department that has followed, the failure to arrest the assassins on the morning of the murder, and the allegations that certain members of the police force were in sympathy with, if not actually back of, the plot to kill Rosenthal has stirred the Police Department as it has not been stirred in years.

This bitter criticism, it was evident yesterday, had touched the department to the quick. Some of the charges against the force were so sweeping as to make every one of the 10,000 men who comprise it feel that he was under fire. Commissioner Waldo, it was said, realized that he and his subordinates must prove that the force as a whole could not justly be held under suspicion. Those high in authority in the department declared yesterday that the moment evidence was submitted that even remotely connected a member of the force with the conspiracy that ended in the murder of Rosenthal the man against whom the evidence was produced would be suspended from duty and put under charges.

A high official of the department told a TIMES reporter yesterday that the number of policemen who had anything to do with the control of gambling was not more than 150 men.

"The members of the uniformed force," this official said, "have nothing whatever to do with the enforcement of the laws against gambling, the selling of liquor at forbidden hours, and disorderly resorts, and it is unfair to publish allegations that there is a system or organization of police officers and patrolmen banded together to collect 'graft' from the criminal classes and willing to resort to murder when they have reason to believe that somebody is ready to testify against them.

"I do not believe that such a system is in existence, in the absence of proof of any sort, but I do say that if any persons have evidence that even suggests such a thing, if they will come to Headquarters and lay the facts before the proper authorities quick action will follow, and every man on the force whose connection with such a system has been proved will be dismissed from the department.

"As to the particular case of Rosenthal, persons who make these accusations apparently fail to take into consideration that not more than 150 of the 10,400 members of the force have anything to do with gambling cases. Suppose, for the sake of argument, that these 150 men did turn out to be crooked, is that sufficient to condemn without a hearing the other 10,250 men in the department?

"Go still further, and take into consideration the 150 men who have to do with the enforcement of the anti-gambling laws. I know that most of these men are honest, and I have no reason up to the present moment to believe that any of them are in partnership with the gamblers. Suppose that such an alliance did exist on the part of some of these men. What could they do?

"They get their orders here at Police Headquarters, and these orders are mandatory to close specified gambling places. They are told the number of the house to be raided and are instructed to close that place, and they must do it. If they do not, they know that somebody who will close it will get their places and that they will be brought up on charges.

"For instance, the order to close Rosenthal's place was issued by Commissioner Waldo, and when Rosenthal failed to stay closed the Commissioner ordered that a policeman should be put in the house to see that it did not open again. Then came the charges by Rosenthal, and finally his murder. We are gathering in the men who committed that crime, and not one will escape if we can help it.

"As for Becker, we have as yet no evidence that he had a hand in the commission of that crime. Until that evidence is produced it is unfair to charge him with complicity in it. If the evidence is produced, the public will know in quick order that the present management of the department knows and plays no favorites when it comes to the detection and arrest of those guilty of crime, no matter who those persons are."

GRAFT IS GENERAL, JEROME DECLARES

Not Confined to Any One City Department, Though It Is Not So Bad as Before Lexow Inquiry.

HEAVY SENTENCES NEEDED

Leniency of the Judges Toward Gamblers and Other Offenders Encourages Lawlessness, He Says.

In discussing the killing of Rosenthal, the gambler, ex-District Attorney Jerome said yesterday that there was no more graft in the Police Department than in any other city department. He declared that there was graft in every one of the public departments and bureaus, and that the average of crooked men in one branch of the City Government was not higher than in another. Asked to specify, he replied:

"The Building Department. There is graft there, and plenty of it. There is also graft in the Departments of Street Cleaning, of Health, and in fact in all of them. Any man who denies this doesn't know what he is talking about."

Mr. Jerome was not pessimistic about the situation. He said it was the natural condition when men were put in places where they could pick up "easy money." If the money wasn't offered to them voluntarily for betraying their trust, they made plans to force it in their direction, he said, and, of course, succeeded. The police force, he said, consisted of 10,400 men, and among this great number were some "crooks." It didn't take the word of a crook to convince any sensible man that this was a fact, he said.

"I wouldn't take the word of a 'crook' under any conditions," said Mr. Jerome, "and all gamblers are crooks. Just as soon as a policeman interferes with one of them he begins to make trouble for the policeman. And the first thing he says is that he has been paying money for protection. The accusation alone proves the man who makes it to be a criminal and beyond the pale of the law. There is no sense in condemning the entire police force just because there are a few crooked policemen. There are no more crooked men in that department than in any other branch of the city. They average up just about the same."

Mr. Jerome said that the conditions in the city were better than they used to be. In former days, just previous to the Lexow investigation, the grafters got the business of taking money down to a business basis, he said. Every gambler knew what he had to pay. It was paid with the regularity of rent, and there were no scandals due to informers until after the investigation had scared them. Mr. Jerome declared he had heard that as much as $1,000,000 a year was collected in graft at that time, but he said he doubted it.

"When gamblers and other lawbreakers begin to make revelations," said Mr. Jerome, "they are getting hurt. They wouldn't holler unless somebody was doing something to them."

Mr. Jerome was asked what he thought would be an effective way of driving out gambling. He replied that it couldn't be done. If gamblers couldn't ply their trade in any other way they would hire a suite of rooms in a hotel and carry there any layout that a prospective player might suggest, he said.

"In order to enforce the law against men whose business it is to violate the law," Mr. Jerome said, "the police, the District Attorney and the courts must all work together. They depend upon each other, and when they fall apart they fall down. When I was in office I worked amicably with the various Police Commissioners except Gen. Bingham. After a few months the General and I didn't get along so well. I don't know what the trouble was, unless the General thought he wasn't getting enough credit. I was a better headliner than the General, and cut the big figure mainly in the news stories.

"After that I used to send every day for the 'fifty-fours.' These were the reports made by the wardmen to the Captains and by the Captains to the Inspectors, and so sent to the Commissioner. These reports were supposed to contain all the information obtainable of suspected places, but as a rule, the evidence was vague and unsubstantiated. When I could not discover the lessee of a suspected place I got the owner and made him promise to promptly dispossess the occupant if he failed to pay his rent on the minute.

"But there is no use arresting gamblers or any other class of lawbreakers unless the courts will adequately punish them. A gambler doesn't care anything about a fine. This he gladly pays, and goes back to his business with scarcely a break in it. But send four or five of them to jail for six months and the gamblers will quit."

Mr. Jerome had no patience with Police Captains who tried to make a scapegoat of their subordinates. He said that the old-time policemen like Byrnes, Williams, or even Devery, never did this. They ran their business and stood on their own feet. If a subordinate deceived his superior he wouldn't long remain a subordinate if the superior was worth his salt.

"The most disgusting thing of all," said Mr. Jerome, "is to hear a police official complain that his underlings are double-crossing him. Such a man ought to be driven from the force."

Mr. Jerome said that the general conditions in the city were as good as in any city where the population was so mixed and so dense. Speaking of the gangs, he said:

"These gangs are made up of young men of foreign birth, or whose parents were born abroad. They are physically weak and cannot do any kind of hard work, and their mental equipment does not enable them to earn a living in any other way. They say they have to live, and so take to gambling, blackmailing, and thievery. In the case of these persons the courts often display a desire to extend clemency. They are thorough paced scoundrels, and a menace to all decent persons. The severest punishmnt should be inflicted upon them, but often they are let go to resume their evil ways. I think the courts ought to be stiffened up."

Mr. Jerome said that Commissioner Waldo was trying to do the very best he could. But Mr. Jerome said the best could not be accomplished unless the District Attorney's Office co-operated with him to the full measure of its ability.

BESIEGE ROSENTHAL FUNERAL.

Petty Gamblers Flock to Burial of Murdered Informer.

When Herman Rosenthal, the gambler who was shot to death in front of the Hotel Metropole early Tuesday morning, was carried down the steps yesterday morning of the brownstone house in West Forty-fifth Street where he ran his gaming place until it was raided on April 15, the policemen on duty there were kept busy maintaining order among the 1,500 onlookers, who pressed forward eagerly. These onlookers came from every walk of life and from every part of New York.

Gamblers were there in great numbers—not the big men of the gambling world, but all the little men who make a precarious living in the wake of the big men. Sheet writers, runners, and other hangers-on of the gambling world gathered in West Forty-fifth Street yesterday morning to attend the funeral of Herman Rosenthal and see another phase of the case that is startling the country.

"Big Tim" Sullivan, of whose friendship Rosenthal boasted, was not there. Sam Paul, the leader of an east side gang in which the police are interested, was not there. But "Paddy" Sullivan was in the line that passed the coffin, and Jack Sullivan was there. He is not a member of the famous Sullivan clan, but his movements are interesting at this time because Lieut. Becker has declared that he was downtown, in Park Row, with Jack Sullivan less than an hour before Rosenthal was murdered in Times Square. And Jack Sullivan was one of the persons questioned at Police Headquarters yesterday. Some one noted "Eddie" Reardon, a county detective of Jerome's days, in the crowd that pressed up to the steps as the coffin was carried down, and the presence of "Humpy" Hanover, "the Mayor of Avenue C," as they call him, was observed before the funeral services began.

Besides all these, the old Hesper Club, of which Rosenthal was a Vice President in its palmy days, was well represented, and there was a group of men representing the Elks. There were no pall bearers. First after the coffin came Mrs. Rosenthal, followed by the gambler's sister, Mrs. Joseph Immerman, and her husband; Edward J. Rosenthal, a brother; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lench and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ring. Both women were sisters of the dead man. Others who stepped into the carriages were Harold Spielberg, a lawyer; City Marshal Vanderler, Harry Cooper, an actor, and "Kid Griffo," once a high light of the boxing world.

The dead man's mother was not present, for she lies ill at her home in Borough Park, Brooklyn, and has not been told of her son's tragic death. Every day, they say, she has asked why he has not been to see her. Until she went to the services yesterday Mrs. Rosenthal had not seen her husband's body since he left the house on Monday night. She ran, weeping, to the Metropole when the tidings of his murder were carried to her, but they had thrown tablecloths from the restaurant over the dead man and she was led away without looking upon his face. She attended the services yesterday, leaning heavily upon the arm of her husband's sister, Miss Minnie Rosenthal.

For an instant she stood looking into the coffin and at the face disfigured by the bullets. She clutched the other woman's arm and whispered to her in a choked voice:

"Why, that's a mistake. That's not Herman. Minnie, that's not him. It's a mistake. Oh! tell me, Minnie, that it's all a mistake."

They led her to a chair, for she was faint, and some one brought water.

The services were read by the Rev. Samuel Greenfield. In the brief sermon which he spoke over the body there was no reference to the tragedy except, perhaps, when he said:

"It is not given to us all to round out the term of our creation, and Herman Rosenthal was cut down at a time when he was most needed."

He compared the murdered man to King David, in that he had no place to rest his weary head from the darts of his enemies.

The burial was at Washington Cemetery, Brooklyn. As the funeral procession passed along Forty-fifth Street the crowds that were pushed back to the sidewalks and the countless persons who gazed from every window within range testified to the interest the murder has aroused throughout the city.

HAD MAIL FOR "JACK ROSE."

Gambler's Name Found on Man Arrested as Nathan Swartz.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 18.—Although the New Haven police to-night say they will release the New Yorker who says he is Manuel Spellman to-morrow, he has failed to explain having letters and cards addressed to "Jack Rose."

Spellman's case is unusual in that he was arrested as Nathan Swartz, the murderer of the Connors girl. He closely resembled Swartz, although an examination shows him to be three inches taller. He was arrested late last night in a saloon, where he had just sold a watch and chain to an Italian. Charles Frisco, a baseball player, noticed Spellman's resemblance to Swartz and called the police. News of the finding of Swartz's body today removed the reason for holding Spellman, except that he had been detected in a number of false statements, and in his pocket the police found a souvenir postal card mailed in Springfield, Mass., on July 15 and addressed to "Jack Rose," General Delivery, New Haven, Conn.

In the same pocket was a member's card of admission to the Pilgrim Athletic Club, Boston, made out to "Jack Rose." The suit was made by a Cleveland tailor, and the name "Jack Rose" was stitched to the coat collar. Spellman was asked to explain having the suit, and he insisted that he bought it in New York City second hand. He said that he left New York City in May, and had since been traveling through Providence, Springfield, and Hartford selling jewelry. Spellman said he did not know the Jack Rose mentioned in connection with the Rosenthal case.

1908 STEAM ROLLER UNKNOWN TO COLONEL

If He Had Known of It, He Says, and Its Practices, He Would Have Stopped It.

DIFFERENT NOW, ANYWAY

Accuses Taft of Sharp Practice and Denounces "Men Who Live Softly" and Oppose Him.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, while he dwelt in the White House, in one of his messages to Congress reviled men "with soft hands and hard faces." In an editorial in the current weekly issue of The Outlook he goes a step further and vigorously assails as enemies of social and economic justice "men who live softly."

Another editorial deals with the operations of the "steam roller" at the Chicago convention, and contrasts in a manner that tells very much to the Colonel's advantage but which is bound to arouse a storm of dissent, the running of the steam roller of the bosses in Chicago this year, with its operation in the same place in 1904 and in 1908.

In the former year the Colonel was himself a candidate for President. In 1908 he, controlling the patronage of the Federal Administration as he did in 1904, was anxious to have his then friend William H. Taft nominated for President.

In both years the steam roller flattened out opposition, though, as the Colonel says, there was little need of resorting to steam-roller methods in 1904 because the bulk of the Republican strength was for him.

In 1908 the situation was somewhat different. There was some opposition to Mr. Taft which could be overcome only by ruthless crushing out of other booms. While it is generally accepted as a fact that in 1908 the steam roller performed its most thorough work with the Colonel's complete knowledge and connivance, the Colonel in his Outlook editorial proclaims to all the world that if he had known anything about it he would have stopped in that year the practices he protests against so vigorously this year when they materially affected his own prospects. The Colonel says in his steam-roller editorial:

> There was no contest over my nomination in 1904 when the convention assembled. Every delegate was for me, and this was true of both sides in every contest. In 1908, when Mr. Taft was fairly nominated, there were no "steam roller" methods, as far as I know, and if anything dishonest or improper was done in the effort to nominate him it was without my knowledge, and if it had been brought to my attention and I had any power in the matter I would have interfered with it.

In the second article the Colonel alludes to "the respectable men who with discomfort stood behind their leaders in securing the triumph of fraud and political theft at Chicago," and assails "the other respectable men who felt no discomfort in thus supporting rascality; who, on the contrary, glorified in their actions."

The Colonel goes on to say that some of the men responsible for the steam roller work in Chicago this year excused themselves by saying that they had merely been doing this year what was being done in 1904 and 1908. Then he gives a piece of information that will come as a surprise to most persons who have followed recent political history. The Colonel declares that he was nominated for Vice President at the Philadelphia convention in 1900 "against the wish of the most powerful politicians who then had control of the Republican Party, and purely because of a popular demand deemed too insistent to be denied."

It is no secret that Col. Roosevelt virtually was driven into accepting the Vice Presidential nomination by Senator Thomas C. Platt, who was then the Republican leader of the State of New York. Platt disliked Col. Roosevelt, and Col. Roosevelt, conscious of the distrust he inspired in Senator Platt, contended at the time of the Philadelphia Convention that his nomination for Vice President involved a malicious attempt to shelve him politically.

Col. Roosevelt contrasts the Chicago and the Baltimore conventions and the results of each. In Chicago the Republican bosses, he says, were willing to risk certain defeat to prevent his nomination; in Baltimore the Democratic bosses were willing to accept any candidate in order to win. On this point the Colonel says:

> The fight at Baltimore was not, as at Chicago, to eliminate the bosses, and, incidentally, to nominate a certain candidate; it was to persuade the bosses into themselves nominating Dr. Wilson, thus securing the perpetuation of their own control in their several States. Mr. Sullivan of Illinois, Mr. Taggart of Indiana, and others like them, brought about Dr. Wilson's nomination; Mr. Murphy acquiesced at the end. Dr. Wilson's victory would not mean the dethronement of these men; it would mean their perpetuation in power. My election would mean that Mr. Penrose, Mr. Barnes, and Mr. Guggenheim would be definitely eliminated from political control of their States.

In his second editorial the Colonel deals harshly with "men who live softly." He says:

> They are men who find life easy, who live softly, and who, instead of feeling that their own good fortune makes it incumbent on them actively to work for betterment in the life conditions of others, are overcome by the fear that any such effort to improve the general welfare would jar the present system sufficiently to cause them inconvenience. These men abound in the New York and Boston social and business or professional clubs, in the Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, in the bar associations, in the residential districts where people of means and leisure dwell. They are free from physical toil and hardship; they live under conditions that tell for ease, that indeed tend rather to too much self-indulgent softness, and, therefore, alas! to that dreadful selfishness which is born of fear when they become alarmed lest the system which has brought about these pleasant conditions may be changed.
>
> They develop a panic-born immorality, which makes them not merely excuse, but eagerly commend, the theft of a nominating convention, or any other rascality which in their estimation helps to "save society," or to "preserve the Constitution," or to "repel assaults on the courts," for these men under such conditions follow the lead of the great corporation owners and great corporation lawyers in treating the Constitution and the courts—quite without warrant—as instruments designed to protect privilege and vested wrong and to prevent the people from really ruling themselves. They have apparently been educated to the point of feeling all this in accentuated form about me, and about the changes I champion. They do not know that most of the things I advocate have been successfully tried out in a few of our own States—Wisconsin, for instance, and even Massachusetts—and in foreign countries such as Germany, Denmark, England, New Zealand, and Switzerland. I am merely trying to get this country to be wise in time—which is nine-tenths of wisdom. I wish to see our less fortunate citizens avoid the dreadful excesses of syndicalism and the like to which their fellows abroad have been prone. This can only be accomplished if our people as a whole will formulate and reduce to practice certain great moral principles which most of us are now dimly beginning to see shape themselves from the confused welter of our business and our politics.

The Colonel bitterly assails President Taft, whom he accuses of securing "by trickery and sharp practice" the support of "the six delegates at large from Ohio which in the primaries had gone 47,000 against him."

A BULL MOOSE CALL.

Hotchkiss Gives Process of Electing Delegates to National Convention.

State Chairman Hotchkiss of the Bull Moose party issued a call yesterday directing the followers of Col. Roosevelt to elect six delegates from each Assembly district not later than July 26, these delegates to hold Congressional district conventions not later than Aug. 1, and these conventions to select one delegate and one alternate each to the Chicago Convention.

Chairman Hotchkiss named four new provisional County Chairmen yesterday. They were: Ontario—F. E. Hosmer of Geneva; Rensselaer—Col. James H. Snyder of Troy; Essex—Frank B. Wickes of Ticonderoga; Cattaraugus—C. B. McDowell of Olean. This makes forty-four out of sixty-one provisional County Chairmen already selected.

Senator Dixon was planning to leave for Chicago yesterday, where the first convention of the new party on Aug. 5 is to be staged as impressively as possible within a few days. He declared that there would be a full representation from each State.

The Temporary Chairman of the convention, according to Senator Dixon, would be named in a few days. It is not unlikely that he may be a Democrat, according to the Senator. This would be for the purpose of impressing people generally, and particularly in the South, with the idea that the Colonel's new movement is not an offshoot of the Republican Party but a brand new organization in which there is room for Democrats as well as Republicans.

"It is not beyond the realm of probability that the Vice Presidential nominee may be a Democrat," said Senator Dixon. "A dozen names have been mentioned already, but only tentatively. There are Gov. Johnson of California, John M. Parker of New Orleans, who ran for Governor on the Democratic ticket in Louisiana; ex-United States Senator Beveridge of Indiana, and several others who are in the running for the second place on the National Progressive ticket."

Supreme Court Justice Gavegan yesterday signed incorporation papers for the Colonel's Progressive Club of the Twenty-third Assembly District. One of the objects of the new club, as stated in the papers, is to see "that government of the people by the people and for the people keeps pace with the progress and the spirit of the times."

EMPIRE DEMOCRACY CALL OUT

Conference to be Held July 29 to Effect a State-Wide Organization.

The Empire State Democracy, which was formally launched at a meeting held at the Hotel Belmont on Wednesday evening, took steps yesterday toward a State-wide organization, sending out a call for a conference at the Hotel Astor on the evening of Monday, July 29. At this conference a permanent organization will be effected. The purposes of the organization were given in the call, which says:

> The members of this organization stand vigorously and unitedly for the following:
>
> The permanency of this organization in a vigorous, persistent, and continuous fight for better political conditions in New York State.
>
> Intelligent party leadership.
>
> Progressive legislation.
>
> Honest and efficient administration, carrying faithfully into effect the promises of party platforms.
>
> We believe that the National Democratic ticket nominated at Baltimore personifies the above principles of true democracy, and because of that it commands our enthusiastic and unqualified support.
>
> We believe that the present party leadership in this State cannot bring out the full Democratic vote; nor can it attract the independent vote so necessary to success.
>
> Such an organization as is now proposed was never more needed than at this time, and we believe it will result in benefit to the cause of Wilson and true Democracy.

The new organization has opened headquarters at 31 Nassau Street, where Senator Franklin D. Roosevelt, Temporary Chairman, and Lawrence B. Dunham, Temporary Secretary, will be on hand daily to receive new recruits. Senator Roosevelt said yesterday that he was well pleased with the result of the first meeting of the Empire State Democracy, and that he looked forward with great hope to the future of the movement.

PARTY COMMITTEES LIMITED.

Cannot Take Other Parties' Candidates for Vacancies, Says Carmody.

ALBANY, July 18.—Attorney General Carmody has received a letter from William Barnes, Jr., Chairman of the Republican State Committee, asking whether if a candidate nominated at a primary declines the nomination the Party Committee appointed to fill vacancies can take the name of the candidate nominated by petition.

In reply Mr. Carmody informed Mr. Barnes that the question seems to be answered by Section 136 of the election law, which provides:

"When no nomination shall have been originally made by a political party or by an independent body for an office, or when a vacancy shall exist, it shall not be lawful for any committee of such party or independent body authorized to make nominations or to fill vacancies to nominate or substitute the name of a candidate of another party or independent body for such office, it being the intention of this chapter that when a candidate of one party is nominated and placed on the ticket of another party or independent body such nomination must be made at the time and in the manner provided for making original nominations by such party or independent body."

Minnesota Officeseekers Cannot Dictate Letters Without Committee's Leave.

ST. PAUL, July 18.—Candidates for office cannot under the corrupt practices act, just passed, dictate political letters to their stenographers, unless they first make arrangements for campaign committees, according to a ruling made by Attorney General Smith in response to an inquiry from James A. Hall, County Attorney at Marshall. This construction of the new act seems absurd, the Attorney General admits, but is justifiable by its text.

In answering Mr. Hall's query the Attorney General points out that there is no provision in the new law permitting a candidate to buy stationery, hire clerks, pay for headquarters, lithographs or for the writing, addressing and mailing of campaign literature. On the other hand, campaign committees are authorized to do all these things.

WON'T BE TAFT'S SECRETARY.

Granville Mooney's Refusal Gives Another Ohio Man a Chance.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Granville W. Mooney, ex-Speaker of the Ohio Assembly, has declined the post of assistant secretary to President Taft, to succeed Sherman P. Allen of Vermont, who was nominated yesterday for Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

Mr. Mooney was recommended for the place by Senator Burton, but declined because he wished to stay in Ohio. It was said to-day that another Ohio man might be selected.

Mr. Allen may continue at the White House until President Taft finds a man to fill his place.

DIX DEFINES PROGRESSIVE.

Sure He Is One Because He Turned a Deficit Into a Surplus.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 18.—Gov. Dix received a request recently to state whether or not he is a Progressive. In reply the Governor asked the inquirer if he could point out that the Executive is not a Progressive.

"Among the newest definitions of a Progressive which has come to my attention," said the Governor to-day, "is one who could turn a deficit into a surplus. That is what happened in this State during the present administration."

ESTIMATES PARKER FUND AT $1,000,000

W. F. Sheehan Puts Amount About $300,000 Above August Belmont's Guess.

$15,000 WENT TO AID BRYAN

No Trust Money Accepted, Declares the National Chairman to Congressional Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—A discrepancy of $300,000 in estimates of the Democratic National campaign fund of 1904 developed when William F. Sheehan testified before the Senate Committee on Campaign Expenditures to-day. Mr. Belmont "guessed" the amount did not exceed $700,000, but Mr. Sheehan to-day said it was $1,000,000. Mr. Sheehan was Chairman of the National Committee that year and Mr. Belmont was Treasurer.

Mr. Sheehan said that he did not mean to contradict Mr. Belmont, but that the whole thing was a matter of recollection. Like Mr. Belmont, he said the committee did little bookkeeping. He thought, however, that the National campaign leaders spent directly about $800,000, and that the other $200,000 was given for use in New York State.

Money was sent by the committee, Mr. Sheehan testified, to Maine, Colorado, and Nebraska in particular.

"To Maine, did you say?" asked a Senator.

"Yes, with very gratifying results to the Democrats," replied Mr. Sheehan.

Mr. Sheehan assured the committee that the amounts sent to Maine, Colorado, and Nebraska were not large.

"How much was sent to Nebraska?" inquired Senator Oliver.

"I think about $15,000."

"Mr. Bryan was the candidate for the Senatorship that year, wasn't he?"

"I don't remember exactly; candidates for the Senatorship were not"—

"Well, I think he was," interrupted the Pennsylvania Senator.

Mr. Sheehan said he remembered August Belmont was a large contributor that year, and Senator Oliver asked if Thomas F. Ryan were also a contributor. The witness replied that he was.

The witness declared that the committee made a rule at the beginning of the campaign to accept no money from any trust. He believed no such contributions were made, directly or indirectly.

"There was $10,000 contributed," began Mr. Sheehan, "by the American Sugar Refining Company—not by Mr. Havemeyer—to the State Committee. Before the check was cashed we heard about it, and it was returned."

Senator Clapp asked the witness for the names of contributors of more than $5,000.

"I recollect Mr. Belmont chiefly because of his testimony," replied Mr. Sheehan. "I was in Maine much of the time and did not have so much to do with the raising of funds. There were others who contributed more than that sum, but I cannot remember them."

"Who was most active in securing money?" inquired Mr. Clapp.

"Why, Senator, various people were soliciting on their own responsibility. The members of the committee were active. People were circularized. We published requests for funds. Democrats or people interested in the success of the ticket came in to inquire if it was satisfactory for them to get out and raise money."

"Did you solicit?"

"Not much. I devoted my energy to other work."

Mr. Sheehan said the late Daniel S. Lamont assisted him in collecting money. Col. Lamont was connected with corporations, he said, but he could not remember what ones. As to the names of men who contributed through Col. Lamont, Mr. Sheehan said his memory would be as unsatisfactory to the committee as it was to him.

Asked if he could tell the committee where it could find Charles Hall, Assistant Treasurer of the National Committee in 1904, who had charge of the campaign finance books, Mr. Sheehan replied that he thought Hall might be in Albany.

"He is a lawyer and a perfectly respectable man," added Mr. Sheehan.

Chairman Clapp replied that he meant no reflection on Mr. Hall, but the committee had been unable to get in touch with him.

"Did you take any part in the campaign of 1908?" Mr. Sheehan was asked just before he was excused from the stand.

"Only as a contributor," he responded.

Other witnesses will be called later. They will include Representatives Lloyd and McKinley, Chairmen, respectively, of the Democratic and Republican Congressional Campaign Committees.

CAMPAIGN CASH TO CHARITY.

One Texas Candidate Gave, the Other Spent Joint Debate Fund.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—J. A. Wolter and Representative Morris Sheppard, Senatorial candidates in the Texas primaries, filed statements disclosing an unusual distribution of campaign money.

"I paid to Morris Sheppard," says Mr. Wolter's statement, "$250 to be distributed by him for charity, in order to get him to meet me in just one joint debate on the tariff."

Mr. Sheppard admits he received the money.

"One hundred and twenty-five dollars," he says, "was sent by me to W. P. Lobban of San Antonio, to be given through the San Antonio Temperance Education Bureau to a widow with fourteen children near Lavernia, whose husband was killed in a saloon brawl and had left her in a desperate financial condition."

Mr. Sheppard says he gave the other $125 to the Star of Hope Mission to "help save human wrecks," most of whom were victims of liquor.

The outcome of the Senatorial fight will not be known until the primaries of July 27.

McNAMARA IN A DUNGEON.

Confessed Dynamiter Has Been Disobeying Rule of His Prison.

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., July 18.—After a week in solitary confinement, J. B. McNamara, one of the convicted dynamiters of the Los Angeles Times building, stubbornly refused to conform to prison discipline, and Warden Hoyle said to-day he would be kept in the dungeon indefinitely.

McNamara was placed in solitary confinement a week ago when he refused to obey an order given by a guard in the jute mill. He had been punished before for insubordination, and Warden Hoyle ordered him to be locked in the dark cell.

"McNamara's punishment was the result of repeated acts of insubordination," said Warden Hoyle to-day. "He has been a persistent violator of prison rules and there was nothing for us to do but take extreme measures."

Warden Hoyle denied a rumor that McNamara had been involved in a plot to burn the jute mill.

UNITED WIRELESS MAN OUT.

George H. Parker, Partner of Wilson, Is Released on Parole.

SEATTLE, July 18.—George H. Parker, fiscal agent of the United Wireless Telegraph Company, who was alleged in court proceedings to have cleared $1,315,000 by his operations and was sentenced to two years in a Federal prison, has been paroled from McNeil's Island. Christopher Columbus Wilson, partner of Mr. Parker, is still in the penitentiary at Atlanta.

HILLES AND BARNES CONFER.

Sub-Committee of Republican National Committee Begins Work.

The sub-committee of the Republican National Committee, which was appointed with full powers to select a Treasurer, an advisory committee, and an executive committee, will meet at the Waldorf at noon to-day to do its work. Charles D. Hilles, the newly elected National Chairman, will preside at the meeting.

It was said yesterday that William Barnes, Jr., who could have had the National Chairmanship had he so desired, might be selected Chairman of the Advisory Committee. It is understood that Mr. Barnes has signified his willingness to accept the place provided he will be permitted to say what men shall be appointed with him. The Advisory Committee is likely to be a very large body of men, representing different parts of the country and various interests.

Mr. Hilles put in a long time yesterday conferring with Mr. Barnes.

Neither Mr. Barnes nor Mr. Hilles was prepared to say who would be chosen Treasurer of the Republican National Committee. This position is looked upon as a very difficult one this year when Democratic victory is in the air.

MUST VOTE AGAINST TAFT.

Wisconsin Nominee for Elector Will Accept or Else Resign.

FOND DU LAC, Wis., July 18.—Otto J. Zander of Brillion, a Republican nominee for Presidential Elector, in a letter to the State Central Committee to-day, said if elected he would be unable to cast his vote for President Taft, but he would vote for Robert M. La Follette or some other Republican whom he regarded as progressive.

He added if his plan did not meet with the approval of the committee he would resign.

SAYS COLONEL AIDS WILSON.

Judge Parker Thinks Roosevelt Will Help Governor Win.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 18.—Alton B. Parker, who came to Poughkeepsie to-day to attend a luncheon of the Democratic County Committee of Dutchess County, said that Roosevelt would help Wilson to the Presidential chair.

"Mr. Roosevelt has a different proposition than usual," said Judge Parker. "Mr. Roosevelt fighting within his own party for a representation and Roosevelt fighting the entire party are two different things. Mr. Roosevelt has a large following, it is true, and he is bound to draw more votes from the Republican Party than he will get from the Democratic side. That all helps Wilson, without question."

WYOMING DEMOCRATS UNITED.

May Carry the State, Which Ordinarily Is Strongly Republican.

Special to The New York Times.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 18.—For the first time in twelve years the Democratic Party in Wyoming appears to be solidly united for its Presidential nominee. A few party leaders favored Champ Clark, and their work resulted in the delegation being instructed for the Speaker, but the rank and file of the party favored Wilson as against Clark from the start.

A considerable part of the party would have been satisfied with Bryan, but since the nomination there has been an increasing satisfaction over Wilson's selection.

Wyoming ordinarily is a very strong Republican State, and with only two candidates, Taft and Wilson, the President would probably win, but with Roosevelt in the field the outcome is doubtful. Gov. Carey, who as a Progressive Republican, nominated on the Democratic ticket, swept the State two years ago, is now active in furthering the Roosevelt candidacy, and this will have an important bearing upon the results.

W. L. SCRUGGS IS DEAD.

Ex-Minister to Venezuela Helped to Settle Boundary Dispute With England.

ATLANTA, July 18.—William Lindsay Scruggs, former Minister to Colombia and Venezuela, died here late to-night, at the age of 70 years. He suffered a stroke of apoplexy soon after noon today.

Mr. Scruggs was a native of Nashville and divided his early years of manhood between law and journalism. He was Minister to Colombia from 1872-77 and 1882-87, Consul General at Pekin 1878-82, and Minister to Venezuela 1889-93. It was during the latter period that the trouble became acute between England and Venezuela over the boundary question, which was brought to a head by Cleveland's message to Congress in 1894. Mr. Scruggs became the legal adviser of the Venezuelan Government and brought the boundary dispute to arbitration in 1897.

MELON STORY GROWS TO TALE OF TAFT BOMB

A Washington Correspondent Starts the Report by Having Fun with Young Reporter.

TELLS SOME FIERY DETAILS

Secret Service Men at Work Trying to Find Origin of Report of Near-Tragedy at White House.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The weight of a watermelon has caused the capture of many small boys before this, but never before was the catch as complete as that yesterday at the White House.

There an argument between a veteran correspondent and one of the younger correspondents as to the size of the fruit resulted in sending broadcast throughout the country a circumstantial account of an attempt to blow up President Taft with a dynamite bomb. But there was not any bomb, and, acording to the veteran to-day, the worst of it is there wasn't any melon.

What really happened was told afterward by the veteran himself. He can be believed. He is known by his real name to more Cabinet officers than any other newspaper man. To the Secretary of State he is "the Nestor of American journalism." But that is another story.

Early in the morning the veteran had a talk with the President, and when he came out of the iner office the younger correspondents crowded around to know what he had learned. Nothing loath to be interviewed, the veteran refused to say a word, and the interview continued one-sided for some minutes.

"Never a word will I tell you," he said at last, shaking his head, "but it will be a great story to-morrow."

Then he walked off in the general direction of his office, which is on the other side of several cafés. That ended the matter to the blasé writer. But one of the younger men burned to learn the deep secret. When the veteran, having quite forgotten his mystery of the morning, returned in the afternoon the Capitol press room was nearly deserted, and he began to tell of an enormous watermelon, presumably discovered by him in the cafés.

"It weighed forty pounds," he concluded, looking defiantly up for contradiction.

"The biggest melon in the world weighs only six pounds," retorted one of those present.

"Six pounds of dynamite!" sneered the veteran.

At this point the young reporter came in.

"What's that about dynamite!" he exclaimed, almost breathless, sure that a big story was coming his way at last.

The veteran opened and shut his eyes, and then told the yarn about a bomb, giving in detail incidents of its receipt and opening of the package, with colorful description of the excitement in the White House. The young reporter hastened to send the story to his paper, which printed it.

The Secret Service later began an investigation to learn who told the story and how it came to be printed without any attempt being made by the paper which published it to find out if it were true.

Meanwhile the veteran vows that he meant no harm.

SPOILED HIS TRIP ABROAD.

Lawyer Brought to Court Is Advised to Try Staten Island.

From his bench in the Supreme Court Justice Giegerich, who has a long Summer of work before him, dispensed practical thoughts yesterday on where to take a vacation.

Frederick T. Case, an attorney of 57 Wall Street, came before the Justice and complained that the opposing attorney had made him give up his trip to Europe by forcing him to appear yesterday in court. Mr. Case protested that no one should have to argue motions in the Summer, and that he was not ready to do more than express his opinion of the gentleman appearing for the other side.

"It is not at all necessary for you to go to Europe to get cooled off," said Justice Giegerich in adjourning the matter until October. "Just try Staten Island and you won't be sorry you had to miss your boat."

Mr. Case said he would try the place as a substitute, but that he would much prefer to have the opposing lawyer go somewhere else.

200 COWBOYS AT WEDDING.

Mounted, They Convoy Bridal Party Through Chicago Streets.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Two hundred cowboys were a feature of the wedding of Miss Marie Dedual and William Henderson, a cattle buyer at the Stock Yards, yesterday, in a manner that could hardly have been improved upon had the scene been laid on the Western plains.

When the young couple were ready to start for the church the cowpunchers arrived on horseback, equipped in cowboy regalia and headed by a brass band. With wild shouts that one might expect to hear at a Cheyenne carnival, they accompanied the bridal party, who were in automobiles. Drawing up in front of the church, the cowboys quietly remained outside until the ceremony was performed.

As the members of the party emerged from the church the chauffeurs of the automobiles were promptly lassoed and dragged from their seats and cowpunchers took their places at the wheel. Then the cowboys took the wedding party in charge, and, with two bands leading, the shouting escort paraded for several miles through South Side streets. The cowboys were all friends of Henderson and are employed at the Stock Yards.

POST OFFICE ROBBER KILLED.

Posse Shoots Bandit in Louisiana and Finds $335 in Pocket.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 18.—In a battle south of Alexander City to-day one of the two robbers who blew open the Post Office safe at Auburn, Monday night, was killed by a posse.

The bandit, hidden in the woods, was discovered by the posse. He opened fire on the officers, they gave battle and in less than ten minutes the bandit was killed. None of the posse was hurt. In a pocket of the robber's coat was found $335 in money, but no papers to identify him. However, before the fight he told a negro that he was fleeing from justice and that his home was in Oklahoma.

It is known he was one of the men who escaped from a posse at Alexander City Tuesday night after shooting Sheriff Lynch of Tallapoosa County. The victim of to-day's battle in his flight Tuesday night left a grip containing spoils from the Auburn Post Office and a collection of safeblowing equipment. This faintly connects him with the gang which held up an Alabama Great Southern train in Mississippi recently and obtained a large sum of money from the express safe.

Georgians Lunch on the Georgia.

Capt. Marbury Johnston of the United States battleship Georgia, which leaves to-day for Boston, gave a luncheon on board his ship yesterday. His guests were all natives of Georgia, like the Captain, and included Dr. Wyatt Aiken, President of the Georgia Society; Robert Adamson, the Mayor's Secretary; Fire Commissioner Johnson, Commissioner David Robinson, and James E. Graybill.

FAMILY OF NINE DROWNED.

Members Were Searching for Father When Flood Overtook Them.

JACOBS CREEK, Penn., July 18.—Nine persons were drowned in Barren Run on the farm of John Raymond, near here, last night.

The dead are Mrs. John Raymond, Mike Rovinsky, brother of Mrs. Raymond; Mrs. Rovinsky, mother of Mrs. Raymond, and six children of Mr. and Mrs. John Raymond.

During a heavy storm which swept through this section Raymond went from his house to the barn, located in a ravine near Barren Run. He did not return, and, after waiting two hours, the wife, her children, and the other members of the family became frightened and went in search of him. As they reached the ravine a wall of water swept down and carried them away. Raymond was safe in the barn and escaped. The body of the brother was recovered this morning, and later the bodies of four of the Raymond children were found a mile and a half downstream. The house was washed away and crumbled into débris against a clump of timber.

TO ONE BROKEN HEART, $10.

Jilted Chicago Girl Itemized Her Bill and Jury Awarded $751.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Ten dollars was all that Miss Konda Gowaka asked as balm for a broken heart when she filed suit for breach of promise here against Abram Zakwij. The man who was to be her husband failed to appear on the day set for the wedding. Miss Gowacka had spent a considerable amount as well as devoting much of her time to courting previous to the wedding, so she presented a bill. The sum of $10, asked for one broken heart on the bill, which in all amounted to $751.50, was the last item entered.

The other items included ninety-two days of courting at $5 each, a wedding supper which had been ordered, $100, and a trousseau $175. She brought suit for $1,000 but the jury awarded her yesterday only the amount of the itemized bill.

ENGLAND'S SHOWING WORTHY OF INFANTS

London Correspondent at Stockholm Sarcastic Over British Athletes' Performances.

PRAISE FOR OUR DISCIPLINE

Olympic Teams Stop at Copenhagen and Delight Danes—Leander Wins in Stockholm Regatta.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Friday, July 19.—The Stockholm correspondent of The London Times, writing on the subject of the controversy waged in English newspapers over the training behavior of British athletes at Stockholm, says:

"The facts are so obvious that there appears to be little room for controversy. The contrast between the conditions which prevailed with our men and those to which the Americans were subjected were too marked to admit of argument.

"The American athletes lived together on the Finland under strict discipline. They had to be in bed at a specified hour. They were aware that any infringement of the rules would be punished by the offender being immediately withdrawn from all competitions and sent back to the United States. Each man, it is believed, went into each race with a definite understanding as to how he was expected to run it.

"The result has been evident. The American athletes have shown themselves as individuals masters of the technique of running, while as a machine for winning races the team as a whole has been beautifully organized.

"Their tactics, of course, have been legitimate under the rules, except for an occasional indiscretion, resulting from excessive zeal on the part of a particular runner, but their admirable execution has made the odds heavy against the competitors from another country, however individually brilliant.

"The same discipline has extended to other things than actual running. The claque in the stadium was also under orders, one of which was that there be no cheering for any country except Sweden and the United States. A generous effort was made to cheer both Jackson in the mile and Kohlemainen in the 5,000 meters, but in each case the cheer leaders crushed the spontaneous demonstration, so that the finest incidents of the whole meeting were received in silence in that particular corner of the stadium.

"It is understood that those in authority were afraid that promiscuous cheering of the other countries might create jealousies, as for txample on the part of Russia, if there was too much enthusiasm over the victories of the Finnish champion, Kohlemainen, or perhaps on the part of England or Germany if Rau or Braun on the one hand or Hutson or Jackson on the other hand seemed to be too much favored.

"In any case the Americans in the conduct of both of their athletes in the arena and the claque in the gallery, have given the Olympic world an exhibition of admirable organization and discipline, of which the British athletes, collectively and individually, have been singularly innocent."

With reference to the British athletes and their lack of discipline the correspondent proceeds:

"Their tactics on the path have been those of children pitted against experts and veterans, and they, moreover, when not on the path have been cheerfully uncontrolled in their goings and comings. The majority, doubtless, trained of their own accord, and kept themselves self-disciplined as conscientiously as if they had been under authoritative restraint, but it is notorious that some few have not.

"It should be added that the relations between most of our men and the American runners was extremely cordial and friendly, while the American trainers and experts have been outspoken in praise of the splendid material which we possessed but did know how to use."

The correspondent concludes "that some reasonable amount of care and discipline would have materially reduced the melancholy catalogue of these defeats, no doubt, and I think it is safe to say that there is neither any British athlete here nor any British visitor who takes any interest in the matter who does not consider that the way in which our affairs have been managed has been a mere farce—a farce made all the more pathetically ridiculous by contrast with the perfect organization of the Americans and the extraordinarily good arrangements made in almost every particular by the Swedish committees."

(Special Cable.)

The London Times, in an editorial on the Olympic games, finds consolation in the fact that the English rowing victories yesterday make Great and Greater Britain fairly certain between them of second place in the final results, and declares that, taken as a whole, the performances of the British competitors gives no ground for fearing any physical decadence in British youth.

"No one desires to see the professional spirit, with all the specialization it entails, introduced more widely into British sport," says The Times. "It is manifestly better for the nation that its youth should learn rather to play the game than to win at all costs, and the high average of the athletic capacity which our schools possess is a truer sign of national wellbeing than the concentration of individuals on single prodigious feats."

Dealing with Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's suggestion in favor of sending as a feature to the Olympic Games one British team from the whole Empire, instead of dissipating British strength by dividing them into units, The Times says such a division is absurd, but points out that as the United States drew its athletes from negroes, red Indians, and Hawaiians there would surely be no doubt, if the British Empire chose to enter its competitors as a single team, it would be admitted as such by the Olympic authorities.

COPENHAGEN, July 18.—A large number of the American, English, Austrian, Italian, Dutch, and Swedish athletes who took part in the Olympic Games held a meet at the Copenhagen Stadium with the Danish athletes to-day. Thousands of enthusiastic spectators witnessed some excellent sport. Ralph Rose of San Francisco won the discus event, right and left hand, with a combined throw of 232 feet, and the weight putting event, right and left hand, with a combined put of 90 feet 11 inches. He was third in the javelin throw, which was won by the Dane, Petersen.

The pole vault was won by James J. Donoghue, Los Angeles Athletic Club, with a vault of 10 feet 10 inches, with George L. Horine, Leland Stanford University, second. Horine won the running high jump with 5 feet 11¼ inches, Donoghue being second.

STOCKHOLM, July 18.—Most exciting among the events in the Olympic regatta, which was continued to-day, were the heats for out-rigged eights over a course of 2,000 meters (one and a quarter miles.)

In the first heat New College beat Stockholm by a length and a quarter in 6 minutes and 19 seconds.

The Leander eight beat the Australian crew by two-thirds of a length in 6 minutes 10 1-5 seconds, thus reversing the result of the race for the Grand Challenge Cup at Henley, July 6, when the Sydney Rowing Club's eight won by three-quarters of a length. It was a magnificent contest, the Australians leading over three-fourths of the course. Both crews were rowed out at the finish.

The eight representing the Berlin Rowing Club won their heat in 6 minutes 21-5 seconds.

The first heat in the single sculls between Messaros, Hungary, and Veirman, Belgium, was at first credited to Messaros, but was ordered re-rowed on the ground of a false start. Veirman won by three lengths in 7 minutes 52 seconds.

E. B. Butler of Toronto rowed over the course alone.

ATHLETES STOP AT COPENHAGEN

Cosmopolitan Group Participates in Games Before Danish Crowd.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, July 18.—Various American, English, Italian, Australian, Dutch, and Finnish athletes, returning from the Olympic games, participated in sports at the Stadium here to-day. Despite the unfavorable weather, there was a crowd of many thousand persons.

Applegarth of England won the 100-meter race in 10 4-5 seconds; Gerhardt of America was second. Applegarth also won the 200-meter race in 22 2-5 seconds.

$5,670 FOR DINNER SERVICE.

Other High Prices Realized at the "Clear-Up" Sale at Christie's.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 18.—To-day's mixed "clear-up" sale at Christie's brought unexpected excitement in the bidding for a rare Tournay dinner and dessert service of 192 pieces, painted with fruit and flowers in colors, with dark blue borders, gilt, with sprays of foliage and flowers. It brought $5,670, Hamburger being the buyer.

The high price of $787 was paid by Spellman for six Delft plates painted in blue with scenes from the Passion.

Mr. Smith, the auctioneers' clerk, gave on behalf of an unknown buyer $1,365 for a seventeenth century Scandinavian tapestry panel showing the Annunciation, Nativity, and Adoration. It is only a narrow strip, 14 inches wide and 5 feet 6 inches high. Another panel, of English fabric, probably made at Mortlake in the seventeenth century, depicting a pastoral scene, was sold for $1,100 to Van Staaten.

A Paduan bronze inkstand of about the year 1500, of the school of Riccio, triangular in shape, the corners supported by caryatids of lions terminating in scrolls, and with a satyr on the cover, was sold for $1,000 to Mathews.

A series of eleven Tyrolese sixteenth century wood carvings with allegorical, Scriptural, and historical subjects, went to Smith for $1,940.

A Bonheur du jour table, overlaid with Japanese lacquer of the Kagigawa school, was sold for $1,365 to Bartlett.

A William and Mary vase of bead work, with pastoral scenes, flowers, &c., a rare piece in perfect state, was knocked down to Harper for $785.

SAVOY MANAGER QUITS.

"Gustave" Resigns — His Successor Not Yet Appointed.

LONDON, July 18.—Gustave Leggelke, familiarly known to American visitors as "Gustave," who succeeded Henri Pruger as manager of the Hotel Savoy, has resigned.

His successor has not yet been selected.

CHINA IS SEEKING DR. MORRISON'S AID

Famous London Times Correspondent May Become the New Government's Adviser.

LONG A POWER IN PEKING

His Influence Greater Than That of Any Foreign Minister—His Adventurous Career.

PEKING, July 18.—The Chinese Government, it is learned to-day, is contemplating offering to Dr. George E. Morrison, the correspondent in Peking of The London Times, the post of General Adviser to the Republican Government.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Prof. Jeremiah W. Jenks, formerly of Cornell University and now of the School of Commerce of New York University, was at the State Department to-day and had a conference with Secretary Knox and leading officials of the department on Far Eastern affairs. He did not intimate whether or not he would accept the appointment of Financial Adviser to the new Chinese Government, but it is believed that he has decided to do so.

Prof. Jenks discussed, among other matters, the policy of this Government in the present mixed situation at Peking.

If Dr. George Ernest Morrison is appointed an Adviser by the Chinese Government, it will only mean that he will exchange an unofficial position for a position with official status. For years he has been a power in Peking, and has been consulted at every crisis by the leaders of various parties. Indeed, it has been said that his influence is considerably greater than that of any of the accredited foreign Ministers.

It has been said of him that if The Times were to order him from Peking to New York, and he were not in a hurry, he would probably get across the Pacific in a motor launch, land somewhere up in Alaska, and do the rest of the journey on foot, with perhaps a side trip to Labrador. His dispatches have long been a feature of the foreign page of The Times. Sometimes he is not heard from for many weeks, and then comes a long telegram describing some hazardous journey of investigation of the kind that he loves to make. Some years ago when Valentine Chirol, recently knighted by King George, was in poor health, and it was feared that he would have to resign the Times's foreign editorship, Morrison was mentioned as likely to succeed him, but those who knew the doctor said it would be hard to induce him to exchange his big house, his horses, and many servants, and his influential position at Peking for the confinement of London. Sir Valentine Chirol recovered, and is still The Times's Foreign Editor, so that it was not necessary for Morrison to make the choice.

Dr. Morrison, who was born in 1862 in the Scotch College at Geelong, Australia, of which his father was the Principal, led The Melbourne Age exploring expedition into New Guinea while in his early twenties. He was speared by a Papuan, and a portion of the spear remained imbedded in his body until he went to Edinburgh for his medical degree. There it provided opportunity for a remarkable operation.

He tramped 2,000 miles, from one end of Australia to the other. Another adventurous enterprise was his embarking as a common sailor on a South Sea recruiting vessel in order to study at first hand the conditions of the traffic in Kanakas for the sugar plantations.

Advices from Peking on Wednesday stated that Prof. Jeremiah W. Jenks, who recently resigned the Professorship of Political Economy and Politics at Cornell in order to assume general charge of the department of politics at New York University, had received the offer of the post of Financial Adviser to the Chinese Government. Other advisers, the dispatch added, were to be appointed shortly.

RUSSO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE?

Expected Outcome of Prince Katsura's Visit to St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, Friday, July 19.—The Novoe Vremya, commenting editorially on the visit of the Japanese statesman, Prince Katsura, who will arrive here on July 21, says that the visit is evidently connected with the formation of an alliance between Russia and Japan for the defense of their interests in Asia, especially in Manchuria and Mongolia.

The Novoe Vremya's conjecture is put forward merely as the logical outcome of the situation in the Far East, but there are reasons to believe that all the preliminary steps leading to such an alliance have already been taken by diplomacy.

Prince Katsura's journey to St. Petersburg excites great interest, and exceptional measures have been taken to guard him against Korean terrorists.

LONDON, July 18.—Great Britain has been kept informed of the Russo-Japanese negotiations in regard to the framing of a new agreement relative to Mongolia and Manchuria.

The officials of the Foreign Office, however, said to-day that they were in no position to confirm or deny the reported conclusion of an agreement at Tokio.

The report that Great Britain had assented to the agreement on condition that she have a free hand in Tibet was described at the Foreign Office as "without foundation."

TOKIO, July 18.—Official denial is made here of the report that a new Russo-Japanese convention is about to be entered into.

There is reason to believe that while there will be no new convention or treaty between the two powers a complete understanding has been reached regarding the future spheres of influence of Russia and Japan in Manchuria and Mongolia, emphasizing and somewhat enlarging the scope of the previous entente.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The State Department as yet gives no credence to the reports that a new convention has been framed between Russia and Japan by which Japan establishes her dominance in South Manchuria and Russia is confirmed in control of outer Mongolia.

There have for months been straws showing which way the wind might some day blow, but there has been no situation thus far in the protracted negotiations for the purpose of bracing up the new Chinese Government with support from the first-class powers which would justify such broad dissent from the concert of action proposed by the Knox note.

The State Department, without making any statement whatever as to the reported new treaty, will wait until authentic information can be had in regard to the matter.

NO MARLBOROUGH PROTEST.

And Gold Cup for Victory at Tourney Will Go to Capt. Guest.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, July 18.—There has been much discussion in connection with the award of the gold cup to Capt. the Hon. Frederick E. Guest at the tourney which was the feature of the "Elizabethan triumph" at Earl's Court, but it is now understood that as Lord Lonsdale, the arbiter, has received no official protest from others taking part, the cup, which Capt. Guest returned the day after the tourney, will be awarded to him.

The Duke of Marlborough absolutely declines to make any protest.

Capt. Guest in 1905 married Miss Amy Phipps of New York.

ANOTHER AIRMAN KILLED.

German Army Aviator Crushed by Engine—The 164th Victim.

LEIPSIC, July 18.—Lieut. Preusser, a German military aviator, was killed here to-day as he was making a landing after a flight.

The machine struck the ground violently and turned over twice, the airman being caught beneath the engine.

Aeroplane accidents have caused the death of 164 aviators and more or less serious injuries to as many more in the four years of aeroplane flying.

Since the beginning of this month twelve aviators, including Lieut. Preusser, killed yesterday, have died as a result of aeroplane accidents, in this country and abroad. The first accident this month, on July 1, caused the death of two persons, Miss Harriet Quimby and William A. P. Willard, who was flying as her passenger. On the same day two foreign airmen, Benno Koenig, a noted German aviator, and Capt. Boyo of the Spanish Army died from injuries suffered in aeroplane accidents.

On July 4, Lieut. Caranda of the Roumanian Army was killed by a fall at Bucharest, and the following day two British Army men, Capt. E. B. Loraine and Sergt. Major Wilson, were killed on Salisbury Plain. René Bedel, a French aviator of some note, lost his way in a fog, at St. Cyr, on July 9 and fell 200 feet to death. On July 13, Victor M. Smith, Jr., was killed at Ravenswood, Cal. Two days later the French aviator, Oliveres, was killed by a fall of 500 feet in France, and Lieut. Zekutski, a Russian Army aviator, was killed at Sebastopol.

The death of Lieut. Preusser brings the number of aviators lost by Germany to 20. France, which has been more active in aeronautics than any other nation, has lost 54 of her airmen, two of them women. The United States comes second with 33 victims, two of them women. England has lost 14, Russia 8, and Italy 7. Other nations which have lost one or more airmen are Spain, Belgium, Peru, Hungary, and Holland.

PORTUGUESE REBELS FAIL.

Royalists Did Not Receive Expected Support From the People.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Friday, July 19.—A correspondent of The Times, telegraphing from Verin, Spain, says:

"The Royalist raid in Portugal seems already to have spent its force. The invaders were in sufficient strength to strike a very severe blow, and if active sympathy had been forthcoming in Portugal itself their attempt to restore the monarchy might well have succeeded, but their friends in Portugal never went beyond extending passive sympathy.

"The Royalists planned to cross the frontier at Valencia and Chaves and after seizing these positions to await a sympathetic rising from within. Both attempts miscarried.

"The Royalists have plenty of ammunition, made in Toledo, their cartridges bearing the Toledo mark. Their guns are from the Spanish Government works at Oviedo.

"Indeed, the arms traffic which has been going on through Spanish ports lately has assumed serious proportions. Last Sunday a barge was run ashore near Coruna. Fifteen motor cars which were waiting were hastily laden with cartridges. No fewer than 40,000 rounds were left behind in the boat. These cartridges were bought in Toledo by Paraguayans for export to South America. They were escorted to the coast by a Spanish artillery officer.

"The Royalists have also plenty of funds. Twenty thousand pesetas are lying at the railway station at Guillarey, near Valencia."

BACK TO HIS PRINCESS.

Louise of Saxony and Musician Husband Make Up—May Come Here.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, July 18.—Friends of Princess Louise of Saxony will not be surprised to learn that she and her husband, the musician Toselli, have made up again and that the Princess wishes to tear up the legal separation and forget the many quarrels.

The couple are now contemplating a second honeymoon. The Princess's affection for little "Bubi," the care of whom was intrusted by the sentence of the court to the father, may have helped her to forget the past and return to her husband, but the reconciliation was mainly a result of the Princess's recent illness. Toselli rushed to her bedside to nurse her, and the Princess, overcome by this proof of attachment, made overtures for the re-establishment of their former relations, to which Toselli gave a warm welcome.

The second honeymoon is likely to take the couple to the United States next Winter, as the Princess has received an offer of an engagement to give a series of lectures in America on her life. These could be in various languages, as she speaks fluently German, Italian, French, and English.

Toselli would be engaged to play the piano before and after each lecture and during intervals, as the state of the Princess's health would not allow her to exert herself too long at a time.

TOLLS FOR ALL SHIPS URGED BY BRANDEGEE

Nothing Unpatriotic, Senator Says, in Making Vessels Which Are Benefited Pay.

BRITISH PROTEST NOT HERE

Refund on Arbitration Decision Might Reach $45,000,000—Canal Profits Estimated at $6,000,000 Yearly.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The subject of Panama Canal tolls was discussed as a business proposition in the Senate today, and little attention was paid to its international aspects. Chairman Brandegee of the committee in charge held the floor most of the time, and submitted a great deal of data as to the probable traffic through the canal. His estimates showed that on a basis of $1 a net registered ton the canal might clear $6,000,000 a year at the start, and that this would be increased later.

Mr. Brandegee was not arguing for making the canal a paying proposition, but he merely used the arbitrary rate of $1 a ton, which had figured largely in the talk here. As a matter of fact, the pending bill provides a maximum rate of $1.25, but should the estimates used today prove correct the rate would be considerably lowered.

According to the estimates of Dr. Henry R. Johnson of the University of Pennsylvania, who aided the sub-committee in the matter, a reasonable expectation for the year 1915, when the canal will be opened, would be for American coastwise steamers 1,000,000 tons, for American ships in the foreign trade 715,000 tons, and for foreign ships generally 8,715,00 tons. About four-fifhts of the entire traffic, he said, would be foreign. The cost of operation, according to Col. Goethals, will be only $4,000,000.

By 1920, from the tables which Mr. Brandegee read, Mr. Johnson predicted that the American tonnage through the canal would increase to 1,414,000, our foreign American tonnage to 905,000, and the foreign shipping would be 11,025,000 tons. By 1925, Dr. Johnson predicted, the American coastwise trade through the canal would have been doubled, while the foreign shipping would have increased by about 50 per cent.

"According to those figures," interrupted Mr. Stone, "if the Senator from New York (Mr. Root) was right about our refunding tolls, at the end of five years, if the case took that long before The Hague tribunal, we should have to pay back about $45,000,000."

Taking up the subject of Great Britain's objections, Mr. Brandegee urged that the same and unobjectionable thing for us to do wa sto levy equitable rates on all ships, both American and foreign, and then await developments. After we have adjusted rates and regulations to meet the competition of the Suez Canal, he said, it would be time enough to tell whether our ships needed to be freed of the burden of tolls. Then we could take up the international questions involved with our eyes open.

"Simply because Great Britain has protested I do not think there would be anything unpatriotic in making these ships, which are to be especially benefited, pay their own way," he said.

An early vote on the bill was predicted by Senator Brandegee. He said the bill would be opened to amendment in a few days. The question of tolls, he said, need not retard action on the administrative features.

A. Mitchell Innes, Chargé of the British Embassy, appeared at the State Department this forenoon to notify Secretary Knox that, for some reason unknown to him, the British protest against pending Panama Canal legislation had not yet arrived. Consequently the Secretary and the Chargé agreed to refrain from any discussion of the subject pending the receipt of the papers.

SOME SUEZ TOLLS REFUNDED

Though the Question of Preferential Tariffs Has Never Arisen.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 18.—The Daily Telegraph's shipping correspondent, writing in reference to the Panama bill, says:

"The Suez Canal, being an international waterway, the question of preferential tariffs has never arisen, but all the same the fact remains that certain ships which take the Suez route get their canal dues reimbursed by their Governments. For instance, it transpires that under the new contract with the French Government the Messageries Maritimes is well repaid in Suez Canal dues to the amount of about £144,000 ($720,000) yearly.

"It may be argued, of course, that if the canal dues were not refunded the subsidies paid by the Government would have to be increased correspondingly, and that the matter, therefore, is as broad as it is long, but the British Government never has recognized the principle of a free Suez Canal transit. Although the Russian Government pays canal dues regularly in the case of certain national vessels trading with its East Asiatic possessions, Great Britain would seem to be well within her rights if she were so disposed, in recouping British shipowners their canal dues in any part of the world.

"In the case of the Suez Canal she certainly has a large fund available. Her income from the Suez Canal shares last year was no less than £1,187,934, and the capital value of her shares on March 31 last returned £4,404,600, as compared to £3,760,800 on the same date in 1911. There is no sign, however, that British shipowners are going to get any relief from this source."

LLOYD'S AND THE CANAL.

Present Rates of Insurance Will, It Is Thought, Be Maintained.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 18.—Opinion at Lloyd's is strongly inclined to the view that the opening of the Panama Canal will not affect the existing rates of insurance on vessels sailing from here with Western American ports as their destination.

At present the difference in underwriting charges for voyages via Cape Horn and voyages via the Isthmus is only ⅜ per cent., notwithstanding the fact that the shorter route now involves transshipment and a railway journey, which will be done away with. When the canal opens it is expected that a rate of about 10s. per cent. will be maintained.

No fixed rate, of course, is set up by Lloyd's, each broker getting the best terms he can. It is thought that the enormous saving in time and freightage which shippers here will enjoy when vessels can use the canal will not only compensate them for the tollage, but also incline them to pay without protest insurance premiums which have become customary when the risk has been greater.

In any case, Lloyd's stand to benefit, because there will be more journeys, each requiring insurance, in the course of the year.

RUBBER OUTRAGES INQUIRY.

Stuart Fuller Specially Appointed to Investigate Conditions in Peru.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The United States is co-operating in the efforts, which are being made by Great Britain, to lay bare all the facts in regard to the oppression and murder of natives employed in the Putumayo rubber country in Peru.

Stuart J. Fuller, formerly Consul at Goteborg, Sweden, and Vice Consul at Naples, has been appointed Consul at Iquitos, for the express purpose of investigating the rubber district and reporting to the State Department on the alleged atrocities. Mr. Fuller's instructions will meet him at Para, he having gone directly from Sweden to the Upper Amazon country.

Consul Fuller has orders to take a launch and go up the Amazon and its tributaries wherever the rubber industry is carried on and inquire into conditions. He will not allow the rubber companies to provide transportation or entertainment, and will maintain an unbiased position between all parties concerned.

The attitude of this Government toward the situation at Putumayo is that Peru should have a chance to mend conditions in her own way. But there is no disposition to tolerate the commission of the crimes reported in the prosecution of the rubber industry.

The rubber country is forty day's travel from Lima, and with the difficult communication it is not easy to get evidence or apprehend the men who commit crimes.

Sir Richard Casement, British Consul General at Rio, was able to penetrate the jungle and learn more of the actual conditions than any one else, but the work of a recent commission, sent into the rubber country, has verified his charges.

The Peruvian Government has from the first shown a desire to deal with the criminals in a strong manner, but it has been hampered by the difficulties of the situation, the distance, and pathless character of the country and the uncivilized population.

Australia Opposes Rebate Plan.

MELBOURNE, July 18.—The House of Representatives to-day unanimously adopted a motion setting forth that "in the opinion of this House any system providing for a bonus or a rebate of canal dues to American shipping using the Panama Canal would be detrimental to the interests of Australia." Premier Fisher said he hoped that the matter would be amicably settled by the Governments of the United States and Great Britain.

WOULD PUT PATENTS IN THE TRUST CLASS

House Committee Is Preparing Sweeping Amendments to the Present Laws.

CURB ON SUCH MONOPOLIES

Seek to Remedy Situation Created by the Supreme Court in the Mimeograph Case.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Changes of important and far-reaching character in the patent statutes will be recommended to the House by the Committee on Patents next week as the result of an agreement reached among its members to-day in a bill intended to remedy the situation created by the Supreme Court of the United States in its recent decision in the mimeograph case.

Among other important features of the legislation to be recommended will be the provisions making the principles of the Sherman law clearly applicable to monopolies based upon patent rights. By reason of the control of patent rights and the contention in some quarters that the Sherman law is not applicable to patent monopolies, a monopoly which some seem to think is granted by the Constitution, this question has been a live one before the Patents Committees of both Senate and House, many bills having been introduced.

While the committee was in the midst of its consideration of this phase of the patent question the Supreme Court handed down its vital decision in the Dick mimeograph case, in which it was held, in brief, that purchasers of patented articles were liable to actions for infringement of the patent if there were a breach of the contract of sale.

Under that decision if the patented article were a mimeograph, under the sale contract of which only ink made by the maker of the mimeograph should be used, then no other ink nor paper, if there were such a stipulation as to paper, could be used by the purchaser or licensee.

This developed another batch of bills, putting the question up to members of the Patents Committee. After all these bills relating to the mimeograph decision, patent monopoly, and other live phases of the patent question, the committee has now agreed upon an omnibus bill, framed as a committee measure covering them all, and Chairman Oldfield has been instructed to report this bill to the House at once with recommendation for its passage. The bill will be reported next week.

When asked about this bill to-night Chairman Oldfield said to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent:

"I cannot give you the text of the bill, but it provides for three important changes in the law.

"First, it provides for compulsory licenses. It will not apply to the original inventor, but only to those persons or corporations who buy up patented articles for the purpose of suppressing competition.

"Second, it provides that no purchaser, licensee, or lessee of any patented article shall be liable for action for infringement of the patent because of breach of any contract or sale or license. The bill does not propose to take away any right of action so far as the contract is concerned, but it does take away any right that now exists to bring an infringement suit which grows out of a contract with regard to the use or sale of a patented article.

"Third, it will so amend the Sherman anti-trust law, in effect, as to make it applicable clearly to combinations and trusts in restraint of trade where patents are involved in the monopoly."

From another source THE NEW YORK TIMES is enabled to give the basic provisions of the compromise bill which will next week be reported to the House with the favorable recommendation of the committee. Under the present laws, for a term of seventeen years the owner of the patent has the exclusive right to make use of and vend the invention throughout the United States. But there is nothing in existing law to compel the owner of the patent right to use that patent or to force the patentee to allow others to use the patent.

The consequence is that there are many patents which are not being used. Some of these patents have been bought up by large industrial corporations, alleged trusts and combinations, and these inventions are not used by the concern owning the patent and are not usable by rivals of that concern.

The first important change proposed by the House Patents Committee is for a compulsory license for the use of any of these "buried" patents. The plan of the House Committee is to clothe the court of the district wherein the owner of a patent, or of any interest in the patent has a residence or established place of business, with jurisdiction to "compel" the granting of a license under such patents for its use, under circumstances specifically set forth in the proposed legislation.

The persons desirous of using the patent under a compulsory license would file a bill in equity setting forth the facts and circumstances. The court would thereupon hear the person applying for the license and the owner of the patent. If the applicant for the compulsory license proves to the court's satisfaction that the patented invention is being withheld or suppressed by the owner of the patent, or by those under him, for the purpose, or with the result of preventing any other person from using the patented process or making, using and selling the patented articles in the United States in competition with any other article or process, patented or unpatented used years before, then the court must order the owner of the patent to grant a license to the applicant in such form and upon such terms as to duration of the license, amount of royalty, the security for its payment, and otherwise as the court, having regard to the nature of the invention and circumstances of the case, deems just.

From the order of the District Court granting or refusing the application for such a compulsory license, the aggrieved party may appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals as in another case arising under the patent laws. The proposed compulsory license is not to be retroactive. Its provisions are not to apply to any patent granted before the passage of the proposed law.

The second important change proposed in the patent law will allow every person who buys of the inventor his invention the right to use and vend to others the specific thing so made or purchased without liability. This section has been construed by the Supreme Court in the Dick mineograph case, along with other patent sections, as allowing the owner of the invention to stipulate in the contract of sale how the patent may be used, and where the materials to be used with the invention, such as ink or paper, must be purchased, otherwise the purchaser would be infringing the patent and liable.

The next important change proposed relates to the patent aspects of the trust question. In the opinion of some members of the commitee this is the most important part of the bill. It is intended to meet the contention that the Sherman law cannot reach a monopoly based upon the control of patent rights. This portion of the bill will provide that no patent shall be used to restrain unreasonably or to monopolize or to attemt to monopolize any part of the trade or commerce of the United States or with foreign nations, except in such articles as and to the extent to which they embody the invention or discovery so patented.

The bill will provide that no patent shall be used as a part of any combination in restraint of trade or to monopolize or attempt to monopolize trade. Any article used in this prohibited manner will be subject to condemnation by such proceedings as are provided by existing law for forfeiture, seizure, and condemnation of property imported into the United States contrary to law.

EXCISE VOTE BEFORE SUGAR.

Tactical Victory by Democrats May Insure aPssage by Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The Senate to-day decided to vote on the Wool bill, the Excise bill, and the Sugar bill on July 25, 26, and 27. It is foreordained that the tariff measures will meet defeat, but Senator Simmons of North Carolina and Senator Stone of Missouri, by insisting that the excise measure be voted on before the Sugar bill, won a tactical victory, which makes the passage of the income levy possible. Mr. Smoot of Utah opposed the shift in dates, but rather than face a Democratic filibuster yielded the point.

Early in the session the Excise bill, or income tax measure, was thought certain of passage by the Senate, as popular support was general throughout the country. From the beginning, however, the new levy was supposed to get its justification from the reduced revenues that would result from the passage of anything like the Free-Sugar bill. The Senate insurgents, who always opposed free sugar, justified the extra tax on the ground that the money would be needed for the increase in pensions then contemplated in the Sherwood bill.

Since that time the regulars have reduced the Sherwood bill down to half its original size, but there is still a resulting increase in expenditures amounting to about $30,000,000. Mr. Stone's point in objecting to a vote on sugar before the excise measure came up was that he feared the Republicans would kill free sugar and then argue that the new tax, while good in principle, was not needed at this time.

NAVAL OFFICER A DESERTER.

Assistant Constructor Leaves Service and Flees to Canada.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Assistant Naval Constructor John C. Sweeney, formerly attached to the navy yard at Puget Sound, was to-day declared to be a deserter from the navy. He disappeared from the Puget Sound yard June 6, 1910, under circumstances that were somewhat puzzling, and for a time it was believed that he had lost his life by drowning. Gradually facts came to light that showed he was seriously in debt and that he was entangled in domestic affairs.

It was concluded then that he had disappeared to save himself from court-martial. It was learned recently through the travels of a young woman to whom he had been married that he had gone to Canada and was living there. As there was every evidence that he was in his right mind and that he deliberately left the country there was no other alternative than to declare that he had deserted the service. A designation of an officer from a lower grade to take his place will be made.

MILLIONS FOR MEXICO IF PEACE IS ASSURED

International Banker Estimates That $100,000,000 Soon Will Seek Investment There.

REBELS TO ABANDON JUAREZ

Federal Troops Under Gen. Huerta Moving North—Gen. Orozco to Make Headquarters at Casas Grandes.

From a Special Correspondent of the Central News, Limited, London.

MEXICO CITY, July 18.—"You can say without exaggeration that not less than $100,000,000 will be invested in Mexico within the next few months by European capitalists," said an international banker of high standing last night in reply to my inquiry as to whether capital which had been scared off by the revolution was showing signs of reawakened interest.

"Now that President Madero has the political situation well in hand," continued the banker, "we have had many inquiries from abroad recently regarding the outlook in Mexico for large investments.

"The capital referred to will be invested in both old and new enterprises; in some cases the capitalization of existing mining and railroad corporations will be increased, in others new railroads will be built, and new mining properties exploited, not to speak of enterprises of a different character."

Gen. Jovencio Robles, who was intrusted with the task of pacifying the State of Morelos, was sharply criticised privately yesterday by Flores Magon, Minister for the Interior, for alleged inactivity. It appears that Magon blames Robles for the recent outrages committed by Zapatistas. A band of the latter yesterday shot up a passenger train on the Interoceanic Railway, fifty miles west of Puebla, wounding four, one fatally. There have been numerous encounters between bandits and federals, and the train service on the Interoceanic is still disorganized.

In the District of Oaxaca, which was recently the scene of an outbreak of the Ixtepeji Indians, a force of Federals was ambuscaded in the mountains a week ago and forced to retreat after a two days' battle, losing forty killed, including Gen. Parres, and several officers wounded. The situation in that region is reported to be bad.

Gen. Huerta Preparing to Occupy Juarez—Protecting Mormons.

CHIHUAHUA, Mex., July 18.—Federal troops under the command of Capt. Chavez routed forces of rebels in three successive encounters, yesterday, 40 miles to the south of Parral. Gen. Huerta, Commander in Chief of the Government forces, has repaired the railway line as far as Sauz, which city has been occupied by the Federals.

JUAREZ, July 17.—The rebels admit that they intend to abandon Juarez soon. Orozco will establish headquarters at Casas Grandes.

MEXICO CITY, July 18.—The Mexican Foreign Minister, Pedro Lascurain, in an interview to-day said that every effort was being made by the Government to protect the Mormons.

GOOD-WILL SIGN TO MEXICO.

Cruiser Denver to Fly Friendly Flag on Tour of Western Coast.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The cruiser Denver is to make a friendly cruise along the western coast of Mexico, starting July 30. She will stop at Topclabampo, Altata, Mazatlan, San Blas, Acapulco, and Salinas Cruz, and on the return voyage will touch at Manzanillo and possibly one or two other points.

The aim on the part of this Government is to show our kindly attitude toward the Madero Government, and to allow the National colors to be seen in a region where many Americans are engaged in business pursuits, and now, after a period of long unrest and disturbance, will be glad to have the assurance that the home Government is looking after the peace and good order of their new home.

CATERPILLARS FEAST ON THE PARK TREES

Vitality of Many Fine Elms Is Endangered by the Pest.

SPRAYING BADLY NEEDED

But There Is Not Enough Money to Do This Thoroughly, Says Commissioner Stover.

Visitors to Central Park within the last few days, and those who walk along the Fifth Avenue side of the Park, have been appalled at the destruction being done to the fine elm trees by thousands of caterpillars. They are the tussock moths, long known among landscape gardeners as one of the most persistent and destructive insects with which they have to deal. Within the limits of Central Park they seem to have sprung into life in unusually large numbers this year. Charles Downing Lay, the landscape architect of the Park, said yesterday that in a recent trip through the parks of Brooklyn and the Bronx he saw comparatively few of them.

E. S. Avery, who lives at the Metropolitan Club, and several other lovers of New York's fine trees, have called attention to this unfortunate state of affairs, and have not hesitated to say that unless the deadly moth situation is taken in hand quickly and forcibly Central Park and other sections of Manhattan Island which possess handsome trees will see many of the best specimens degenerated to decayed stumps before the approach of another Spring.

Landscape architects and authorities on trees who were asked yesterday if it were too late in the season to do anything to counteract the destructive effects of these pests said on the contrary that this was the very time to get to work. As soon as the caterpillars emerge from their cocoons, which they are now doing by the thousands, they start upward for the green leaves, upon which they feed, and then return to the trunk to lay their eggs within the bark. If the trees are well sprayed with arsenate of lead mixture they will die before denuding the tree partially of the leaves.

"This spraying is the second means of eradicating the moths," said William J. Zartmann yesterday. For ten years he was Superintendent of Parks in Brooklyn. "My method of fighting the tussock moth has been to have workmen clean off the trunk and branches thoroughly in the Winter with wire brushes. The small cocoons are swept out of their hiding places, and, being caught on pieces of canvas under the tree, are then burned. This is a laborious job, for with large trees the men must get up to the top and scrape all the branches, and one man cannot do much more than three trees a day.

"The spraying comes when the moths first appear—anywhere from the end of June to the middle of July. If thoroughly applied by power spraying machines to every part of the tree one good spraying ought to be sufficient."

Mr. Zartmann figured out the approximate cost of this work at about $1.30 a tree. The spraying is the most costly. A crew of five men and a modern power spraying machine, he said, ought to clean about sixty trees a day.

"One or two years' work is not enough," added Mr. Zartmann. "It must be faithfully followed out year after year, and then, while we cannot prevent the appearance of these insects entirely, they will be less in number and less destructive to the future life and beauty of the trees."

Park Commissioner Stover, when asked what was being done to kill off the moths and prevent their future propogation, said that he believed everything that could be done with the means at hand was being accomplished, and he added that spraying machines were at work in several parts of the Park.

"The elms, of course, give us a great deal of trouble," he said, "more than any other trees. We have these caterpillar conditions more or less every year. If they are worse this season I had not been informed of it. All of the appropriation allotted this year for the care of trees is being used, and, I think, the work has been very well done. You must remember that in addition to spraying, which is done regularly every Spring, the trees and shrubbery need pruning and other forms of attention, so that all the work cannot be devoted to killing insects. I admit that more ought to be done to keep the Central Park trees in the healthiest possible condition, but our funds are limited, and our workmen, too. We have to care not only for Central Park but all the trees in the park system of Manhattan. More trees have been planted in the last year than in any former year, and these new ones are all doing well.

"If we had the money and could do more spraying I should be only too glad to have it done. We do need more money for Central Park, but how can you get it when the city is poor? I intend, however, to ask for a much larger appropriation for that very purpose this year. Remember that it is not only the moths that we have to contend with, but the poor soil of the Park. There is no question that the trees in the Bronx and Brooklyn parks are better than in Manhattan."

Landscape Architect Lay said that the caterpillar, unusually successful invasion of the Park trees this Summer demanded some strenuous action.

"There is no danger that the moths will immediately kill the trees," he said, "but they surely do no good. The tussock moth, although not necessarily fatal at the start, will in the end impair the vitality of the tree. The caterpillars destroy the leaves and then lay their eggs for another season's moth supply. The leaves eventually turn yellow and drop off. If this is continued for several seasons the tree will probably die."

A careful inspection of the elms in and around the vicinity of the Mall revealed the fact that only in a few isolated cases had any visible attempt been made to scrape the bark on the trunks of the large trees, thereby destroying the larvae before the formation of the white cocoons. So thickly studded are the trunks and upper branches of the large elms at the lower end of the Mall that a person is attracted to their whitened appearance at a distance of several feet. The trunks look as if hundreds of small cotton balls had been fastened there. Close inspection will disclose caterpillars ready to emerge from these cocoons, while on many trees hundreds of tussock moths, with the bright red, yellow, and black markings on their backs, are industriously climbing up the trunk making for the green leaves. So annoying has this pest of caterpillars become that many of the seats under these elms are quickly vacated, as the caterpillars are constantly falling to the ground.

There are eight or nine fairly large elms around the Shakespeare statue at the lower end of the Mall whose trunks are thickly studded with these white cocoons. This is one of the worst places in the Mall.

The elms on the Mall, which a few years ago made such a magnificent archway with their overhanging branches over the central path, are now deplorable to look upon. Instead of two long lines of tall handsome elms on each side of the walk there are many vacant spaces which have been filled in with young trees. On the west side, walking north, are fifteen large elms and fourteen on the east side, while twenty-eight young elms have been set out to take the places of many of the oldest trees in the Park which have died in recent years. Besides the caterpillars the remaining elms show indications of other diseases, noticeable by the dead branches protruding in a most unpicturesque way from the sides and tops.

MORE LOAN-SHARK RAIDS.

Four Offices Entered and Those in Charge Arrested.

Four squads of Central Office detectives raided four places simultaneously at five minutes to noon yesterday as the offices of loan sharks. They arrested two men and two girls. In each case the prisoner was the only person found in the office.

The places raided were at 203 Broadway, 100 Fifth Avenue, 116 Nassau Street, and 12 East Forty-second Street. In the first place the detectives found Miss May Quinn of Elmhurst, L. I. She ran inside a partition, slammed the door, and was telephoning when a detective climbed the partition. At 100 Fifth Avenue Miss Nan Bauman was receiving a telephone message when the detectives entered. One of them grabbed the receiver and heard: "The cops are here. Get busy."

Later, the detective, hearing Miss Quinn speak, said it was her voice he had heard over the telephone. Jacob Brodie was arrested at 116 Nassau Street. It was the third time in three weeks. Louis Totans was caught at 12 East Forty-second Street.

All the prisoners were bailed out after they had been arraigned before Magistrate McQuade in the Tombs Court.

Killed by Train in 11th Avenue.

Mathew Berry, 57 years old, a track walker employed by the New York Central Railroad and who lived at No. 415 Tenth Avenue, was run down by a freight train yesterday afternoon, when crossing the company's tracks at Thirty-third Street and Eleventh Avenue. He was removed to New York Hospital, by Dr. Goulding and did soon after his arrival.

Child Falls Three Stories; Unhurt.

PHILADELPHIA, July 18.—Florence Fleer, 7 years old, fell while at play from a third-story window at her home in this city to-day, and when picked up from the sidewalk and taken to a hospital was found unhurt. Physicians found the only inconvenience she suffered was a slight headache.

WILLIAM ST. FIGHTS SUBWAY PLAN THERE

Property Owners Declare That Excavating Will Damage and Perhaps Ruin Buildings.

COURT WILL DECIDE IT

Public Service Commission Will Probably Carry the Matter to the Appellate Division.

Opposition developed yesterday to the plan to construct a subway down William Street, and it appears certain that the Public Service Commission will be obliged to ask the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, in default of the consent of the property owners, to declare that this route is necessary. The attitude taken by those who own property on William Street is regarded as more important than were similar refusals in other parts of the city, because the Appellate Division has already refused to legalize the William Street route, and because the adoption of this route by the Public Service Commission six weeks ago resolved a deadlock with regard to the layout downtown of the new lines, which threatened to cause a breach in the subway settlement.

The opposition came to a head yesterday afternoon in a meeting of the William Street property holders held in the offices of the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, 22 William Street. Representatives of forty-five firms interested in the street were present, and it was declared afterward that there was no doubt that a large majority of the property holders between Beekman Street and Old Slip would withhold their consent. Among the firms represented were the National City Bank, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Lord's Court, the Atlantic Mutual Building, the Corn Exchange Bank, J. & W. Seligman & Co., the Bank of America, the London and Liverpool and Globe Fire Insurance Company, the Cotton Exchange, the Coffee Exchange, the Bank of New York, the National Banking Association, the Royal Insurance Company, and the Woodbridge Building.

Frederick Geller, counsel for the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, presided. The protests were based mainly on the engineering difficulties to be overcome in excavations down William Street. Daniel E. Moran, an engineer, gave expert advice. He said that the character of the buildings and the nature of the ground would make it unusually hazardous to attempt underground construction there. Many of the buildings are old and some are lofty. The old buildings have not been carried down to rock, but depend on ordinary foundations resting on the soil, and some of the modern skyscraper builders found quick-sands as they were digging their foundations and were obliged to adopt floating foundations.

Then, the proposed subway will be below mean high water mark and fear was expressed that as soon as digging started some of the incidents of the construction of the present Subway in Fourth Avenue, when buildings were greatly damaged, if not ruined, would be repeated.

Some of the speakers doubted the value of the extension of the Interborough Subway through William Street to that part of the city, and it was recalled that when the old Rapid Transit Board laid out a route along that thoroughfare it was successfully resisted. Then, as now, the property owners refused their consent, and the matter was carried to the Appellate Division. Charles Bulkeley Hubbell was named as referee, and after he had heard the evidence on both sides he reported against the legalization of this route.

The meeting took no final action yesterday, but decided that a committee of five should be appointed to report to another meeting of property holders in the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company's offices next Thursday afternoon.

The William Street route is of particular importance in the Subway settlement because it was only proposed at the last moment as a compromise to enable the settlement of the controversy which had arisen over the downtown routes of the B. R. T. and the Interborough. The Public Service Commission had in the first place assigned to the Interborough the Whitehall Street tunnel to Brooklyn and had offered the B. R. T. the Liberty Street-Old Slip route. The B. R. T. was strongly opposed to this on account of its many curves and expressed a strong preference for the Whitehall Street Line, for which the Interborough had no strong desire.

The controversy caused so much delay that there was a real fear that the entire subway negotiations would break down, either through the withdrawal of J. P. Morgan & Co., who were getting tired of carrying obligations for the raising of $170,000,000 for an indefinite period, or through the dissatisfaction of the B. R. T. with the line which had been awarded to it.

When matters had almost reached a breaking point Alfred Craven, chief engineer of the Public Service Commission, suggested that if the B. R. T. received the Whitehall Street Line, the Interborough might reach Brooklyn with its Seventh Avenue line by way of Park Place, Beekman Street, William Street, and Old Slip. This solution of the difficulty was agreed to by all, and the Board of Estimate proceeded to accept the Subway layout.

The Public Service Commission is not likely to consider that the opposition of the William Street property owners will be as decisive now as it was when the question came up some time ago. The difficulty raised over the fact that the William Street subway will have in places to go below mean high-water mark was dismissed with the remark that precisely the same might be said of the new subways in a number of other places. The new Canal Street line, for example, will be built on the second level, and in many places it has been necessary to double-deck the new lines, without finding any reluctance on the part of contractors to undertake the work at a reasonable price.

It is recognized that some of the William Street buildings are old and have not modern foundations, but in those sections of Broadway in which the Subway is now under construction precisely the same conditions have been met and overcome. Moreover, though there is undoubtedly some quicksand to be faced in William Street, there is not believed to be sufficient to create any serious danger. Even if the buildings did suffer some damage, a matter which is not admitted by the Public Service Commission to be probable, the owners, it was pointed out, would be able to get damages from the city, and entire confidence was expressed yesterday afternoon that with all the experience recently gained in subway digging a tunnel could be built under William Street without real risk.

The one difficulty that was likely to be awkward, it was suggested, was that some of the buildings have extended their foundations beyond the building line into the street, and that this might cause a considerable expense to the property owners in the removal of their unauthorized extensions.

Hedges Hunts Up-State.

Job E. Hedges started in a high-power motor car yesterday in quest of the Gubernatorial nomination. His automobile campaign will occupy twelve days, in which he will visit fifty cities and talk to local Republicans at meetings arranged in advance. He is accompanied by John A. Stewart, President of the State League of Republican Clubs, who will act as his campaign manager. NEW YORK VISITORS KEEP STORES BUSY

Midsummer This Year Has Brought a Brisk Trade in Many Lines.

THE SEASON OF BARGAINS

Thrifty Customers Buying Christmas Presents While Vacation Demands Are Heaviest.

The rush of travel to New York this Summer has brought business to the big department stores in the city, and also to the stores along Fifth Avenue and other streets that make specialties of articles suitable for gifts, such as jewelry, millinery, gloves, and laces. Managers said yesterday that business in July had been very good despite the heat, and that they were looking forward to its continuing through August. There has been a marked increase of trade in the Summer outfitting departments, especially in women's clothing and all kinds of goods in the sporting line, including camp outfits, canoes, and motor boats.

There has been a big demand for furniture of all kinds from the city, as well as orders to be shipped to the mountains, seashore, and abroad. The increased number of families who are spending the Summer at their homes and taking week-end trips to the seashore has brought business to the stores.

A TIMES reporter, who visited several of the leading stores, could not discover any traces of the apathy through lack of custom that existed formerly during July, when the proprietors were imbued with the notion that it was no use to make an effort to attract customers because the city was empty, and there was no one to buy.

There was plenty for the staffs to do, the managers said, and in some cases the work was heavier than it was at Christmas time, because at that period of the year extra hands were employed for the rush. Altman's and McCreery's have both had good business this month, an an official of the latter firm said that trade had been exceptionally brisk both at the Thirty-fourth Street and at the Twenty-third Street store.

The Superintendent at Macy's store, at Thirty-fourth Street and Broadway, said that business had been excellent so far, and there were no signs of a falling off. In some respects it was as good as November. "We have a large number of customers from the South as well as Mexico, Cuba, and the Central American Republics," he said. "There is no question that the business in New York in the Summer months is improving each year."

At Saks's store, on the opposite corner, the opinion regarding business was the same, and an official said that the demand for Summer goods had been exceptionally large.

One of the managers of Gimbel Brothers was most enthusiastic over the business during the Summer. He said: "We realized that there was a large business to be done in New York in July if an attempt was made to get it. We went after it and we have succeeded in getting a good share of it. Our July sales have attracted numbers of visitors from out-of-town districts, and many of them come in now to purchase their Christmas presents. In this sale people can purchase, for example, a lace embroidered spread for $5 which in November or December they will have to pay $11 to $12.50 for. These articles do not take up much room and can be placed away in a drawer until the season comes to give them. Embroidered handkerchiefs in boxes of six are also very popular with customers who are buying ahead of time and getting good bargains.

"We are also having a big demand for Summer clothing and outfits for vacations, which seem to be a little later than last year. Then, again, many New Yorkers who own automobiles are staying in the city with their families and taking short trips out to the country, and they bring additional business to the stores.

"When we notice any of our customers suffering too much from the heat we ask them if they would like to change from Broadway to the north pole, which is located on the second floor. It is very bracing to go up and take a 'cooler' occasionally, and there is no danger of catching cold."

On Sixth Avenue and Twenty-third Street the big stores, like O'Neill-Adams, the Simpson, Crawford Company, and Stern Brothers, were all doing good business and optimistic for the future. The extreme heat on one or two days recently made a difference, it was said, but the people who stayed away came later to make their purchases.

One of the managers of the Greenhut-Siegel Cooper Company, which operates the two stores on either side of Sixth Avenue at Eighteenth Street, said yesterday:

"I do not know what the cause of it has been, but our furniture sales during the month of July have been phenomenal, and other lines have also been good. We keep a daily record of our sales for statistics, and the records show plainly that there has been a great improvement in business over last year, and I believe that it will continue to improve each year. Thousands of New Yorkers go away for a month, but they do not stay for the entire Summer, as was the custom in former years. During their absence the city is filled with visitors, who come from all parts of the United States as well as Canada and abroad."

VAN CORTLANDT LAND GONE.

Augustus Van Cortlandt's Will Shows Estate Has Dwindled to 25 Acres.

Augustus Van Cortlandt, a member of one of the oldest families in New York State for which Van Cortlandt Park was named, because that family once owned practically all of it, left an estate of upwards of $1,250,000, of which very little was in reality, according to information given out yesterday in connection with the filing of his will in the Surrogates' Court. It was said that 25 acres of land now comprised the real estate. This property is in the Bronx and Westchester County. Most of Mr. Van Cortlandt's property was in cash, securities, and personal effects.

By the will, Mr. Van Cortlandt, who died on June 28, left practically all his personal effects, including silverware, wines, household furniture, horses, carriages, and automobiles to his oldest son. This has been the policy of the Van Cortlandts for five generations. His oldest son is Augustus Van Cortlandt, Jr., of Garden City, L. I.

The rest of the estate is divided among the other children. His daughter, Mrs. Mary Bayley Matthews of Shanklin, Isle of Wight, England, will receive the surplus income for her life from a fund of $65,000, set aside to pay the expenses of administering the estate. His sons, Robert B. Van Cortlandt of Mount Kisco, N. Y., and Henry W. Van Cortlandt of Goshen, N. Y., will receive shares equal to one-quarter of the estate. The value of these shares was increased by the death of a fourth son, Edward W. Van Cortlandt in 1910.

The testator explained in the will that he omitted making any provision for his daughter, other than what she would receive from the trust fund set aside for expenses in handling the estate, because he had already given her $20,000, which she had agreed to accept in lieu of any interest in the estate.

RIGHT FROM THE FARMERS.

Housewives' League Will Open a Direct Market This Morning.

Mrs. Julian Heath, President of the Housewives' League, announced last night that her organization was going to sell vegetables direct from the farm to the public of the city this morning in the first experiment of the sort ever tried here. The league, she said, had induced several farmers from Spring Vally, L. I., headed by A. I. F. Buxbaum, to come to town with truckloads of vegetables, which will be picked fresh at 5 o'clock in the morning and to sell them in the arches under the Queensboro Bridge at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

To help the farmers dispose of their goods and to fill without charge the place of commission merchants and middlemen Mrs. Heath said a committee of the league will be at the bridge. The committee consists of Mrs. Heath, Mrs. George Caraway, Mrs. Charles Griffin, Mrs. George Jewett, and Miss Mary Crane.

The vegetables, Mrs. Heath said, would be sold at considerably less than the prevailing market prices, owing to the absence of the middlemen. She said that by bringing the farmer to deal directly with the housewives the league hoped to solve the problem of the high cost of living.

PASS GLOBE INDEMNITY CO.

Referees Approve Its Application to Do Business In This State.

Michael J. Egan and Lewis L. Delafield submitted to the Supreme Court yesterday their report on the financial condition of the Globe Indemnity Company, which under the law must be ascertained before an indemnity company can be permitted to do business in this State.

The referees found that the company, which was organized in March, 1911, with a capital of $500,000, had total assets amounting to $1,686,748, with a surplus as to stockholders of $382,082 and as to creditors of $1,113,000.

The referees pointed out as proof of the company's soundness that all of its stock except seventy shares was owned by the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company of England, known for its "solvency, efficiency, and fair dealing."

The officers of the Globe Indemnity Company are Henry W. Eaton, President; George W. Hoyt, Vice President, and A. Duncan Reid, Secretary.

OFF QUEENSBORO BRIDGE.

Young Man Attempts Suicide and Is Picked Up Internally Injured.

Joseph Smith, who said he was 21 years old and had no home, jumped from the middle span of the Queensboro Bridge yesterday morning, and a few minutes later was picked out of the water by the crew of the Charities steamer Thomas M. Mulry. The young man was removed to Bellevue Hospital on a charge of attempted suicide. He is suffering with internal injuries and will probably die.

The Thomas M. Mulry was steaming up the East River on her way to the Seventieth Street landing when Capt. Patrick Deehan saw the form of the man dropping through the air. The Captain gave orders to make for the spot where the body sank.

The man was quickly found and pulled aboard with boathooks. After he had given his name to the Captain the man became unconscious.

WOODFORD COMING HOME.

Cable to George T. Wilson Announces General Is Out of Danger.

George T. Wilson, Vice President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, received a cable yesterday from Mrs. Stewart L. Woodford from Rowsley, England, as follows:

"Gen. Woodford practically out of danger. His recovery only question of time. We hope to be home during August."

AUTOIST SAVES HIMSELF.

By an Acrobatic Feat Mr. Toplitz Escapes in Collision with Car.

While crossing Forty-second Street, going north in Seventh Avenue, shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday, Berthold Toplitz, proprietor of the Greeley Square Garage, 137 West Thirty-seventh Street, saved his life by an acrobatic feat when his runabout was struck and overturned by a southbound Broadway car rounding the corner from Seventh Avenue into Forty-second Street. Just as the car caught up the rear of his machine and nosed it over Toplitz hurled himself into the street, and, landing on his back, "flipped" like an expert tumbler to one side of the tracks scarcely a second before the little automobile, twisted and broken, fell bottom side up exactly on the spot where he first landed. Hundreds of persons in the Times Square district were excited witnesses of the accident.

According to Toplitz and several witnesses, the avenue was opened and the signal was made by the traffic policeman for him to come across. Dr. L. Ward of the Essex County Hospital, Toplitz said, was in the car at the time, and, with several other passengers on the rear platform, tried to alight before the car turned into Forty-second Street. The passengers were told by Conductor Hogan to wait until the car stopped in Forty-second Street. The motorman of the car, Patrick Quirt of 764 Third Avenue, Toplitz said, did not seem to have good control of his car, as it went to the middle of the block between Seventh Avenue and Broadway before a stop was made.

Toplitz sustained a sprained wrist and several bruises in the accident. His automobile was demolished. He was able, however, to gather up the fragments of his machine and have it rolled around to his garage, in Thirty-seventh Street.

SUES W. E. D. STOKES.

Girl Hurt by His Auto Asks $75,000 Damages.

Action was begun yesterday in the Supreme Court by Miss Alma Benson, 15 years old, to recover $75,000 damages from W. E. D. Stokes of the Hotel Ansonia, who ran over her in his automobile on June 30, 1912.

Miss Benson, through her father, who was appointed guardian ad litem by Justice Gavegan, complains that she has been permanently injured by Mr. Stokes's carelessness. Among the injuries mentioned are a fractured thigh, a broken leg, contusions, and severe shocks to the nervous system.

Appended to the complaint was the permission to serve Mr. Stokes by publication, owing to his refusal and to that of his attorney to accept service of the summons.

NO PREFERENCE FORVETERAN

Court Refuses to Order Reinstatement of Discharged Painter.

Supreme Court Justice Giegerich refused to discriminate in favor of a veteran of the civil war, who had applied for a writ of reinstatement in the civil service of the city, in a decision yesterday.

Samuel Ray of 27 Putnam Avenue, Brooklyn, became a foreman painter and varnisher in connection with the Department of Public Works in 1896. He held this position for fourteen years and was then removed, through no fault of his own, but because it was found that his services had become superfluous.

Alfred J. Talley, his attorney, moved to mandamus President McAneny for reinstatement. The fact that he was a veteran and therefore privileged was presented as an argument. But Justice Giegerich found that "cases holding that military and naval veterans have a preference over non-veterans as to application and employment to the extent of requiring the latter to be first discharged in order to create vacancies for the former in the event of lack of work or funds" could not be extended to the civil service.

"Ho!" cried the poet, with delight,
"They taste like sun and autumn blended."
Then penned a toast—straightway to Post,
"Here's to your Toasties—they are splendid."

Dignity and Large Circulation

These two are seldom found together in a newspaper. Large circulations are most often secured at the expense of dignity, conservatism and truthfulness.

There are a few newspapers throughout the country which have held to these and grown big as well. They are the inspiration of the publishers with ideals. They prove that it can be done.

The Baltimore Sun

is one of these papers. By deserving them it has built up among its readers those two greatest assets—good will and confidence. The "Sunpaper" is a Maryland institution.

Its Circulation is 120,000 Net Paid—Largest in the South

During the past year THE SUN'S increase in circulation has been remarkable. Get full information before making up your Fall list.

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, JULY 19, 1912.

BRITISH FINANCE.

It was reported yesterday that British consols sold at the lowest in eighty-six years, on the same day that the Government issued £3,800,000 of eighteen-year Exchequer 3 per cents. There may be those who think the two events more nearly related as cause and effect than the decline of consols and the revival of the German war scare, indicated by a demand for insurance at the rate of six guineas per cent. Surely it must have cheered the German heart to have such proof that England cannot issue more consols at practicable prices. Otherwise the Government would have preferred consols to short-term notes, whose due date is even more embarrassing than the rate paid. Obviously there can be no default when there is no promise to pay at a fixed time. But these notes for the purchase of the telephone properties will fall due, and, according to all signs, after a series of operating deficits. Already there are issues on the credit of England which are selling on a 3¾ per cent. basis, and each additional issue makes it ever surer that the rate must rise. When consols touched 75 it made it necessary that banks which held them, and had written them down to that figure, should write off hundreds of thousands more pounds. This depreciation has caused the suspension of several British banks, one with liabilities to savings depositors of about $100,000,000.

There is hardly a financial column which does not attribute the issue of short-term, high-rate securities to the cost of living. Investors, it is said, demand a higher rate, for their comfort. It is obliging of the issuers to burden themselves for the comfort of others. None of the announcements officially make that statement. Without exception they all assign compulsory needs for the issuance of the securities. The British telephone notes, for example, have to be issued to pay for properties which are costing more than expected. There is no alternative to their issue, and they have to be put out on terms which will induce the owners of cash to part with it. The cost of living is indeed one explanation, but we must take account of the cost of living to Governments which have no apparent desire to stop spending so long as they can borrow. Three per cent. with a due date is a novelty in permanent British finance which will require watching for the influence which it will have on future events.

ADMITTING DISEASED CHILDREN.

"If dwelling in the United States," the immigration laws still declare, the minor children of naturalized foreigners shall be considered as citizens. In this respect the acts of 1903 and 1907 do not differ. We are therefore at a loss to understand how Secretary NAGEL should authorize the report, given to the press, that "the question "has never been decided by the courts "in connection with the present immi-"gration laws." It has not only been decided by the Federal Supreme Court, but is quite contrary to his own ruling of July 12, which admitted to this country RIWKE POLAYES, the imbecile child of a naturalized alien, although she had never lived in the United States.

Secretary NAGEL's contention is that this child "constructively" resided in this country when she abandoned her foreign domicile. But, in the case of CHARLES ZARTARIAN vs. GEORGE B. BILLINGS, the Commissioner of Immigration at the Port of Boston, Justice DAY handed down the opinion of the Supreme Court on Jan. 7, 1907, that this naturalized petitioner's child was not a citizen and was properly debarred from landing because afflicted with trachoma, a contagious disease. The court said:

> The petitioner's child, having been born and remained abroad, clearly does not come within the terms of the statute. She was debarred from entering the United States by the action of the authorized officials, and, never having legally landed, of course could not have dwelt within the United States. * * * Congress has not said that an alien child who has never dwelt in the United States, coming to join a naturalized parent, may land when afflicted with a dangerous contagious disease.

This case, it will be observed, is on all fours with the Polayes case, for the Zartarian child had definitely abandoned the country of her birth.

MRS. ROBINSON GUFFY.

While there is plenty of evidence in the cable dispatches that the violence of the opposition to LLOYD-GEORGE's socialistic National Insurance act is abating, that the people who regard it as an affliction are making up their minds that patient acceptance of a bad law is their wisest course, we must not fail to note the reputed activities of Mrs. ROBINSON GUFFY. This lady may be a purely fictitious personage, but if so, her inventor is a veritable master of British fiction. She is assuredly a more likely being than the leader of the militant suffragists, whose reality none may question.

Mrs. ROBINSON GUFFY is a British matron, with the will-power of Betsy Trotwood, and the implacable spirit of SHAKESPEARE's Queen Margaret. She is mistress of a suburban house of 15 rooms, including, we suppose, 9 master's bedrooms, with the water laid on, "h. & c." The grounds comprise six acres, well provided with shade and fruit trees, with a commodious vegetable garden, and a private garden for afternoon tea. If from this collocation of unconfirmed but reasonable details you are inclined to accept our inference that Mrs. ROBINSON GUFFY dwells in St. John's Wood, you will not go astray, for she would not keep 8 servants in Clapham. Eight servants Mrs. GUFFY maintained until the day when the Lloyd-George act went into effect. Then she discharged them all, made the beds, cooked and served the meals, fed and groomed the horses, fed the chickens, looked after the greenhouse, got the children off to school, and sat down to the piano to improvise music. No mention is made of Mr. ROBINSON GUFFY. If he is alive he would willingly remain in the shadow for the present. Mrs. GUFFY's heroism is enough for one family. Beside her, the fame of the Glastonbury Sisters pales, as they were bred to plain living and high thinking, while Mrs. ROBINSON GUFFY, well, draw your own conclusions—15 rooms, 6 acres, 8 servants.

If Mrs. GUFFY is not a fictitious personage she has changed her tactics by this time. Her eight servants are back again, with the insurance cards and the stamps. All the other people of Great Britain bow to the inevitable. Why should Mrs. ROBINSON GUFFY hold out?

CANADA'S ADJUNCT.

On each of several recent days dispatches from the Caribbean have announced the ratification of the agreement of reciprocity between Canada and the various islands of the British Antilles. This agreement is the substitute which the Borden Government devised to pacify Canadians for the rejection of reciprocity with the United States, and the proposal has a special interest for both England and the United States. In principle it is an embodiment of preference within the Empire, with discrimination against all outsiders. This principle is to be established at the expense of the United States and the West Indies for the benefit of the Canadians. The agreement is as much against the wish and welfare of the West Indies as Chamberlainism would be contrary to the interests of the United Kingdom.

Cocoa is one of the most important items of the treaty now undergoing ratification, and one of the West Indian products most consumed in the United States. Canada proposes to admit West Indian cocoa free, and to levy a duty of 75 cents a hundredweight on all other cocoa, thus establishing a preference. Just so Canada wishes the United Kingdom to levy a duty on all alien foodstuffs in order to establish a preference for Canadian products. For another example may be taken sugar, one of our most considerable imports from the West Indies. Canada proposes a preference ranging, according to quality, from 4½ cents to 15 cents a hundredweight, and abolishes the privileges to Canadian refiners to use other sugars, thereby compelling the use of West Indian sugar. To this extent our market will be starved. On the other hand, flour may be taken as one of the articles which we furnish largely to the West Indies, and on which they propose to give Canada a preference of not less than 12 cents, and probably 24 cents a barrel. This statutory interference with normal markets is to be increased by subsidizing steamship lines which must make direct passages, without transhipment.

The aggregate of the Canadian trade with the British West Indies is less than half that of the United States. It necessarily follows that the arbitrary interference with that trade must be in the interest of Canada alone, since the interest of the West Indies is indicated by the volume of the natural trade. This apparent fact is further confirmed by the fact that several of the most important of the islands have refused peremptorily to have anything to do with the arrangement. The announcements of ratification are not what they seem. They come from Legislative Councils, but they are the councils of crown colonies, where the will of the Government controls the action taken. In other words, the ratification is between the Ottawa and London Governments, and the islands have nothing to say about it. There is thus growing up a resentment against a compulsory reciprocity only fit to be compared with the resentment of Western Canada against having reciprocity defeated by the policy of Canada to control the economics of the Empire.

The proof of this lies in the expressions of the press of the West Indies, which resents the secrecy of the negotiations until the very eve of the perfunctory ratification, thereby preventing opposition on the merits. Thus the leading newspaper of Trinidad says:

> To whose advantage is it that trade between the Dominion and Trinidad should be improved, especially if it is to be not a natural but an artificially bolstered improvement? We certainly cannot see that it will be to ours. Trinidad has never sought this improvement. Despite our loyalty to the Empire we always as a colony have had sufficient common sense to recognize that New York has made itself our natural market. The fact is * * * the need for West Indian trade is felt in Canada, and it is an outlet to her surplus products that she desires to secure what she would make a virtual monopoly of the West Indian markets under pretense of loyalty.

If space permitted it would be possible to set forth in the words of the people of the islands how reluctantly ratifying the agreement their objections to foregoing the revenue needed to give Canada a preference, and thus provide her with an "adjunct." They object further to being taxed for subsidies for steamships and cables when the accommodations for their trade with the United States are already adequate. They particularly object to this being done on uneconomic grounds, showing a willingness to exploit weaker sister colonies under the cover of loyalty. Altogether these ratifications, like the rejection of reciprocity in Canada, rather open than close a subject of considerable importance. Yet the gentlemen at Washington are so preoccupied with their politics that they are unable to see Canada in the act of stealing—or shall we say "taking"—our adjunct. It is not a case for anger or retaliation. It is merely an opportunity for doing good business, and fairly enlarging what we have.

DELAY IS DANGEROUS.

The longer the man or men who murdered the gambler ROSENTHAL Tuesday morning remain at large the more impatient the people become. There is a general disposition to believe that no policemen were involved in this crime, and that the whole department is trying to apprehend the murderers. The assertion has been made that the police authorities know all the men concerned in the crime, and that the official finger of the department can be laid upon them any moment. In that case they should be in custody within another twelve hours.

No member of the force can fairly deny that the murder of a gambler who had already made charges implicating policemen, and was about to make further revelations, has cast a shadow upon the honor of the whole department which cannot be lifted except by the arrest of the murderers and the production of evidence that will convict them and send them to the electric chair. The actions of the police in the neighborhood after the murder were shamefully dilatory and inept.

Commissioner WALDO has little time to spare to write letters to District Attorney WHITMAN. The private correspondence of these officials intended for public perusal is neither interesting nor important. THE TIMES still holds to the opinion that stupidity is the chief fault of the police in this crisis. But the crisis is grave, and the number of citizens who believe that the delay is not wholly due to stupidity increases from day to day. If ROSENTHAL was murdered by gang men, for a private grudge, his murderers ought already to be in custody. The police know all these gang men. There is no honor among them. They will testify against each other. The delay inevitably strengthens the theory that the murder of ROSENTHAL cannot be so simply explained.

RETURN OF JEAN DE RESZKE.

If the rumor is verified, JEAN DE RESZKE will sing in New York again next Winter. There is no need to say that he will be cordially welcomed even if the statements that his voice is as good as it was twelve years ago prove to be exaggerated. Since the day of his ascendency we have had great stars at the opera, and we shall not pause to enumerate them, as we have had none—the world has had none—combining so many excellencies, such as artistic perception, dramatic talent, good taste, moderation, and zeal, with an amplitude of vocal power.

JEAN DE RESZKE always knew how to sing, how to express the passions and emotions of the personage he portrayed, how to bear himself with grace. If Mr. DIPPEL has secured his services for a few performances in Chicago and Philadelphia, of course he will be heard here, too, and New York will not be frugal in its support of an artist whose career has become an operatic tradition.

A CHEAP EXPEDITION.

The purchasing power of money was large in the era of COLUMBUS, and the value of a gold dollar was considerably more than its value to-day. Some old ledgers, discovered at Palos in Spain, according to a special dispatch to THE NEW YORK TIMES from Madrid, show that the cost of the expedition which led to the discovery of the Western Continent was only $7,200. This paid for outfitting the vessels, and the wages of the men. To be sure, COLUMBUS discovered only Cat Island and a few other islands on that voyage, and values are not high on Cat Island 420 years later. The cost of living on Cat Island is still moderate, and shore lots do not command a high figure. But there are very few shore lots in comfortably habitable territory along the Atlantic Coast to-day which could be purchased at the cost of the Discoverer's first expedition. At Bar Harbor, or Newport, all along the stretch of Long Island, or at Palm Beach, holders of shore property would smile contemptuously at such an offer. The present price of real estate, however, is not to the point. It is worth while to think about the enormous increase of the world's wealth which followed COLUMBUS's attempt, on $7,200 of borrowed money, to find a non-existent kingdom of India and convert its Grand Khan to Christianity.

But, although a dollar is worth so much less now, even in 1492 its equivalent was not a fortune. There were 120 men on the three ships commanded by COLUMBUS, and $60 apiece was not much for food and clothing on a long voyage. To be sure, they picked up a few odd trifles, besides infection, in the Caribbean islands, and some of them were set on the road to fortune. But they must have lived pretty "close" and suffered a great deal of hardship. Sailors are paid proportionately more in these days and are still not satisfied.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Automobile Numbers Too Long.

Perhaps it is now too late to change the system of numbering automobiles, and certainly any attempt to do so, however successful in the end, would create a "period of transition" marked by much confusion and inconvenience. Yet so highly and variously important is it that these vehicles should be easily identified, especially when this must be done at a single glance, and so difficult both to see and to remember the large and constantly growing numbers which most of them carry, that the possibility of adopting an improved method is at least worth considering.

Recent investigations by BINET and others have shown that while every ordinarily intelligent person, on hearing or seeing a number containing four digits, can repeat it accurately, with each additional digit the task becomes harder, and that the limit of capacity for performing work of this sort is very soon reached by all of us. It is desirable, therefore, that the numbers on automobiles should be as short as circumstances permit.

A way to attain that end, in spite of the rapid multiplication of automobiles, would be to combine letters with the figures. Using only one letter and not more than three figures, 25,976 different plates could be issued, running from "A1" to "Z999." That would not be enough, since there are already in this State more than 76,000 motor cars, but by using two letters instead of one, the four-symbol designations could be increased beyond any possible need. Such combinations of letters and figures could be much more readily "caught" and remembered than letters alone or figures alone, and, in comparison with the six-figure numbers we shall soon be using in this State, the advantage would be enormous.

The "murder car" just now receiving so much attention happened to have a number which, though large, made an unusual appeal to the attention because its sequence of "13's" made one look enough to fix it in the mind. Had the number been less distinctive, not improbably none of the excited witnesses of the assassination would have remembered it, and in that case the automobile used might never have been identified.

Varieties of colors might also be of assistance to quick identification of automobiles, but the contrast of blue and white now used was chosen after careful tests, as giving the maximum of visibility in all lights and all distances, and therefore any complication of it would presumably be injudicious.

Revealing His Ignorance.

Senator POINDEXTER, by introducing a bill to abolish all "scientific management" systems from Government shops, simply proved that he shares with those who doubtless prompted the drafting of his absurd measure the delusion that scientific management is somehow harmful to the interests of the working classes.

If it were that, of course it would not be scientific at all. As to whether any particular system claiming the name does or does not deserve it—that is a question on which opinions can honestly differ. But whoever admits that a management is scientific is thereby precluded from attacking it, because the fundamental principle of scientific management is to produce an increased efficiency in all the results of which empolyers and employés have each a fair part.

That scientific management is a method of "speeding up" can not and need not be denied, but its advocates base their claims for approval quite as much upon making work easier and pay higher as upon larger and better production.

Opposition to scientific management is on an intellectual level with that to the substitution of machine for manual labor. Neither of them is "labor saving" in the sense of depriving people of employment or of making them expend more muscular energy while in it. If it hurt anybody, no really wise employer would have anything to do with scientific management, and for the very good reason that it would be, not scientific, but unscientific.

If Senator POINDEXTER were to introduce a bill making unscientific management unlawful in Government shops he would better justify his own lofty station.

PRAISES MURPHY'S LEADERSHIP

Samuel Untermyer Says the Boss Was Not Despotic at Baltimore.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Charles F. Murphy does not deserve the criticisms that have been aimed at him that he did not permit the delegates from New York State to the Democratic National Convention to express their preferences and to act upon them. As a delegate to the National Democratic Convention, I was very much gratified with his attitude with respect to the Presidential nomination, and particularly at his persistent refusal to attempt to influence the delegates in their choice.

It was quite contrary to anything I had known in previous conventions. Inasmuch as the mistaken belief had gone forth, and it was generally believed that he was in fact "voting the delegation," it seems only just to correct that false impression, although the majority of the delegates differed from me in that they did not favor Gov. Wilson's candidacy.

The Prayers of the Righteous.

DEFENDS HERBIVORISM.

Septuagenarian in Oklahoma Tells His Experience with Meatless Diet.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I notice statements about your advice to the meat boycotters, closing with the thought that these meat eaters might go without the flesh foods for a time, but perhaps not permanently.

Why not permanently? Is meat a necessity? Not at all! I will say after a long life as a vegetarian. I was raised in Michigan, having been born in the woods in 1837. I used but very little meat when a child, though often urged to use it more freely. When about seventeen years of age I read a small book favoring a strictly vegetarian diet and quit the use of meats of all kinds and tea and coffee for over thirty years. I did not eat a pound of meat a year during this period. After this, for a few years, I frequently ate meat, but not regularly, and drank tea and coffee some. I found the beverages a disadvantage and quit them ten years ago, and since have dropped meat altogether. Now at seventy-five years I am fully persuaded that every one is better off without any kind of meat in his diet, and, modestly, I would say the nearer they come to this the better for health and purse. I had a slender constitution to commence life with, but have had but little sickness and am in fair health at this time.

I am a resident of Northwestern Oklahoma, which ought to be as healthful as any portion of the United States, but there is an undue amount of sickness owing to the habits of the people. They are great meat eaters, because pork and beef are leading products, and fruit was scarce in the earlier years. There is an amount of indigestion, colitis, gastritis, and sympathetic heart trouble, also cancer and rheumatism, and diabetes that can be traced largely to the meat consuming habits of the people. Doctors do not teach dietetics out here, but are here to relieve the purses of their patients.

Cold storage meats, half rotten, ("just nice") with two or three million meat bacteria to the cubic inch, are not very good promoters of health, and the less used the better for the eater. Western farm journals, without exception, advise farmers to feed all grains possible to hogs and cattle for the markets, but give no thought whatever to the health of the consumers at home or abroad.

Now let me say there is more body building material in a pound of dry beans, peas, wheat, rye, rice, oats or barley than in a pound of the best meat to be bought in any market at any price. Put this pound of beans, &c., on the purchaser's table, as you can do for one-fifth the price of a pound of steak or roast, and you have cheapened the cost of living five times. Such vegetable foods, with the addition of fruits, have all the elements of healthy living minus the millions of meat bacteria found in all cold storage carcasses.

Then if people would cook their own foods instead of buying package foods they would reduce cost again by one-half.

HIGH SUICIDE RATES.

A Reader Attributes Them to Sudden Changes in Atmospheric Pressure.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Has any one watched the barometer in the cities reporting high suicide rates? M. Camille Flammarion of Paris, the old gentleman, would very likely tell you that a capricious barometer is apt to play almost any kind of a prank with mental normality. Accepting M. Flammarion's statement that the average adult human body sustains a given atmospheric pressure of about fifteen tons; remembering what we know of the nature of deep sea fish made to sustain the heavy water pressure; remembering, too, oppositely and inversely, the effect on small animals or birds when placed in a vacuum chamber, is it unreasonable to deduce that violent, extreme, and sudden changes in the atmospheric pressure, meaning (up or down as the case may be) differences of many hundred pounds pressure either way within a few hours, are sufficient to disturb the equilibrium of our highly strung, delicately complex physical make-up, and hence our delicately complex mental poise?

It is fair to assume that all suicides are mentally abnormal at the time. It would likewise seem fair to assume that when the suicidal mania appears to become epidemic in any one particular place at any one particular time some outside local condition must obtain to produce the effect you describe, and that the disposition to suicide is not inherent in the individual, though the individual from physical reasons may be and probably is peculiarly sensitive, at the moment, to the outside influence.

In short, moving as we do at the bottom of the atmospheric ocean, and, depending as we do on a given pressure to maintain our normal condition, can we remain unaffected by the violent and extreme variations in that pressure?

THE FURRIERS' STRIKE.

Demand for Sanitary Shops Casts Suspicion on Factory Inspectors.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I had an opportunity of watching the striking furriers parade through Fifth Avenue, and noticed on most of the signs carried by the strikers that they were striking for sanitary shops. If this is the case, what are the Factory Inspectors doing? Are they inspecting the factories of this industry?

Either the strikers are trying to arouse the sympathy of the public under false pretenses or their shops are not properly inspected.

Suggests Renaming Lafayette Street.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Now that all eyes are centred on the work of condemning land for the use of the new County Court House and a civic centre, why is not this a proper time to suggest that the western boundary of the Court House site, namely, Lafayette Street, be changed to Fourth Avenue, Lafayette Street being but a prolongation of that thoroughfare? It is amazing how few New Yorkers know the location of Lafayette Street.

In the work already planned a new arrangement of streets is contemplated. Therefore let the work be complete by naming the street running to City Hall Fourth Avenue.

Parade of Women as Well as Men.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In an editorial in this morning's NEW YORK TIMES you referred to the parade to be held on Nov. 9 as a "Parade of Men" organized by the Men's League for Woman Suffrage. I wish to correct this statement, and to say that a co-operative parade committee composed of members from different suffrage organizations, including the Men's League for Woman Suffrage, has been formed to organize this parade, and that it will therefore be a parade of men and women organized by men and women.

THE AVERAGE WOMAN.

If your wages are even fair, my son—
Though the cost of living is high—
If you're in love, I tell you, my son,
Don't wait till the by-and-by.
It won't do to tarry too long, my son—
Just make up the mind of you.
For if you're in love and she loves you,
Why, the average woman will do.

If troublesome cares molest, my son,
And worry and fret draw near,
You'll find she will do her best, my son,
To drive them away with her cheer.
So, don't hesitate too long, my son—
Just take her and cherish her true,
For if you're in love and she loves you,

MICHIGAN IS FOR TAFT, SAYS PROPHET WARREN

Why One Important Factor in Wolverine State Politics Thinks the Bull Moose Has No Chance.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., July 18.—Charles B. Warren is a most important factor in Michigan politics. He is firm in the faith, believes in all the things that are supposed to be absolutely essential to growth in political grace, knows his own mind, and in this respect at least has a very decided advantage over Gov. Osborn, who seems to be somewhat doubtful as to "where he is at," and how long he will stay there, and is reasonably sure that Michigan will give Taft a sane and safe majority in November.

He said to-day that there was no logical cause for opposition to Mr. Taft among the Republicans in this State, and no occasion for any division among those enamored of Progressive measures, as provision had already been made by law for the things which some of them have had in mind.

Between Taft and Roosevelt, the fact is staring everybody in the face that the Republicans of the State have committed themselves to Taft.

In only one section of the State—the section containing the towns of Kalamazoo, Adrian, Ann Arbor, and several other places in the same general region—is there any considerable Roosevelt sentiment. The Republicans in all the rest of Michigan are for the party and for Taft, the already selected leader of the party.

⁂

Many of those infatuated with Roosevelt were weaned when he declined to withdraw from the contest at Chicago. His letter refusing to release his delegates at Chicago so that they might join in an effort to nominate a third man for President, influenced a good many of these hard-headed Michiganders to turn away from the One and Only, and to rightly appraise his efforts as wholly selfish. These men, restored and in their right mind, will go with the party at the election in November, and are in no way inclined to go with the handful of malcontents who are after places for themselves and are seeking for selfish reasons to organize a third party in the State.

Two men who have been most active in their opposition to the regular organization have been on the payroll of the Roosevelt combine, and one of these men was "getting his" while yet one of the committee of the regular organization. In the City of Detroit there is not a single member of the State, municipal, or county organizations, with the possible exception of the Clerk of Court, who is not loyal to the regular party and who will not stay by it in the elections to be held in November.

Mr. Warren said to-day that there was no logical reason why any Republican should not stay with the party this year. There were no questions of social legislation that could divide the Republicans; no such questions, in fact, upon which there was not general agreement among all the members of the party; no legislation affecting the hours of labor, matter of wages or health, to which the regulars were not as fully committed as the agitators in the party, and as the logic of the situation touching all these matters was with the regulars Mr. Warren was persuaded that the votes would be with the regulars at the election.

What Mr. Taft's majority would be he had no means of knowing, but he was convinced in his own mind that the State would be for Taft. Bryan is stronger in Michigan than Wilson, and Roosevelt is not strong at all.

⁂

The objection to Taft has been personal, in the sense that some Republicans have preferred Roosevelt to Taft. Such appears to be Gov. Osborn's present state of mind. But it was not always thus. It was Osborn, as the files of THE TIMES will show, who was first to place Taft in the field for re-election in a rip-roaring speech made by him at some celebration or other that was held at the Soo.

It was Osborn, also, who was the leader of the Seven Little Governors when they yanked Roosevelt out of his retirement at Oyster Bay. That is Osborn's way, and it affords him a pleasant sense of recreation from his abundant labors as Governor of Michigan.

Osborn's statement Tuesday that he would vote for the Roosevelt Electors if it should be determined at the caucus in Jackson on Saturday to put such Electors in the field, and otherwise he would vote for Wilson, was somewhat surprising to Warren when he was told about it today.

Osborn is a candidate for re-election as Governor, and he will probably be rather slow to get away from the main tent. If there are reforms necessary in the party Warren believes that they can be accomplished in the party, and a majority of the Republicans in the State agree with him.

NEW BEDFORD IS QUIETER.

Large Bodies of Police Prevent Disorder at the Mills Still Running.

NEW BEDFORD, July 18.—Crowds of strikers and sympathizers assembled this morning near the seven mills which are not affected by the weavers' strike. The police were in control of the situation, however, and no open attempts were made by strikers to prevent operatives going to work.

Several hundred persons gathered near the Butler mill, the scene of yesterday's disorders. A large detail of police was on duty, and the strikers were not allowed to collect near the mill gates. A crowd of strikers near the Whitman mill was also dispersed by the police.

About 1,000 persons attended the open-air meeting of the Industrial Workers of the World and listened to addresses by Grover H. Perry and Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, National organizers. Perry said that members of the union had been warned against using violence while on the picket lines. He stated that attorneys have been engaged to defend the Industrial Workers who had been arrested, and said that members of the union arrested would go to jail instead of paying fines.

An appeal for funds for the aid of the strikers will be sent to all affiliated unions throughout New England by the United Textile Workers.

Tablet to Dorr, Rhode Island Traitor.

CHEPACHET, R. I., July 18.—The memory of Thomas Wilson Dorr, who in 1842 attempted to overthrow the Rhode Island State Government and later was convicted of treason, was honored to-day by the State, when a boulder and memorial tablet were dedicated to him on Acot's Hill. The tablet marks the place where Dorr as a protest against the restricted suffrage under the old King Charles II. charter, intrenched an armed band of his followers.

Cleveland Observes Tom Johnson Day

CLEVELAND, July 18.—This city observed to-day as a Tom L. Johnson Memorial Day. CHALLENGES TAFT ON MACVEAGH FACTS

A. Piatt Andrew Calls on the President to Publish Report on Treasury Conditions.

WRITTEN BY HIGH OFFICIAL

Subordinates of Secretary Changed Their Attitude Under Pressure, Says Assistant Who Resigned.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 18.—Dr. A. Piatt Andrew, who recently resigned the office of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, issued a statement to-night in which he returned again to the charges against Secretary MacVeagh contained in his letter of resignation. He called on President Taft to make public a certain "description of conditions in the Treasury Department," written, he says, by a high department official ten weeks before his resignation was submitted.

Dr. Andrew returned to-day from a week's cruise along the Maine Coast. His statement followed the reading of news dispatches from Washington in which references were made to letters from Treasury officials concerning his controversy with Secretary MacVeagh.

These letters Dr. Andrew had not seen, he said, but he expressed "utmost confidence that they do not deny a single statement of mine as to Secretary MacVeagh's temperamental infirmities and as to the consequent difficulty in carrying on properly the business of the Treasury Department.

"I am certain that none of the persons named by me in my letters of resignation have contradicted any material statements made therein," he said. "If any person has done so, it would only tend to illustrate the weakness of human nature under pressure. It is significant that two of the most important officials of the Treasury Department, Lawrence O. Murray, Controller of the Currency, and Lee McClung, Treasurer of the United States, still remain silent. This is significant, not only of their opinions, but also of their character and courage.

"I note that Mr. Ralph, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, is quoted as having professed allegiance to Secretary MacVeagh. It should be said that Mr. Ralph had carefully read and affirmed both of my letters in the exact form in which they were issued, including the statement that Mr. Ralph on several occasions had been with difficulty dissuaded from his intention to resign his office due to no other reason than his lamentably unsatisfactory relations with Mr. MacVeagh.

"Mr. Cram, Auditor of the Post Office Department, is also cited as having written of his cordial relations with the Secretary. It should likewise be said in this connection that Mr. Cram had read and approved my letters in their final form, including this paragraph:

"I recall instances of great discouragement on the part of Mr. Cram and on the part of his predecessor, Mr. Chance, not only because of lack of support and encouragement on the part of Mr. MacVeagh in their efforts toward increasing the efficiency of the service, but also because of his continual postponement of decisions about recommendations which they had made and his unjustified complaints about any active procedure, even in small matters, without authorization."

Continuing, Mr. Andrew said he had not wished to engage in further controversy on the subject of his resignation, but he added:

"As President Taft has made certain letters public, in all fairness to myself the President ought now to make public a description of conditions in the Treasury Department, which was written by one of the highest officials in the department ten weeks before my letters. This letter amply and specifically confirms every statement I have made. This description was presented to the White House in April, and the President possesses a copy of it. Although it was not intended for publication, I hope the President will ask the official in question to authorise its publication and so make the record complete."

Mr. Andrew said he himself had a copy of this description.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Such officials of the Treasury Department as could be reached to-night said they had no idea as to what report Mr. Andrew referred to in his latest attack on Secretary MacVeagh. They do not know any official in the Treasury or out of it who could have prepared a report, condemning the administration of the department.

Apparently, Mr. Andrew can expect little support or sympathy from his old colleagues in the department. They deeply resent his unauthorized dragging of themselves into his controversy with Secretary MacVeagh and have refused to substantiate a word of what he said. In his letter of resignation Mr. Andrew quoted them as witnesses in his behalf, but each has denied knowledge of the troubles depicted by Mr. Andrew.

HOUSE MAY UNSEAT CATLIN.

Committee on Elections Acts To-day on Contested Seat from Missouri.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—The House Committee on Elections No. 2 will meet to-morrow to vote on the contested election case of Patrick Gill, former Democratic member of Congress, against Theron E. Catlin, the Republican sitting member, from the Eleventh Congressional District of Missouri.

It is understood to be the plan of the Democratic members of the committee to vote in favor of unseating Representative Catlin and declare Gill entitled to represent that district in Congress. Gill alleges that Daniel Catlin, father of the contestee, and Daniel N. Kirby spent $10,500 in a campaign in behalf of his son's election, and that Representative Catlin had knowledge of and connived at this expenditure. The contestant alleged that this was contrary to the Missouri election laws which limit expenditures by candidates for Congress to $662.

In behalf of Mr. Catlin it was argued before the Elections Committee that he did not know his father was defraying the expenses of his campaign, or that Kirby was handling the funds, but that he had assumed that the Congressional Committee was following what he knew to be the custom of former years, and was soliciting and collecting the funds for his campaign. Mr. Catlin contends that he should not be held responsible for what his father spent without his knowledge any more than that he should be held responsible for what an entire stranger might have spent.

CANNOT ESCAPE SUBMARINES

Admiral Ward Says They Can Destroy Battleships at Will.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 18.—The officers of the Atlantic fleet are satisfied there is no protection from submarines under present conditions, because of the successful attacks made by the destroyers and submarines last Thursday and Friday nights in the vicinity of Block Island in the war games against the battleships.

The first and second divisions with the flags of Rear Admiral Aaron Ward on the Florida and of Rear Admiral Cameron McRae Winslow on the Louisiana with two groups of destroyers and two of the submarines were "destroyed" at will.

Admiral Ward said after the battle:

"The submarines picked us up whenever they chose to, but we could do nothing with them. Yet the screening of our destroyers was well timed and perfect."

"What will be the future plan of defense against submarines?" Admiral Ward was asked.

"We will have to run away from them," replied the commander.

MRS. LONGWORTH'S BANG.

She Decided After Convention "Her High Brow Needed Concealing."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Mrs. Nicholas Longworth has adopted a bang and is proud of it. It is short and fluffy and wavy, and fastens to her hair under her soft pompadour by two long pins. Mrs. Longworth is telling her friends that since the Chicago Convention she fully decided that her high brow needed concealing, and so on went the bang.

Whether in the stress and excitement of the convention she tugged at her front locks or not she does not say.

The bang is becoming to Mrs. Longworth. She wears it most simply, and the bang is the only bit of artificial hair Mrs. Longworth has ever worn.

Liebler & Co. sent out an announcement a short time ago to the effect that Mr. Lackaye would appear in their revival of "Oliver Twist." Last night there was no one at the Liebler offices who could explain the matter. In Mr. Frazee's company in "Fine Feathers" Mr. Lackaye will have for his associates Robert Edeson, Max Figman, Florence Stone, and Rose Coghlan. Rehearsals will begin in Chicago next week.

For the fourth week another actress, well known in Harlem, will be selected.

Thousands of Mothers and Babies
IN THE Tenement Districts
Must Get Relief from THE STIFLING HEAT.

Many appeals for fresh air relief are received by us every day.

If you have returned from your Summer rest, you appreciate the benefits of a vacation. If you have not, you still realize its necessity for the over-worked and under-rested.

WILL YOU NOT HELP THEM?

Think of the suffering in the tenements these hot days. It will make you happy to know that some poor family is enjoying the ocean or country breezes, or is receiving relief through you.

Here are a few possibilities:

$2.50 will keep a teething baby as your guest at the seashore or in the country for a week. Twice that amount will give the baby's worn-out mother a rest, too.

$5.00 will pay a week's board on a farm for a boy or girl who cannot continue work without a rest and change of air.

$10.00 will pay a week's board for a tired mother and delicate baby on a desirable farm, or it will make a family of four happy for a week at Sea Breeze, and strong for many months, possibly years.

$20.00 will keep a mother and three children, or two "cash girls" (sisters) at Sea Breeze for two weeks of fun and unaccustomed joy.

$100.00 will send fifteen hard working girls to the country, or ten mothers and thirty children to Sea Breeze for a week.

TELL US HOW MANY YOU WILL HELP.

Send contributions to ROBERT SHAW MINTURN, Treasurer, Room 210, 105 East 22d Street.

NEWPORT SUFFRAGE QUARTERS OPENED

Mrs. Belmont Hurries Workmen in Completing Furnishings and Greets Visitors.

THRONG HEARS ADDRESSES

Mrs. Vanderbilt Entertains for Count and Countess Szechenyi—Many Exhibitors for Kennel Club's Show.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 18.—Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont opened this afternoon the headquarters of the Newport County Suffrage League. Earlier in the day she had attended the raising of the six starred flag over the entrance. Then she had a busy two hours hustling the men engaged in completing the furnishings in white. Long before 3 o'clock, the hour appointed for the opening exercises, the windows were hung with curtains of lace and the walls with attractive pictures.

Assisting Mrs. Belmont was Mrs. Walter A. Wright, who disposed of quite a number of votes-for-women buttons. Mrs. Maud Howe Elliot joined Mrs. Belmont from Oak Glen, and then women interested in the cause began to arrive. The headquarters on Franklin Street near the Post Office were too small to hold the crowd.

Mrs. Belmont wore a handsome robe of white lace over white silk and a small hat that fitted close to her coiffure. She greeted every one who entered, and visitors were made to feel at home.

Mrs. Belmont said the real meaning of the cause was not the mere wish for women to vote, but that the women wanted this representation because they have the largest interest in their homes.

Mrs. Belmont mentioned among other prominent men who have come out for equal rights the Bishop of Oxford. All over the country the clergy voice their belief in woman's rights, she said.

Mrs. Maud Howe Elliot, who presided, introduced Mrs. Elizabeth Upham Yates, President of the Rhode Island Suffrage League, who spoke on suffrage from its beginning to its development at the present time. Mrs. Elliot said the suffragettes should have courage, faith, and patience, the three greatest virtues. After commending Mrs. Belmont for what she done for the cause, Mrs. Elliot said every one in the league should have secured at least one convert during the year. A few beautiful lines written by her mother, the late Julia Ward Howe, called "Over the Kneading Trough," were read and applauded. The motto, Mrs. Elliot said, for the Newport League should be "Few and Good."

Just as the speaking opened the strains of "Everybody's Doing It" by a band of visiting German musicians was heard plainly within the headquarters. Hardly had the musicians played a moment when an officer rushed toward the leader, requesting him to play in some other locality, and he did.

Many entries from the Summer colony are promised for the Rhode Island Kennel Club Show, to be held at the Casino, Aug. 10, and for which the entries close July 24. The officers of the show are Miss Alice Brownell, Chairman; Dr. H. W. Church, Charles Biesel, Daniel Jackson, Mrs. Benjamin Weaver, William Codman, and Miss Helen Weaver, Treasurer. T. E. L. Kemp of Brookline, Mass., is Secretary and Superintendent. James Mortimer of Hempstead, Mrs. R. F. Mayhew of Halesite, L. I.; Harry Lacy of Boston, Miss Margaret Brigham of Grafton, Mass.; William J. Green, Philadelphia; Winthrop Rutherford, New York; Thomas Shallcross of Providence, and Arnold Lawson of Boston are the judges.

Mrs. Vanderbilt began entertaining this evening for her son-in-law and daughter, Count and Countess Laszlo Szechenyi, by giving a dinner at the Breakers for twenty guests, which included Mrs. H. McK. Twombly, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. C. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Dyer, Commodore and Mrs. Elbridge T. Gerry, and Mr. and Mrs. Royal Phelps Carroll.

Count and Countess Szechenyi have received numerous cards for the entire Summer, which they will spend with Mrs. Vanderbilt.

CRUISER RAMS FISHERMAN.

Americans Caught by Canadian Vessel Within Three-Mile Limit.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 18.—Details of the seizure of the American gasoline launch Bonita of Seattle, by the Fishery Protection cruiser Newington, were given to-day at Esquimalt by officers of the cruiser.

The Bonita, which had only two men aboard, was captured on Tuesday after a running fight in which a score or more of rifle shots were fired at the Americans by Capt. Ledwell of the Newington. No one was injured.

The American boat was not captured until it had been rammed and capsized and its crew made helpless by being thrown into the water.

The Newington sighted the Americans trolling within the three-mile limit off Nitenat early in the morning.

"What are you doing there?" called Ledwell from the cruiser.

"Making a passage," the Bonita answered.

"What are you doing with your trolls out?"

There was no reply, and the Bonita altered her course and started off. Ledwell fired a shot across her bow, and followed this up with a fusilade. The two Americans crouched low in their boat and steered a constantly shifting course in an effort to get to safety beyond the three-mile limit. The Newington circled around them, Ledwell continuing to fire at intervals. Finally the cruiser closed in and struck the launch amidships, rolling it completely over. The men on board leaped as their craft capsized.

The two Americans, whose names are not given in Ledwell's report, were picked up out of the water and made prisoners on board the Newington, which proceeded to Esquimault, where Ledwell turned the Bonita over to the resident officer of his Majesty's navy. The vessel now awaits confiscation to the King as a prize.

OTTAWA, Ontario, July 18.—The American fishing schooner Hattie Heckman, seized at Barrington, Nova Scotia, for violation of the fishery laws, will be fined and released on a bond. The vessel is American, but all the crew are Canadians.

FREED ON MURDER CHARGE.

Aged Farmer Released After Having Been Sentenced to Thirty Years.

Special to The New York Times.

MAYS LANDING, N. J., July 18.—William Strong, an aged man, who was sentenced to thirty years in prison a year ago for the murder of his wife, was released to-day.

The Supreme Court reversed the verdict and Strong was brought back to the county jail. To-day his counsel, ex-Judge Howard Carrow, made a motion before Justice Samuel Kalisch that the old farmer should be released on his own recognizance, and the State concurring through Prosecutor C. L. Goldenberg, he was set free and departed for the home of a brother, at Glassboro.

The Supreme Court having ruled out of the evidence an alleged confession extorted from the superstitious old man by a boardwalk "medium," and the exhibition of the dead woman's throat showing finger prints, the State was powerless to convict.

REFUSE PINCHOT'S MONEY.

Washington Assessors Won't Allow Him to Pay More Taxes.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Gifford Pinchot's statement that his property in this city was wrongfully assessed drew forth to-day an indignant denial from the District Assessor's office. The denial is not qualified by the fact that Mr. Pinchot declared himself underassessed and that he wanted to pay $600 more in taxes.

"That's more than the law allows," said Assessor Richards to-day, "and I'll not let him."

Assessments in the District are made for three-year periods, and the current period will not end before 1914. According to the law, as Mr. Richards construes it, no change can be made in the assessment within a period, so that Mr. Pinchot will have to deprive the Government of $600 a year for two years more before he can salve his conscience.

GIRL'S TALE CONVICTS PRIEST

Child Says Father Dezane Followed Her in Street.

The Rev. John Dezane, a priest, of Jackson, Neb., who under the name of John Bergen was arrested several days ago charged by Catherine Kavanah, 12 years old, with having followed her in the street, was found guilty yesterday in the West Side Court. He was arrested at Tenth Avenue and Forty-second Street after he had been chased into a drug store by the girl's brother and a crowd.

Several witnesses testified yesterday that the little girl had appealed to a young man for protection. The priest admitted that he had noticed the child because she had looked at him "in a peculiar way." He said he had intended to call a policeman's attention to her. Two witnesses, Mrs. Mary Burke of 351 West Twenty-third Street and Joseph Foley of 772 Ninth Avenue, gave testimony intended to injure the girl's reputation.

These statements were indignantly denied by Mrs. Kavanah of 643 Tenth Avenue, the girl's mother. Catherine, she said, was well-behaved and had never used bad language. Following her mother to the stand the girl told her story. At one point she turned to where Mrs. Burke sat and exclaimed, sobbing:

"How can you say such things? How can you let God hear you say such things?"

Magistrate Butts said he would believe the girl's mother as to her character, and he held Father Dezane until to-day, when he will be sentenced.

MIXED MATRIMONIAL CASE

But Referee Works It Out and Husband Gets Divorce.

Augustus Smith, also known as Gustav Schmidt, of 428 Park Avenue, received a decree of interlocutory divorce yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Gavegan on default of his wife, Jennie Smith, to contest the motion.

The evidence was taken before Phoenix Ingraham, referee, at 165 Broadway. The Rev. Edmund Crowne testified that he had married Mrs. Smith, who was known as Helen C. Suffern and as Helen C. Craig, to a man named Francis Weigel on May 15, 1909, in Jersey City. Weigel appeared before the referee and testified that although he had married a Helen Suffern it was not Mrs. Smith.

To complicate matters further, Louis Goodeve of Roseville, N. J., testified that he had let an apartment to the defendant in the suit under the name of Mrs. Weigel, whereas Mrs. Smith declared that Weigel had been a boarder at the Roseville house, but in no wise connected with herself.

The fact that Weigel failed to produce the "other" Helen Suffern whom he swore he had married, influenced the referee in supporting the charges of Mr. Smith, who named him as co-respondent.

TAXICAB THIEF SENTENCED.

"Squint" Gordon Was Caught Carrying Off Plumes Worth $12,000.

Judge O'Sullivan sentenced "Squint" Gordon, alias Joseph Cohen, to Sing Sing Prison for not less than two years and not more than three years on a charge of larceny in General Sessions yesterday. At the same time Max Silverman, 20 years old, of 177 Ludlow Street, was sentenced to the Elmira Reformatory on the same charge.

Gordon, who is 22 years old, said he lived at 156 Monroe Street. He was arrested on May 23 after a chase from in front of 4 Bond Street to the Bowery. Patrolmen noticed a taxicab standing in front of 4 Bond Street. They watched and saw Gordon and Silverman carrying a trunk from the building. In the trunk were ostrich plumes valued at $12,000. They were identified as the property of Isaac Ginsberg, and had been stolen from his feather factory at the Bond Street address. Gordon has been arrested in this city twelve times, but there has been only one conviction against him.

LOSES $25,000 IN GEMS.

Agent for New York Firm Intrusts Sample Case to Carrier.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Jewelry valued at nearly $25,000 was stolen from a sample carrier to-day on a crowded street in front of the Silversmith Building, 12 South Wabash Avenue. The jewelry was taken from Patrick McDermott, who was carrying the sample case for Jacob Levin, a salesman employed by the Low-Taussig-Karpeles Company of 14 Maiden Lane, New York.

The Police Department and several detective agencies were notified and began a search for the stolen jewels and the thief.

Similarity of to-day's theft to the disappearance of a sample case with $37,000 worth of jewelry left in a Chicago jewelry house a few months ago was noted by the police.

The police assert that McDermott was the sample carrier who had charge of the $37,000 case of jewelry, the theft of which is still unexplained, although search for the robber has progressed for months.

BOYS BURNED ON THIRD RAIL.

Only Prompt Assistance Saves Them from Instant Death.

Two boys were burned on the third rail of the Brighton Beach railroad tracks in Brooklyn yesterday. Both escaped instant death by the prompt action of rescuers.

At the Lincoln Place open cut of the Brighton Beach tracks several boys were playing on the embankment of the west side, in spite of the warnings of the trackmen. Joseph Boyle, 12 years old, of 265 Eastern Parkway, stumbled over the third rail and his companions on the embankment saw his body twitch and turn as the current burned him. Their cries attracted workmen, who ran to Boyle's assistance. They pulled him away from the third rail unconscious. He was taken home.

Last evening Leonard Gunderson, 11 years old, of 852 Hawthorne Street, Brooklyn, attempted to cross from the west to the east side of the Prospect Park station near Lincoln Road when he stumbled across the third rail. Passengers on the platform pulled the boy away from the rail. Their efforts to revive him failed. He was severely burned about the legs and body. He was taken to the Kings County Hospital. He is in a serious condition.

STOPS RUNAWAY, SAVES LIVES

Brooklyn Man Dragged by Horses and Is Badly Hurt.

Leaping from an automobile when he saw women and children menaced by a runaway team of horses attached to a brick truck, Samuel Polese, 35 years old, of 275 Essex Street, Brooklyn, grasped the reins as the horses dashed on a sidewalk at Grafton Street and Pitkin Avenue, Brownsville, yesterday afternoon. He was knocked down and dragged, but managed to turn the horses from the sidewalk back to the roadway. His courage saved several from injury. His right arm was broken and he sustained other injuries, which necessitated his removal to St. Mary's Hospital.

Polese's life was saved by Policeman Norton, who ran and grabbed the heads of the plunging horses while they were dragging the man. The policeman turned them into a fence stopping them.

CHILD ACTORS' OUTING.

Spend Day at Long Beach and Give a Performance.

Children of the stage had an outing at Long Beach yesterday that took in all of the delights of surf bathing, private theatricals, and a luncheon, to say nothing of a professional preformance at night with an audience that had paid money to be present. There were not very many children present—only about a dozen—but that made the affair all the more pleasant, for, as little Olive McVine said, you couldn't have fun in a crowd. In the forenoon there was bathing, and plenty of life guards to see that the swimmers did not get beyond their three-foot depth. At noon a luncheon was served in style at the Hotel Abel, which is conducted by Mrs. Tallaferro Abel, who once had stage children of her own, until they grew up.

After the luncheon everybody adjourned to the Hotel Nassau for the amateur show. All of the performers were professionals, however, for every one had had stage experience and had received salaries from managers. The entertainment consisted of Japanese songs and dances, fan drills, and singing and dancing.

In the evening a performance was given at the little playhouse on the boardwalk, and the proceeds will be devoted to the help of stage children who need it. TELLS OF STATE GRAFT.

"Blind Tiger" Owner Admits Bribing South Carolina Officials.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 18.—Startling testimony was presented to the committee of the South Carolina General Assembly investigating the dispensary question to-day, when P. J. B. O'Neill told of money paid by Charleston "blind tigers" for "protection." O'Neill confessed that he was a "blind tiger" proprietor, and said he had collected a protection fund from six to ten Charleston retail liquor dealers, which he had paid to B. H. Stothart, chief constable for the enforcement of whisky laws.

O'Neill refused at first to testify on the ground that he might incriminate himself. He testified only after he had been threatened with a jail sentence for contempt. He said he had paid Stothart $60 a month.

Sam J. Nichols, an attorney of Spartanburg, testified that he was intoxicated and knew little of an alleged interview between himself and E. S. Reed, a detective. He denied any intention of offering a bribe to Gov. Blease for the pardon of Gus De Ford, and denied that he had done a big pardon business with the Governor. He charged that the dictagraph records taken at Spartanburg, Washington, and Baltimore had been contorted.

Thomas B. Felder of Atlanta, Detective Reed, and Reik, the stenographer, of Washington, who transcribed the dictagraph records in the Blease case, refused to attend the hearing to-day for fear of personal harm. Chairman Carlisle of the legislative committee wired Felder in Atlanta, Ga., to be present with Reed and Reik, but Felder refused, saying:

"Until Blease's term of office expires, we would not care to go into South Carolina, for the reason that our lives would be put in jeopardy. I have received scores of letters from South Carolinians, and with one accord they tell me it would be a most foolhardy thing for me to go into South Carolina as long as Blease is Governor. The unwisdom of such a proceeding is accentuated by the fact that if either the stenographer or Reed should be assassinated it would destroy any chances we might have of convicting Blease and others of the crimes they have committed."

Felder offered to meet the committee in any city outside of South Carolina.

MINISTER TO COLOMBIA HERE.

Mr. Dubois Says the Canal Will Do Great Things Down There.

James T. Dubois, United States Minister to Colombia, who arrived yesterday from Cartagena on the steamship Zacapa to spend a vacation at his home in Hallstead, Penn., said that Colombia had a wonderful future, and her day would dawn with the opening of the Panama Canal.

"There are 500,000 square miles of land in Colombia," he said, "with only 5,000,000 of population. Colombia has as much land as France and Germany combined, which have over 110,000,000 of people between them. The country is rich in agriculture and mines, and it is the only country in South America bordered by the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans. She has three of the finest harbors on the continent—Cartagena, Santa Marta and Buena Ventura. They are the first harbors below the Canal, and that means something. The people are looking forward to the opening of the Canal with expectancy."

CIGAR STORES BOY IN COURT.

Messenger Who Ran Away with $500,000 in Checks Pleads Guilty.

Joseph Killen, the fifteen-year-old messenger boy employed by the United Cigar Stores Company at 44 West Eighteenth Street, who ran away with a satchel containing checks for more than $500,000 and $222 in cash last Saturday and was arrested at Buffalo Tuesday night, was arraigned before Justice Hoyt in Children's Court yesterday. He pleaded guilty and was remanded to the custody of the Children's Society until July 22, when he will be sentenced.

The boy told Justice Hoyt that he had not planned the theft, but when he saw the money he wanted to travel. At Albany he decided that he could not use the checks and left them in the valise. Later he went to Syracuse and Rochester and then to Buffalo. While on his travels the boy bought a watch and fob and a suit of clothes and lived at good hotels. After the cost of a ticket to Denver had been refunded by the railroad company, the police were able to return $131 to the United Cigar Stores Company.

He had recently specialized in immigration legislation, representing the State Commission in Lunacy before Congressional committees in support of the Dillingham bill and other measures tending to restrict the entrance of defective aliens.

CARDINALS POUND BROOKLYN PITCHERS

Dodgers Lose Game to St. Louis by 10 to 2 Score—Dahlen Is Exiled.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, July 18.—The Cardinals beat the Brooklyns to-day by a score of 10 to 2, after hammering two Dodger pitchers, Barger and Stack, hard, the St. Louis singles being judiciously grouped with Brooklyn errors. The Brooklyn team, honestly, was as loose in the field as a bunch of keys, and they made eight errors.

It may not be news to any one that "Bad Bill" Dahlen was ordered off the field, and exiled to the clubhouse. It is the easiest thing that Bill does. He disputed the judgment of Umpire Johnstone, and, after a certain degree of dispute, he was waved off the meadow. Bob Harmon, the best flinger of the Cardinal staff, was on the firing line, and the Dodgers could not hit him at crucial moments at all.

St. Louis began to heap up runs in the second inning, when Konetchy started off with a double to left. Evans planted a Texas Leaguer out of everybody's reach, and "Koney" went to third. Hauser's sacrifice fly scored Konetchy. Oakes singled to left, and Wingo whaled a single to centre, scoring Evans. Harmon forced Wingo at second base, and when Tooley made a wild throw to double up Harmon, Oakes scored.

Brooklyn's brace of counts came in the fourth inning, when, with one out, Smith singled to left. Daubert was safe on Mowrey's fumble, and Smith went to third. Cutshaw's sacrifice fly scored Smith. Daubert stole second, and went to third on Wingo's wild toss to second. Hummel singled to right, scoring Daubert.

In the same inning St. Louis fell viciously upon Barger and drove him from the box, Stack taking his place. Konetchy started off with a triple, and scored on a single by Evans. Hauser bunted safely, and Evans scored when Barger threw to the fence. Stack then went in to pitch.

Oakes beat out a bouncer to Daubert, scoring Hauser. Oakes died stealing. Wingo beat out a single, and Harmon fanned. Wingo stole second, and went to third on Miller's wild throw. Huggins singled to centre, scoring Wingo.

Stack was easy for the Cardinals in the next inning, for sound hitting by the St. Louis stickers, aided by the Brooklyn errors, netted another trio of runs, which were unnecessary because the game was already safe in the hands of the home team, Brooklyn being unable to hit Harmon effectively. Boston and Reds Break Even.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 18.—Boston broke even with the locals to-day in a double-header, winning the first game, 8 to 2, and losing the second, 7 to 1. Perdue was effective in the first game, while Benton held the visitors to two hits in the second game, retiring the Bostons in one, two, three order after the first inning. Honors Even at Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Chicago and Philadelphia divided honors in a double-header to-day, Philadelphia winning the first game in eleven innings, 9 to 8, and losing the second contest, 2 to 4. Chicago outhit the visitors better than two to one in the opening game, but Philadelphia's hits were used to better advantage. Luderus cleared the bases with a home run in the first game. Chicago fought an uphill battle, and tied the score by opportune hitting. Bunched hits in the eleventh, coupled with daring base running by Cravath, who stole home, gave the visitors the game. The locals used eighteen men in this contest.

Reulbach's fine pitching, backed by the timely hitting of his teammates, gave the locals the second game. In this contest Saier and Evers made consecutive home runs. Luderus was spiked in the heel by Saier in the second game, but after a delay he resumed his position. Scores:

SUNDAY BASEBALL GAMES.

The Metropolitans will put a greatly reinforced team in the field Sunday afternoon, when they clash with the New Brunswick team at Lenox Oval, 145th Street and Lenox Avenue. The New Brunswicks have beaten some of the best teams in the minor leagues. The most recent victory was scored over the Williamsport Club. The grandstand at Lenox Oval is covered. There will be an early game at 1:30 between two well-known local teams.

A banner attraction is carded for Sunday at Bronx Oval, 163d Street and Southern Boulevard, the main contest being a game between the fast Royal Giants and the Bronx Athletics. The Bronxonians will present a new catcher, a new first baseman named Wiley, and several other new men who will add strength to the team. The Royals will have out all their favorites, and expect to have a hard fight to come out on the big end of the score. There will be an early game at 1:45 P. M. between two fast amateur teams.

On Sunday at Recreation Park, near Queensboro Bridge Plaza, Long Island City, the Long Island Athletics will play the Pittsburgh Giants. The visitors will have Bradford and Johnstone in the points, while Hagerdorn and Dillon will be the battery for the Athletics. The Orients and the Astoria Athletics will play at 1:30 P. M.

Manager Hussey has booked the Jamaica Woodhulls again for Sunday to play the Ridgewoods in the second game of a double-header at 3:30 P. M., at Wallace's Ridgewood Grounds, Halsey Street and Wyckoff Avenue, Ridgewood. The Woodhulls have won almost all their recent games, among their victims being the Lincoln Giants, the Philadelphia Giants, and the Far Rockaways. Romer, their star twirler, will be in the box for them, while the Ridgewoods, who are making a splendid record this season, will present the noted Doc Scanlan with Hohman behind the bat. The Richmond Hills and another semi-pro team will clash at 1:30 P. M. in the opening affray.

KENNEDY KNOCKED OUT IN EIGHTH ROUND

Bombardier Wells, English Heavyweight, Clearly Outpoints American.

Bombardier Wells, the English heavyweight, after clearly outpointing Tom Kennedy of New York for seven rounds at the Garden Athletic Club last night, landed a right to the jaw in the eighth round which put the New Yorker down and out. The knockdown was the third scored by the Englishman during the bout. While Kennedy lay on the ring floor powerless to raise himself, and Referee Billy Joh had reached seven in the count, which would mark the end of the battle, Sammy Kelly, Kennedy's chief second, acknowledged defeat by tossing the sponge into the ring. But the acknowledgment came too late, as Wells had already turned the trick which effectually ended the bout.

It was a boxing contest such as is seldom seen when two men weighing close to 200 pounds mix in the ring. The ringside weighing in showed both men at the same figure—191½ pounds. Both moved around the ring like lightweights, showing speed of foot as well as of hand, but the Briton was so far superior to the American in speed and cleverness that there was never any doubt as to the outcome. However, Kennedy was game and carried a punch which he landed with sufficient force to worry the Briton, even when things were going strongly in Wells's favor.

The Englishman showed no such punching power against Kennedy last night as he employed in his recent bout with Palzer at the Garden. In fact, his punching was somewhat of a disappointment to those who had figured from Wells's performance against Palzer that he was a puncher extraordinary. Last night his victory by a knockout came after a gradual wearing down of his opponent and long after he had missed dozens of chances to show just such power as he exhibited against Palzer. This was especially true in the third round. Kennedy, either temporarily stunned or simply to taunt the Briton, dropped his hands to his sides and stood before Wells with his guard down. Wells shot over a right to the jaw, which Kennedy made no effort to stop, and he followed up with four more hard rights to the same spot. The crowd looked on in astonishment, expecting to see Kennedy topple over, but the New Yorker did not even stagger. He took all that Wells could hand out, and then launched forth with a rush at Wells, forcing the latter to break ground.

That Wells cannot stand a great deal of punishment was proved conclusively on several occasions when Kennedy assumed the aggressive. Some of these occasions came, as in the third round, after Kennedy had been getting the worst of an exchange of blows, and a hard punch to the head or one to the stomach was enough to make Bombardier back away from Kennedy or fall into a clinch. Wells's seconds, evidently fearing a repetition of Bombardier's performance against Palzer, were continually entreating him to take it easy and not tire himself pounding Kennedy. It proved to be good advice for Wells, who went to his corner noticeably tired at the end of three different rounds. He showed himself unable to go in and win by punching power and his only chance of a knockout was in gradually wearing Kennedy down.

A straight left jab, which jarred Kennedy's head back, was the best blow that Wells had, and he used it to such good effect against the New Yorker that Tom's face was badly cut and bruised long before the bout ended. Swellings were noticeable under both of Kennedy's eyes, and his lips were badly puffed out before the bout was half finished. He bled considerably from the mouth and nose.

Kennedy did not gain the honors in any one of the eight rounds. The one best spurt which he showed came in the first minute of the eighth round, just before he was knocked out. Wells appeared to be tiring, and Kennedy's jabs with either hand found no guard to shake them off. His seconds implored Tom all through the fight to get in close, mix with Wells, and try for his stomach, but Wells's left jab held Kennedy off so effectually that he did not have much chance to follow instructions.

Wells left the ring without a mark. From start to finish he kept himself well out of the path of Kennedy's swings, shooting in jabs and dancing away when Kennedy attempted to do any forcing. On a few occasions Kennedy's punches found their mark, and Wells showed no great inclination on these occasions to jump in and exchange. The third round furnished an exception to this when the pair stood in a neutral corner and exchanged punches in rapid fire order, neither giving ground until they went into a clinch. Kennedy got over several hard punches in this exchange, but the Briton had a shade the better of it.

Wells scored three knockdowns, the first coming in the opening round before the fighting had lasted a minute. A straight right to Kennedy's jaw toppled the latter over without weakening him to any great extent. As he fell Kennedy grabbed Wells's head and pulled the Englishman down after him. The other two knockdowns came in the eighth round. A right to Kennedy's jaw, after a left hook to the stomach, did the trick on each occasion. The first time Kennedy took the count of nine before arising and seemed quite dazed when he regained his feet. The second ended the bout.

The story of the bout by rounds differs but slightly from one round to another. Wells was the cleaner boxer and faster on his feet, holding the lead over Kennedy at every stage. In the early rounds Kennedy tried to be aggressive, but Wells's cleverness held him off. In the latter rounds Kennedy did little more than stand still most of the time and let Wells do the leading.

In the six-round bouts preceding the main event Young McKenna of Jersey City outpointed Young Sieger of Hoboken, and Eddie Gordon of Milwaukee outpointed Walter Brooks of New York.

Kelly Bests Battling Marshall.

Battling Marshall was substituted for Richy Ryan last night at the St. Nicholas Rink for a bout with Eddie Kelly of this city, who earned the decision on points. Marshall showed himself in possession of a wicked right, which he swung at any and every opportunity, but with ill-success. Kelly kept boring in, and gave the negro no chance to use his swinging powers, and with his continual leading rather easily earned the decision. The other bouts were as a rule make-shifts, and, although over quickly, were the results of poor matches, because of the difference in the weights of the principals. A fair-sized crowd witnessed the bouts.

Bouts at Fairmont A. C.

Jim Mitchen, the middleweight from Brooklyn, is going through a regular course of training for his bout with Tommy Bergen at the Fairmont Athletic Club to-morrow night. Bergen is named the "Bearcat" from Lewiston, Me. In the semi-final of ten rounds Kid Williams, the bantam from Baltimore, will box Artie Edwards. The other ten-rounder will bring together Kid Herman and Frank Killeen. There will also be two six-round bouts.

PACES FAST ON HEAVY TRACK

Joe Patchen II. Takes Celery City Purse in Straight Heats.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 18.—Joe Patchen II. proved a remarkable heavy-track stepper to-day, easily taking three straight heats in the Celery City five-thousand-dollar purse for 2:10 pacers. There was never any doubt as to the ability of Joe Patchen's son, and at no time was he forced to go his full limit to win. The track was made heavy by a downpour of rain at noon, delaying the start of the races nearly two hours.

During the scoring for the first heat of this event Columbia Fire caused considerable trouble, jumping up and down, finally sitting down on the sulky and breaking the wheels to the ground. Driver Shank had a narrow escape from injury, but the horse was grabbed by a number of spectators who happened to be standing inside the fence where the accident happened. The horse was withdrawn after the accident.

Chatty Direct won the 2:10 trot in straight heats, although Elizabeth Ray finished close up in the first two heats. Branham Baughman furnished the surprise of the day by defeating C The Limit in straight heats in the 2:05 pace. Don Pronto in the first heat beat C. The Limit by half a length for second place. Four horses, Branham Baughman, C The Limit, Major Brino, and Don Pronto, in the second heat came to the wire heads apart, finishing in the order named. Because of the delay caused by the rain, the 2:24 trot was put over until to-morrow. The summaries:

WOLVERTON SCOUTING.

Yankee's Manager After Rochester's Heavy Batters.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 18.—Harry Wolverton, leader of the New York Yankees, was here to-day in quest of infielders and outfielders, in return for whom, it is supposed that he will turn over pitchers, since Rochester is weak in that department.

Tommy McMillan, who was in the big show with Cincinnati two years ago and warmed Brooklyn's bench, is supposed to be the man Wolverton wants particularly, for the young shortstop has been going like a house on fire this season. He is hitting .318 and leads the International League in stolen bases with 38.

Manager Ganzel, when asked if McMillan was slated for sale, said: "Nothing will break to-night."

Lee Shuts Out Providence and Newark Scores Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 18.—Wyatt Lee was the whole works at Melrose Park this afternoon and he held the Grays in the hollow of his hand while Newark batted out a 4 to 0 victory over Providence. Lee went through the nine sessions without giving a pass and without allowing a Providence player to reach second base. He allowed only six hits, three of which were of the scratch order. Lafitte pitched good ball for Providence, but Newark bunched hits in the fifth and seventh innings. The score:

Jersey City in Desperate Straits.

It was announced unofficially last night that if the Jersey City Club did not get the support of the fans in the test game in that city on Sunday that all the games of the club would be transferred to Washington Park in Brooklyn on the days when the Brooklyn Club is on the road. President Ebbets could not be found last evening to verify this report, but it seems certain that the Jersey City management will attempt to engage the Brooklyn grounds for this purpose. The International League will not be able to play ball in Brooklyn, which is major league territory, without special permission from the National Commission, which is doubtful. Also, if the Jersey City Club plans to play Sunday ball in Brooklyn, it is likely that this will also meet with legal barriers.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Pitcher Harry Krause has been sold to the Cleveland Club. Krause joined the Philadelphia Athletics in 1910, but was turned over to Toledo last May. He has won nine straight games for Toledo without a single loss.

The Terre Haute Central League Club has announced the purchase of Outfielder George Wheeler from the Jersey City Club of the International League. Wheeler will join the club at Grand Rapids to-day.

Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia American League Baseball Club, announces that he has signed Fahey of Dartmouth. Fahey is a short stop.

KERR LEADS BIG FIELD OF GOLFERS

Ekwanok Crack Makes 18 Holes at Dunwoodie Links in 77—120 Starters.

Hamilton K. Kerr of Ekwanok, with a score of 77, led a field of more than 120 players in the eighteen-hole qualifying round of the annual invitation tournament of the Dunwoodie Country Club yesterday. Kerr led by a single stroke Stuart D. Connolly of Rockland, the junior metropolitan champion; F. A. Martin, another Ekwanok player, and Spotswood D. Bowers of Brooklawn. E. Quincy of Essex County was two strokes behind the medalist. There were many scores the same from this point down the list. So close did the players finish that those who qualified for the chief division had to have 83 or less. In other words, only six strokes separated the sixteenth man from the leader.

At several stages Kerr was under par, notably at the 300-yard second, where he got a fine three, at the 215-yard seventh, where he had only to hole a short putt for a two, and at the 485-yard seventeenth, where he got a four. His difficulty seemed to be in the necessity for taking an occasional extra putt. The par for the course is 71. His card follows:

Out	5	3	4	5	4	6	2	4	4—37
In	4	4	5	3	5	4	5	4	6—40	—77

The entry list showed a total of 184 names, 104 of these being from clubs other than Dunwoodie, considered about the largest entry that has been made in a local tournament this season. To-day the first two rounds of match play will be in order. Originally provision was made for four sixteens, but last night the committee decided to start an extra flight. The scores follow:

First Sixteen.—Hamilton K. Kerr, Ekwanok, 37, 40—77; F. A. Martin, Ekwanok, 37, 41—78; S. D. Bowers, Brooklawn, 38, 40—78; Stuart D. Connolly, Rockland, 38, 40—78; E. Quincy, Essex County, 37, 42—79; E. L. Ludlow, Englewood, 40, 40—80; G. S. Scofield, Jr., Wee Burn, 37, 43—80; R. C. Whitcomb, Glen Ridge, 41, 40—81; R. P. Carter, Dunwoodie, 38, 44—82; A. R. EVANS IN CLOSE GAME.

Western Golf Championship Brings Out Good Play.

DENVER, Col., July 18.—Charles Evans, Jr., Edgewater Club, Chicago, will play H. G. Legg, Minnikahda Club, Minneapolis, and Warren K. Wood, Homewood Club, Chicago, will play J. Neville, Claremont Club, California, Pacific Coast champion, to-morrow in the semi-finals for the amateur championship of the Western Golf Association, as the result of the third championship round, 36 holes, played here to-day on the links of the Denver Country Club.

In the last half of the third round, 18 holes, Evans defeated D. E. Sawyer, Wheaton Club, Chicago, 2 and 1; Wood defeated Frazer Hale, Skokie Club, Chicago, 7 and 6; J. Neville defeated L. G. Hopkins, Skokie Club, Chicago, 7 and 6, and Legg won from L. D. Bromfield, Denver, 11 and 10.

The largest gallery of the tournament witnessed the match between Evans and Sawyer, the feature of the day. They were all square when beginning the last nine holes. Sawyer won the first, Evans the second, the next four holes were halved, but at the seventh Sawyer lost by topping his ball and landing in a irrigation ditch, making Evans 1 up. On the next hole Sawyer made a poor approach, while Evans overran the green and made a pretty ten-foot put, winning the match, 2 up and 1 to play.

James Flynn, Veteran Turfman, Dead

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 18.—James Flynn, an old-time turfman and well known as a trainer and driver, died suddenly on the street here last night. Flynn drove Sweet Marie to a record of 2:02 in California in 1905.

Red Sox Had a Big Lead.

BOSTON, July 18.—Rain stopped to-day's Boston-Chicago game in the first inning. Boston had hammered Cicotte, the former Red Sox pitcher, out of the box, and had scored ten runs with only two out, when play was suspended. Chicago did not score on Hall in its half inning.

RAIN STOPS TENNIS.

Only Three Doubles Matches Decided in Longwood Tourney.

BOSTON, July 18.—Rain checked the progress of the Longwood Cricket Club tennis championships in singles and doubles to-day. There was one unfinished set in singles, while in the doubles three matches were played off before the rain came and broke into the final set of a fourth match.

In the singles match W. J. Clothier of Philadelphia had won two sets from J. D. E. Jones of Providence, the former Rhode Island champion, and was three-all when the match was called off.

In the doubles Craig Biddle and R. N. Williams of Philadelphia, after having defeated the Washburn brothers of Bridgeport, Conn., in the second round, opposed N. P. Hallowell and J. Nowell of Boston, conquerors of Inman and E. P. Larned, for the third round match. When postponement came it looked like a runaway for the Philadelphia combination, which had won two sets. The summary:

Longwood Singles.—Fifth Round—W. J. Clothier, Philadelphia, led J. D. E. Jones, Providence, 6—1, 6—4, 3—3, (unfinished.)

Eastern Doubles Championship.—Second Round—Craig Biddle and R. N. Williams, Philadelphia, defeated F. B. and W. M. Washburn, Bridgeport, Conn., 9—7, 6—2, 6—4. Third Round—Biddle and Williams led N. P. Hallowell and J. Nowell, Boston, 6—0, 6—2, 1—2, (unfinished;) M. J. Clothier, Philadelphia, and G. P. Gardner, Jr., Boston, defeated Karl H. Behr, New York, and Beals C. Wright, Boston, 6—2, 4—6, 6—3, 6—4; N. W. Niles and A. S. Dabney, Boston, defeated H. H. Hackett and L. E. Mahan, New York, 7—5, 7—5, 6—3.

Western Championship Tennis.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Tennis stars from distant States have begun arriving in Chicago for the annual Western championship tournament, which will begin on Saturday at the Onwentsia Club, Lake Forest. The matches will continue all next week. The National doubles matches will be held on the same grounds July 30 and 31, the winning team to play R. D. Little and G. F. Touchard, the title holders, Aug. 20, at Newport. Among the visiting players in the men's singles will be F. W. Woodbury and C. B. Hopper of Los Angeles, Nat Thornton and G. Y. Smith of Atlanta, James Armstrong and Ward Burton of Minneapolis, J. S. Cushman of New York, Elliott Middleton and Alfred Cornelius of Memphis, G. B. Monroe of New Orleans, G. M. Church and W. H. Mace of Princeton University.

FOREIGN CYCLISTS TO RACE.

Brighton Motordrome to be Scene of Thirty-Mile Contest.

As the attraction at the Brighton Beach Motordrome next Sunday night, two foreign riders of international repute will be matched with the best of the American talent now in the East. The race will be at the thirty-mile distance, the longest essayed by any of the pilots at this wonderfully banked saucer, with the visitors Alphonse Barreyre, the champion of Canada and Eugene Coste, a French pilot who has been riding rings around the best of the men of his country.

This will be an international championship event and the first that has been staged on an American track. One of the best of the Yankees will be Arthur Chapple of this city, who has been beating everyone he has aligned himself against at the new track. Other Americans who will oppose the foreigners will be Wray, Mercier, Cox, and three men from the Philadelphia contingent who are fast becoming used to the third of a mile circuit.

Barreyre and Coste leave Montreal for the States this afternoon and will get their warming up spins as soon as their machines arrive. On Saturday night Johnny Albright of Denver and Billy Wray will line up in the feature event of a programme which comprises eleven events.

Patsy White Knocks Out Goldman.

In a fast bout at the Fordon A. C. last night Patsy White, by directing his whole battery against Young Goldman's left eye, blinded him and then finished his work at leisure. Till the fifth round the outcome was in doubt, both boys displaying fine ability in different departments of the game. White weighed in at 125 pounds and Goldman at 120 pounds. At the in-fighting the lighter man was the better, having a stockier build and using hard uppercuts which wore his opponent down while in the clinches. In the open fighting White had everything his own way, landing straight lefts almost at will. By quick footwork White kept away from the ropes and saved himself from corners where the heavy hitting of the more compact man would have soon brought him low.

All the rounds except the fourth went to White through his ability to land with a straight left. In the fourth Goldman cornered his opponent and worked some damage, but not of a lasting character. When White came back from the severe pumelling he changed his tactics and devoted all his attention to Goldman's left eye with the result that by the end of the round it was useless. In the sixth he finished his man, never forgetting to keep his distance, however, so as not to lose the advantage of Goldman's blindness. All through the bout there was fast aggressive fighting without any let up and till the final round the outcome was in uncertainty, Goldman possessing great stamina.

Silver Cup for Speed Boat Races.

DETROIT, Mich., July 18.—As an incentive for record-breaking in the Cadillaqua motor boat events, to be held here next week in connection with the city's two hundred and eleventh birthday celebration, Clement Studebaker, Jr., of South Bend, Ind., and Detroit, has put up a valuable silver cup for the boat making the fastest mile against time. John J. Ryan, whose boats are entered, will attempt to set a new world's record. Ryan stated to-day that his entry would do the mile in one minute flat. J. M. Studebaker has offered a silver cup for the winner of the senior eight rowing races.

Michicago to Race Mavourneen.

CHICAGO, July 18.—The recently built syndicate boat Michicago, which won the Manhasset Cup on Long Island Sound, will race E. W. Mills's sloop Mavourneen here on Saturday in the first of a series of elimination contests to determine the craft and skipper which will be sent against the Canadian yacht Patricia in the international championship race here during the August naval pageant. Considerable disappointment was felt among local yachtsmen over the showing of the Michicago in the race for the Herbst Cup to Milwaukee last Saturday, but the handling of the boat is held in a great measure to be to blame for her failure to show better.

Plan Reception for Athletes.

A special meeting of the Board of Managers of the Metropolitan Association of the Amateur Athletic Union will be held Monday, July 22, at 8 P. M., in Room 74, Astor House, Broadway and Vesey Street, for the purpose of discussing plans for a public celebration to be tendered to the victorious American Olympic team.

ANTI-RACING NEWS BILL.

Chicago Representative Introduces Measure to Suppress Track Results.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Representative Sabath of Chicago to-day introduced a bill to prohibit the inter-State transmission of racing news. It would make it a misdemeanor punishable by fine of from $200 to $2,000, or not more than a year's imprisonment, for any one to send or receive for transmission, in inter-State commerce, messages giving odds laid on a horse race, either before or after the race, the result of a race, on which any wager or betting is made, or giving the names of jockeys and weights.

It would impose fines ranging from $500 to $2,000 on any person convicted of allowing such race information to be sent by telegraph, telephone, wireless, or cable owned or controlled by that person.

Monmouth Dog Show To-morrow.

Judging in the regular classes at the annual dog show of the Monmouth Kennel Club will begin at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning on the Hollywood grounds, West End, Long Branch, N. J. The number of entries and the prominence of the exhibitors are an assurance that this event is second only to the annual show of the Westminster Kennel Club. The Superintendent, Wilbur H. Purcell, has perfected every possible arrangement for the convenience of visitors. Whether they arrive by boat or train, with or without dogs, they will find plenty of facilities of transportation to the park.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Demands for Shortage of Laces Are Upheld—Other Decisions.

P. K. Wilson & Son were successful in their contention before the Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday regarding a shortage of six pieces of lace. The testimony showed that in one instance six pieces contained in the invoice were not in the case, but were found in excess of the amount stated in another invoice. Duty was assessed on the excess amount in both invoices. The Collector was ordered to reliquidate the entry.

On the authority of a previous decision which was sustained by the United States Court of Customs Appeals, the protests filed by Wakem & McLaughlin, P. Pastene & Co., and Maynard & Child were overruled. The protestants held that an allowance should be made for the weight of the tops or stalks of an importation of garlic, by means of which the bulbs are braided together.

The protests filed by the American Express Company were submitted on the Appraiser's reports, which showed that certain hyacinth bulbs were identical with those which were the subject of a previous decision, and the Collector was authorized to reliquidate at the rate of 50 cents per thousand, under Paragraph 263 of the present Tariff act.

DRY GOODS MARKET SLOWER.

Little Hope of Renewed Activity Before New Bedford Settlement.

Unsettled weather retarded trading in the New York dry goods market yesterday, and, as a result, the aggregate volume of business placed declined somewhat from the levels of the preceding days. Out-of-town buyers active in the primary market were limited in number, and in the principal jobbing centres the greater part of the day's trade was supplied by the smaller merchants of the city and surrounding territory.

Little change in the fine cotton goods end of the market materialized during the day, business having been practically at a standstill as far as this class of merchandise was concerned. There is now hardly any chance of real activity developing until the New Bedford trouble is settled one way or another. According to the claim of the manufacturers, the weavers are entirely at fault in the matter, they having refused to treat with the manufacturers at a time when the strike might have been avoided. Consequently a belief is held in this market that it will be a fight to the finish. The coarser constructions of cotton goods were purchased in a quiet way, and values maintained the strength that has featured these lines of late. Hosiery and underwear for next Spring received a fair share of the attention of buyers, but from all accounts the total volume of business done showed a falling off from that of the previous day.

There was some good mail business reported in the secondary markets, but house trade was limited for the most part to the placing of a few small orders here and there. Seasonable lines of dress fabrics received little call, but the heavier lines of Fall goods moved in a fairly active way. Some early spot buying of Fall silks was reported by one of the largest departments in this market, and with the ice now broken gradually increasing activity is looked for. Velvets, velveteens, and corduroys are slated for a big season, and already signs of a scarcity of the two latter fabrics are said to be in evidence. A scarcity of velvets before the season closes is also predicted. The jobbing season for lightweight hosiery and underwear is now practically ended, and Fall stocks are being put on the shelves.

LINOLEUMS SELLING WELL.

Price Advances Did Not Effect Early Buying for Fall Trade.

The road business booked on Fall lines of linoleums was unusually satisfactory this year, considering that practically all the sales were made at prices showing a substantial increase over those quoted on similar lines a year ago. Reports from salesmen returned from Fall trips through various parts of the country show the orders received to be fully equal in size and number to those secured in the same territories in 1911, notwithstanding the poor Spring season generally experienced by retailers. While the demand was well distributed as a rule, the aggregate volume of business done throughout the Western part of the country showed a slight increase over that received from the principal Eastern retail centres. Price advances did not retard early buying to any extent, as buyers apparently realized the true condition of the market and operated accordingly. Floor oilcloths also met with a satisfactory demand.

Retail buyers of these lines are now coming into this market for their Fall selections, and while house trading has so far been lighter than last year, some good business is expected to develop before the close of the season. Buyers are said to be coming in later than usual because of the backward Spring experienced, and this has naturally limited spot activities to date. Shipments of burlap are received more freely now from the other side, from all accounts, but values continue firm, and there is no apparent possibility of a recession in linoleum prices during the remainder of the current season.

ITALIAN SILK IN DEMAND.

Silk Market in Yokohama Steady and Unchanged.

According to the latest cables from Milan there is an improved demand for Italian raw silk in evidence in that market, and holders are consequently firmer in their demands for full prices. The Italian crop has fallen short of expectations, and reelers are also refusing to grant concessions.

Reports from Yokohama received by H. L. Gwalter & Co., 410 Broadway, indicate continued quiet there. The market is steady, however, and quotations for the better grades of silk are practically unchanged. On the lower grades there is more inclination to meet the figures of buyers. Early arrivals of the new season's silk have been found rather badly reeled, previous complaints of American and European buyers along this line apparently having had little effect on the native reelers. The Canton market reports a fair demand from Europe, with prices showing a slight upward tendency. Shanghai is generally quiet, the demand, with the exception of the call for steam filatures, being rather limited. Stocks available for prompt or near-by delivery are light, however, and prices show little change.

There has been no important development in the New York market of late. A steady business in spot silks of all kinds is being done, but little interest is shown at the present time in forward contracts. Bookings for new silks are consequently behind this season. Prices are generally low, but are withstanding the prolonged absence of demand remarkably well. Present values are about on a level with the actual cost of producing the new crop.

Argentina a Good Customer of Ours.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Statistics so far complete for the fiscal year just ended indicate that Argentina has moved up another step in the rank of buyers of products from the United States. In 1900 Argentina occupied tenth place in this list with $36,000,000 worth of purchases. In 1912 she will advance to eighth place, with imports from this country valued at more than $54,000,000.

SIDELIGHTS ON SELLING.

A good demand for macreme effects in embroidery, an extension of the vogue for macreme laces, is predicted for next Spring.

Colored shoes, in both Balmorals and Oxfords, have met a considerably improved call of late.

There is said to be a marked scarcity of fancy hosiery in the New York market at the present time.

Crystal buttons, sewed on with bright-colored silk, are much in vogue in Paris, according to recent correspondence received by a recognized authority on fashion matters.

TAKE UP COTTON DISPUTES.

Committee of 20 Exchanges Hears Savannah's Complaint of Bremen.

Representatives of twenty Cotton Exchanges from the principal centres of cotton trading in the United States met in the board room of the Cotton Exchange yesterday to discuss relations with foreign organizations. One of the principal topics was the dispute which has arisen between the American Exchanges, more particularly the Savannah Cotton Exchange and the Cotton Exchange at Bremen. The Savannah Exchange has complained that it invariably gets the worst of it in claims submitted by German buyers to the Bremen Exchange for arbitration. The most frequent cause of dispute between the American shipper and foreign buyer is the grade or quality of the cotton, and the Savannah Exchange contends that when these disputes are submitted to arbitration in Bremen the German officials have invariably ruled against the shippers and have allowed unreasonable claims.

A committee of five was appointed to consider the problems arising out of foreign trade methods, and it submitted a report at yesterday's session. Action on the report was deferred till to-day.

JEWELRY TRADE HOPEFUL.

Business Expected to Pick Up Within a Week or Ten Days.

There is not much business being done just now by the Maiden Lane silversmiths handling sterling wares exclusively, but the tone of the district is hopeful. The next week or ten days will see the end of the between-season dullness that has kept trading at a low ebb for some time, and the belief is held that the trade will then enter upon one of the best seasons ever experienced. Salesmen will go out with Fall lines about Aug. 1, and about that time the influx of buyers from the South and West is expected. The mills represented in the membership of the New England Manufacturing Jewelers and Silversmiths' Association are preparing to close for inventory and repairs, the schedule of closing placing the extreme dates at July 20 and Aug. 12.

The increase in the price of plated ware that has been talked of more or less since sterling wares were advanced early in the Spring has not yet materialized. In view of the gradual but steady increase in the cost of the basic materials and labor, an advance in the selling price of plated silver is believed to be inevitable, but at the present moment all of the big producers are apparently waiting for some one to make the first move.

In this end of the market trading is a little more active. Salesmen representing some of the larger houses went out with Fall samples shortly after July 4, and the volume of business turned in so far was said to augur well for the future. There has been some spot buying done, but the real rush of buyers is not looked for until the end of the month. The special rates secured by the Merchants' Association for buyers coming to the city for Fall purchases is expected to greatly increase the number this year, as it is believed that merchants located in some of the smaller towns who have not made a practice of coming to this market will avail themselves of the opportunity afforded. The trade of these dealers is expected to swell the volume of spot business considerably.

WHEAT CROP PLENTIFUL.

Reports Offset Early Upturn in Prices in Chicago Pit.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Reports of crops far above the average in Minnesota and the Dakotas more than offset to-day an early upturn in prices due to firm cables and to some concern about low temperature in the Canadian Northwest.

According to one estimate the States named would have a record-breaking yield, perhaps as high as 275,000,000 bushels. The opening here was ⅛ lower to ⅝@½ up. September started at 94 to 94⅛, a shade to ⅝@½ higher, touched 94⅛, and then dropped to 93⅜.

Corn developed decided weakness. As soon as shorts had ceased covering it was difficult to make sales at any price. Selling was mainly by exhausted longs. September, after opening ¼@⅝c off to 1-16 advance, at 66⅛ to 66⅛, rose to 66¾@66⅞, but soon fell to 65⅝@65½.

Scattered commission selling carried down oats with other grain. September started ⅛ to ¼@⅜ higher, at 33⅝@33½c to 33⅜, and descended to 33⅛.

Provisions showed firmness on account of the small receipts of hogs. Initial transactions ranged from 2½ off to 10c advance, with September delivery 17.92 for pork; 10.55 to 10.60 for lard, and 10.50 for ribs.

CONSULAR TRADE NOTES.

The lack of early rains is causing consternation in Guatemala, as it presages a great shortage in the corn crop and unfavorably affects other lines of production. In response to a petition from consumers, it is reported that the Jefe Politico of the Department of Guatemala, with offices in Guatemala City, is arranging to order by cable a large supply of corn from the United States. Importations from the United States will either be made through Puerto Barrios on the Atlantic or San Jose de Guatemala on the Pacific.

The imported flour transported from Dairen, (Dalny,) Manchuria, to the interior during the first four months of 1912 amounted to 4,416 tons in January, 2,857 tons in February, 1,606 tons in March, and 3,166 tons in April. The imports of flour into Dairen for the same months were as follows: January, 2,529 tons; February, 4,732 tons; March, 5,712 tons, and April, 5,221 tons.

Crude gypsum mined in the United States amounted to only 90,000 tons in 1880. The output doubled in the next decade, passed the million-ton mark in 1903, and totaled 2,323,970 tons in 1911. The total value of gypsum and gypsum products last year was $6,462,035.

A notice has been issued by the Direction Generale des Contributions Indirectes, requesting shippers to Turkey to mark on all packages both the gross and net weights in kilograms. The request was made to facilitate the work of checking and weighing imported goods.

NEW TITLE GUARANTEE STOCK

Cash Dividend to Apply to Payment—Capital to be $5,000,000.

The Title Guarantee and Trust Company, which now has a capital of $4,375,000 and a surplus of $12,671,000, will ask stockholders to approve an increase in capital to an even $5,000,000. The increase will be distributed Sept. 30 to stockholders of record Sept. 9 at the rate of one new share for ever seven shares held. A cash dividend equivalent to the par value of the stock will be distributed out of the surplus and applied to payment for the new stock. The shares now sell at around $600.

It was explained by an officer of the company yesterday that the dividend is for the purpose of bringing the capital up to an even amount and at the same time dividing among the stockholders a part of the company's large surplus. The company's capital was brought up to the odd amount in 1903, when the Manufacturers' Trust Company of Brooklyn, with a capital of $500,000, was absorbed. This company was taken over by an exchange of three shares of Title Guarantee and Trust stock for each four shares of the Brooklyn company's stock.

TO RIVAL HARVESTER TRUST.

Emerson-Brantingham Merger Has Eight Concerns and Will Add More.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 18.—Behind the application to the Secretary of State to-day for authorization to increase the capital stock of the Emerson-Brantingham Company of Rockford from $6,000,000 to $50,000,000 is believed to be an attempt to build up a rival to the International Harvester Company.

Included in the merger are the Emerson-Brantingham Company and Emerson Carriage Company of Rockford; Emerson-Newton Implement Company of Minneapolis, Emerson-Newton Company of Kansas City, Emerson-Brantingham Plow Company of Dallas, Emerson-Brantingham Implement Company of Spokane, Gas Traction Company of Minneapolis, and Lacross Hay Tool Company of Chicago. In addition a wagon company and a thrasher company, each said to be a large concern, will join the new corporation in a few weeks.

Officers of the new organization have not been elected, but it is understood that Charles S. Brantingham will be President, Fred Glover Vice President, J. W. MacLachlin Secretary and Treasurer, and E. P. Lathrop general counsel.

"It is a union of non-competing concerns," said C. S. Brantingham at Rockford to-night, but beyond this he would not discuss the plans of the new corporation.

MINE TUNNEL 7,200 FEET.

Alaska Company Bores Through Mount Roberts at Juneau.

Special to The New York Times.

TACOMA, Wash., July 18.—The Alaska-Juneau Mining Company, a subsidiary of the Alaska Treadwell Company, is boring a 7,200-foot tunnel from the shore of Gastineau Channel at Juneau, beneath Mount Roberts, into the famous Silver Bow Basin. Fifteen hundred feet of the tunnel has been completed. A mill of 150 stamps is being installed.

For many years various properties in Silver Bow Basin, which are of large proportions but low grade, have been operated in a desultory manner, owing to the heavy cost of transporting ore across Mount Roberts, whose altitude is 3,000 feet.

On Gastineau Channel, near the mouth of the tunnel and nearly opposite the Treadwell Mine, a concentrating plant is being erected and wharves and bunkers are being constructed. The electric motors now used for hauling the rock from the tunnel later will drag the ore cars out.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

Grains Still on Downward Course—Cotton Up—Coffee Weak.

New low records were made in wheat, corn, and oats. Weather conditions were favorable, and the crop situation continues to improve. Selling of corn was heavy and liquidation pronounced. Provisions were unsettled and lower. Cottonseed oil displays firmness on the technical situation. Cotton advances sharply. The spot situation is firm, and unfavorable weather in parts of the Central West and East offset other factors. Coffee declines under bearish foreign news.

WHEAT.

WHEAT again closed at the low point of the session, and at new low limits on the movement. The early trading was a little uncertain, with some tendency toward recovery. Buying lacked energy, however, and, with the development of fresh liquidation in the afternoon and influenced to some extent by the weakness in corn, prices declined. The loss was not as heavy, however, as during preceding days of the week. The early steadiness was due to some reports of frost damage in Manitoba on account of the frosts Sunday night, but the weather conditions for the day were very favorable in the Canadian Northwest, and again of the best in the American Northwest. The tendency to put in figures the high promise of the Spring wheat crop is naturally a bearish one. Another crop expert was out with a claim of 275,000,000 bushels possible for the three States. This is 4,000,000 bushels more than the Government estimate for the entire Spring wheat crop. Owing to the favorable promise of the crop Minneapolis has been weak, selling down at the close to only ⅝c over Winnipeg, the smallest difference on the crop, while Minneapolis was only about 1c premium over Chicago. As Minneapolis prices represent Spring wheat, and Chicago prices represent hard Winter, the small premium in the Northwest attracted a good deal of attention. The shortage of the soft Winter wheat crop, however, is expected to make considerable demand in the Central West for both hard Winter and Spring wheat. Receipts of hard wheat are increasing quite steadily, but are still much below last year. Offerings from the Southwest are reported increasing. Foreign markets were lower again. Argentine exports for the week were estimated at 2,400,000 bushels. Owing to the recent decline in Baltimore and Philadelphia markets considerable export business has been effected in new Winters, amounting, it is stated, to about 240,000 bushels. Baltimore cash wheat was quoted down to 97½c. No. 2 red was quoted here at $1.08¼; free on board; No. 1 Northern, $1.12; No. 2 hard, Winter, $1.08½; No. 1 Manitoba, $1.15½.

OTHER GRAINS.

CORN.—The market broke steadily, showing a decline from the high point of 1⅛c to 2⅜c per bushel, closing at the decline at a net loss for the day of from 1c to 1⅞c. The break caught a good many stop orders in the old crop months, and, with the very favorable reports on the new crop situation, there was no buying power in the market. The weather map showed heavy rains in Iowa and Nebraska, where they have been greatly needed, particularly in Nebraska, and there were rains in Texas, with predictions of unsettled conditions throughout the Far Southwest. The prospects for the crop are steadily improving, and the chances for a very large outturn are becoming excellent. Cash corn was lower, with No. 2 quoted at 80¼c, free on board. Argentine exports for the week were estimated at 5,100,000 bushels.

OATS.—The market was less active, and prices were slightly easier, the market declining from the high of the day ⅛@⅝c on new crops and 2⅛c on old, closing, however, at unchanged to ¼c net loss. Shorts were fair buyers early, but when this demand was satisfied the market quickly reacted. There was, however, very little selling pressure considering the weakness in other grain. Spot oats continue very firm, with standards and No. 2 white quoted at 58c, elevator; No. 3 white, 57½c. New oats, to arrive, continue offered at a decided discount.

PROVISIONS.

The market was more active, pork breaking 60c per barrel, but partly recovered at the close. Support was apparently withdrawn, and prices gave way quickly, with small transactions. In lard and ribs the support was maintained. Hog packing for the week was 455,000, against 580,000 last year.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market had a moderate upturn during the day, with evidence of less pressure to sell and more of a disposition on the part of shorts to accept profits. The early strength of lard and the higher cotton market seemed to affect sentiment, but generally the advance was attributed to a firmer technical situation. As far as could be learned there has been no distinct betterment in the consuming demand for cottonseed oil. The statistics recently issued by the Department of Agriculture showing the production of cottonseed oil the past season to be approximately 202,000,000 gallons of crude, against 168,000,000 gallons last year attracted quite a little attention. This suggested a crush of 70.7 per cent., which was slightly more than anticipated, comparing with 79 per cent. the preceding season, and 73 per cent. two years ago. In making deductions as to the excess of refined oil received this season over last, however, allowance must be made for somewhat larger refining losses than the 8 or 9 per cent. generally figured on for the 1910-11 season.

COTTON.

The inherent strength which was apparent to some interests during the last few days was unmistakable yesterday, and, although during the early part of the session there was diffidence shown, with the list ruling at extremely small advances or declines, perceptible firmness developed as the day wore on. October loomed conspicuously in this respect and sold to within a few points of December, whereas a short time ago there was a carrying charge, seemingly normal, of about 10 points. The advances recorded served to establish new high levels for the months to October, while the deliveries beyond just about equaled their previous best prices.

The weather news was again conflicting, but it was evident that bullish idea predominated. There were scattered showers again in Texas, with intermittent advices at hand stating that rains were still falling at some points yesterday, but it was argued that, whatever benefit will be derived from this moisture will be offset by the unpropitious, or, in fact, unfavorable weather in many parts of the East. Showers are reported almost incessantly in various parts of the districts lying east of the river, with moderate to heavy showers in sections of Alabama and Georgia yesterday. The Central Western States were also receiving undesired precipitation. Clear weather has been expected to overspread these parts of the belt for so long a period, and to date has failed to materialize to an appreciable extent, so that it is not astonishing that reports of the plant being small, not developing properly, being sappy and infected with insects are numerous. Furthermore, showers were again forecasted for the eastern belt, or, as a matter of fact, for practically the entire belt, with the exception of West Texas.

Congestion was discerned in the market at times with the light offerings of October in particular causing comment. In some circles the contention was that the trade buying of this delivery has been underestimated, and, inasmuch as the South is not selling in important volume, shorts are unpleasantly situated. Generally, however, the belief prevailed that there have been enormous straddle operations, with Liverpool and New Orleans options sold against the purchase of our market; this activity predicated on the belief that the local market was relatively attractive. The tension may be relieved when these spreads are undone, while, in the meantime, whether or not the trade contingent buy more freely or the South shows greater willingness to hedge their prospective crop will depend largely upon the weather developments.

Foreign advices were not influential during the day. Liverpool cables were about as due, although spot sales there were about 10,000 bales, slightly larger than recently. From Egypt were mail advices stating that the crop there promised to be earlier and in excess of last season.

COFFEE.

Coffee declined 14 to 17 points at the opening, regained part of the loss, again eased off, and closed 10 to 14 points net lower. Sales totaled 103,750 bags. Cost and freight offers from Brazil were about unchanged in the face of a decline in the future markets there and prices continue above a parity with local spot quotations. Havre lost ⅝@1f, Hamburg was ½@¾ pfennig lower, Rio was weak and unchanged, while Santos was barely steady at a decline of 50 reis. Receipts at Brazilian points were moderate compared with the last two seasons.

Spot coffee inactive and easy; Rio 7, 14¼c. Contract prices follow:

The market for raw sugar was lower, as refiners refused to pay the old prices, owing to the weakness in Europe. Prices there were influenced by speculative liquidation, owing to improved crop prospects. Here centrifugal, 96 test, was quoted at $3.98; Muscovado, 89 test, at $3.48, and molasses, 89 test, at $3.23. Sales consisted of 12,000 bags Cubas for second half of August shipment, 14,000 bags for August shipment, 5,000 bags for prompt shipment, and 7,000 to 8,000 bags of molasses sugar at the above quotations. The London beet sugar market opened weak, with business at lower prices. July and August were quoted at 12s 6d and October to December at 10s 5¼d. The late curb prices in London were steady, with July showing an additional decline of 1¼d. August was ¼d higher and October to December unchanged. PROTEST FEDERAL TAX.

Pennsylvania Railway Companies Say Lines Are Leased to Others.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 18.—Five suits were filed in the United States District Court to-day by railroad companies against William McCoach, Collector of Internal Revenue, to recover a corporation tax levied by the Government and paid by the plaintiffs under protest. The complaining corporations are the Cambria and Clearfield Railway Company, the Chester Creek Railroad Company, Shamokin Valley & Pottsville Railroad Company, Connecting Railway Company, and the Philadelphia & Trenton Railroad Company.

The plaintiffs objected to paying the tax on the ground that they had lost their corporate existence through the leasing of their lines to other railroads. A similar suit brought by a railway company against the collector is now pending in the United States Supreme Court, the Federal tribunal having decided in the railway's favor. No statements of claim have been filed in the present actions, and it is understood that the cases will not be pressed until after a decision is filed by the Supreme Court.

ARGYLE SINKS IN EAST RIVER.

Steamboat Strikes a Reef Off College Point and Settles in the Mud.

In the mist and fog of yesterday morning the steamer Argyle, bound from New York to New Rochelle, struck a rock in the East River, midway between College Point and Clason Point, making a big hole in her bottom. She began to fill with water and the crew made for the lifeboats. They were ordered back to their stations by the Captain.

The boat slid off the reef, and the water pouring into her hold extinguished the fire under her boilers. She finally sank in about twenty feet of water and was submerged to the second deck. As she gradually setled the Captain and crew sought refuge on the upper deck. She lies in the mud about a quarter of a mile off Tenth Street, College Point. The full extent of the damage will not be known until she is raised and put in dry dock.

Thread Companies Increase Capital.

TRENTON, July 18.—The capital stock of the Barbour Flax Spinning Company of New Jersey was increased from $750,000 to $1,500,000, and the capital stock of the Linen Thread Company of New Jersey was raised from $25,000 to $500,000 by certificates filed in the office of the Secretary of State to-day.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Trading Quiet Again—Prices Recede a Little—Grain Options Lower.

At no time during yesterday's session did the stock market show anything like the spirit which it displayed in the closing hour on Wednesday. A number of the less active stocks made good gains, reflecting the improvement in market sentiment which came with the forward movement of the previous day, and some of the active stocks, too, made further advances on the opening quotations. Thereafter, in the course of a slow and irresolute movement, most of the leading issues receded from their first prices, and some of them showed net losses for the day. These were not great, however, and in view of the sharpness of Wednesday's last hour advance the market may be said to have given a good account of itself. The relapse into dullness—and for a portion of the day trading was practically at a standstill—suggested, however, that the vigor of Wednesday's rise was in large measure due to the successful utilization as an influence, of the uneasiness among the short interest which had grown up during the two previous days owing to the quiet strength of the market. Only an almost entire absence of selling pressure could make possible such a forward movement as occurred Wednesday afternoon, but there were no indications yesterday that that advance had aroused any outside interest. What yesterday's record on the Stock Exchange does seem to show is that there is no disposition on the part of those bearishly inclined—and a large number of traders are in this class—to assume any aggressive position on the short side. If they were so disposed, the sharp advance would have prompted a good deal more selling than occurred yesterday.

It seemed that a point had been reached in the decline in the grain markets, at which further recessions in the price of corn and wheat were exerting less pronounced influence upon the drift of stock market sentiment. This may have been due to recognition of a disposition shown in some quarters to give credit to forecasts of the wheat yield, which not only are very far above estimates made early in the season, but also much above the yields which it seems reasonable to hope for. The outlook is good, but if speculative operations are resulting in an effort to make it appear even better than it seems to those conservatively minded, the way will be paved for disappointments which will have been self-created. The actual crop result will be good enough if it bears out the expectation of those who in their view of the outlook take the middle ground between the pessimistic and the too optimistic predictions regarding this year's farm output.

The foreign markets were less eventful yesterday, indicating that no importance was attached to the public discussion in serious vein of the political relations of the two greatest European commercial powers. Owing to the practices of the London market less importance is seen in the quoting of insurance rates on the maintenance of peace in Europe than would be attached to some event in our own market of comparable apparent significance. The recent weakness in consols—yesterday they escaped making a new low price—can be explained on other grounds than those suggested in yesterday's discussion of the European political situation. Indeed, that discussion seemed to overexplain what has been going on in the European investment markets, of which the decline in consols has been the most conspicuous feature.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

D. O. Mills's Old Bank.

The National Bank of D. O. Mills & Co., located at Sacramento, Cal., has had its corporate existence re-extended until July 6, 1932. This is one of the oldest National banks in the country. The late D. O. Mills was one of the pioneers who saw the possibilities in California at the time of the gold craze in 1849, and the bank which he established in the following year has been in business ever since. The bank was nationalized in 1872 and its charter was first extended for twenty years in 1892.

⁂

An Official Investment Advisor.

The British Government has been considering a plan to enlarge the duties of the public trustee to an extent that has created alarm among some of the leading bankers. Already the powers of the trustee as custodian and controller of huge sums left in trust and under will are stupendous. It is now seriously proposed that it should come within his province actually to solicit from the public the investment of moneys. The idea of the public trustee making a general appeal to the public at large to send money for investment and giving advice as to the safety of various offerings with the authority of the British Empire back of him has not proved attractive to English financial interests, who hold that the new departure is carrying the functions of government to an extreme. The London Stock Exchange has been trying to devise means of spreading the commission business among a larger number of members, and that body is not pleased at the idea of concentrating the investing power of thousands of small purchasers in the hands of a Government official.

⁂

A Minneapolis Crop Report.

It begins to look as though the Northwest were to have a good crop year without the "if" which has figured so largely in recent periods. The Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis says that its reports from various parts of the Northwest continue favorable. After two years of diminished moisture in many localities the ground has been restored to a normal condition. The rains of the last two weeks, which were unusually satisfactory in volume and distribution, were hailed with delight by the farmers. Although such a bountiful supply of moisture was not an absolute necessity at this time, the condition of the crops generally has been greatly improved by the rainfall, and a reserve supply of moisture is in the earth which puts still further into the future the possibility of a serious drought. Many sections of the grain growing country report that the crop is assured except in the event of severe hot winds.

⁂

More Intelligent Farming.

The educational movement with regard to the farm, in which the bankers and railroads have been so active in the last two years, is said to be producing results in two directions. Scientific agriculture is becoming more a matter of everyday habit with the farmers, giving larger yields, with a diversity of product, which makes the chance of serious failure less. The public mind is appreciating the fact that our National prosperity has its basic support on the farm.

⁂

A Bungled Bond Sale.

Some of the bidders for the $5,000,000 of 4 per cent. bonds offered by the City of Baltimore this week are disgruntled with the methods of the city officials in handling their offers. Baltimore has not been popular with houses specializing in municipal issues, owing to previous misunderstandings of a similar nature. This was said to be the reason for the city's failure to get bids for more than 60 per cent. of the $5,000,000 offered. The securities are all right, but some of the customary buyers refused to make bids, owing to a lack of confidence in the officials who were to make the awards. A representative of one large bond house, who went to Baltimore to submit his bid in person, considers that he was played off against other buyers in disposing of the last lot. "The city got a few dollars more for this issue by hawking them around after the bids had been opened, but it is a temporary advantage that will cost Baltimore dearly when she has another lot of bonds to put out," said this man.

⁂

Uplifting the Curb.

The street traders suspended business for five minutes yesterday to attend a revival service. They could not well have avoided being present, for the service was brought to the edge of the section roped off for their use by a male quartet and a revivalist who visited the financial district in a big automobile. After the brief musical service the evangelists moved further down the street to avoid the tumult.

⁂

No Interest in the Market.

The stock market seems to need frequent stimulants. Each spurt of activity lately has been followed immediately by a loss of interest and a return to general inactivity. Most of the stimulation has come in the form of good news, which has led speculators short of the market to cover their commitments and so furnish a little activity. On the whole, the market has displayed about as much energy as the men who are sitting out the hot Summer in the leather chairs of the brokers' offices.

⁂

Organizing Exchange Dealers.

Another meeting was held yesterday of bankers and brokers interested in foreign exchange for the purpose of forming an association. It is generally agreed that such an organization will be helpful only if all the brokers become members. One or two dealers willing to halve commissions could nullify any agreement among association members.

Jersey Bank Resources Increase.

TRENTON, N. J., July 18.—In the quarterly statement of Henry J. Ford, State Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, on banking concerns and trust companies in New Jersey, it is shown that the deposits of twenty-five savings banks have increased $6,266,937, as compared with the corresponding quarter last year. The report also shows increases of resources in the twenty-five State banks and ninety-six trust companies of New Jersey.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Day of Sluggish Trading, with Narrow and Irregular Price Movements on Curb.

Curb trading was sluggish in the extreme yesterday, and prices fluctuated within the narrowest margin. British-American Tobacco sold only 300 shares, the price rising from 31⅛ to 32, and Marconi did not report a single transaction. None of the high-priced coppers reported sales of as much as 1,000 shares. Braden sold off from 7⅛ to 7 on sales of 900. Greene-Cananea rose from 9⅝ to 10, reporting transactions of 400. Giroux, Mason Valley, and Nipissing closed even with the opening levels. No bond sales were reported.

The principal transactions yesterday, with opening, high, low, and last prices, were:

METAL MARKET REPORTS.

At the Metal Exchange yesterday copper was quiet but a shade firmer. Lead and spelter were unchanged. Tin was firmer, with sales of five tons of July at 43.50c.

The closing bid and asked prices were as follows:

Standard copper—	Thursday. Bid.	Asked.	Wednesday. Bid.	Asked.
July	17.00	17⅛	16⅞	17⅛

Tin	43½	43⅞	43.00	43.25

The following table of prices obtained yesterday on the Metal Exchange in London for spot and future deliveries of copper and pig tin. These final figures compare with Wednesday's close:

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN.

Trading Sluggish, but Prices Are Generally Well Maintained.

Trading in the principal out-of-town markets yesterday was sluggish, though prices were well maintained, as indicated in the special dispatches to THE TIMES.

Houston Oil preferred again reached a new high record price in Baltimore. The movement was due to the declaration of the first semi-annual dividend on the stock.

Boston mining specialties were strong yesterday in a quiet market, but Butte and Superior continued easy all day. Lake rose 2, to 37; Isle Royale, 1, to 36, and United States Smelting, ¾, to 45¾. The last named was quite active in the morning, some 2,500 shares changing hands. There was an easier tone in late dealings.

Trading on the Chicago Exchange was practically without feature, although International Harvester advanced 2¼ points before its reaction of 1½ points. Chicago Railways income 4s reflected some selling, and Pacific Gas gave further evidence of strength. There were moderate advances in Swift and National Biscuit shares. The Studebaker Corporation common and preferred were fairly active, the former showing a slight decline, while the latter held steady in price. Sears-Roebuck was active and advanced fractionally on reports of an increase of 20 per cent. in sales for the last fiscal year.

While the stock market in Philadelphia could hardly be called broad, a firm undercurrent was maintained, although advances were few and small in extent. The greatest interest was in Philadelphia Rapid Transit, which was the principal home issue to break through the inertia which held the market in check. In sympathy with the movement in Rapid Transit, Union Traction was strong and advanced fractionally to 51.

BOURSES OF EUROPE

Reaction on the London Exchange After a Cheerful Opening—Consols Lower.

By Marconi Transatlantic Wireless Telegraph to The New York Times.

LONDON, Friday, July 19.—The Times says in its City article to-day:

"A fair supply of money was available yesterday. The rate for day-to-day advances, after being 2½ to 2¾ per cent. in the early hours, eased later on, loans being offered at 2 per cent. at the close. A small amount was called by the India Council.

"In the discount market a moderate number of bills were offering. In some quarters rates were reported to be a shade easier, but most houses still quoted 3 1-16 per cent. for fine three months' paper. A few short bills were taken to the Bank of England.

"Interest in the stock markets was confined to a large extent to the home railway market, which, after a firm opening, became dull before the close owing to the announcement of a very disappointing dividend by the Great Eastern Company.

"Gilt-edged securities met with some support during the early hours, but later in the day a little stock came to the market, and prices eased.

"The American market was firm throughout, following the previous day's rise in Wall Street. There was also some buying of foreign railway stocks. The other markets were very inactive and the tone was inclined to be dull in consequence. Copper shares hardened slightly, while Hudson's Bay £1 shares, which were dealt in at 13⅜ early in the week relapsed to 12⅞.

"The market for home Government securities had a better appearance at the opening in the absence of any further selling, and consols changed hands at 74 15-16 for cash. In the late dealings the tone weakened, with the result that consols were finally 1 1-16 lower than on Wednesday, at 74⅝ and 74 11-16 for money and account respectively."

PARIS, July 18.—Prices were steady on the Bourse to-day.

Three per cent. rentes, 92f 25c for the account.

BERLIN, July 18.—Realizing weakened domestic securities on the Boerse to-day. American shares were stronger.

RECEIVER FOR TRACTION LINE

W. C. Gray Thus to Collect Judgment from Rochester-Elmira Co.

The Supreme Court has appointed William C. Gray temporary receiver of the Rochester, Corning & Elmira Company, which operates the railroad between Rochester and Elmira. The receivership is the result of a suit brought by Mr. Gray for a judgment of $34,620.

The traction company is a New York corporation with offices at 42 Broadway. Justice Giegerich fixed the receiver's bond at $10,000.

The traction company has a valuable franchise, and proposes to build a double track electric railway for the carriage of passengers and freight between Rochester and Elmira, with a branch from Dansville to Hornell. LITTLE BOARD CALLS STOCKS

New System Inaugurated with Exchange Opening at 9:30.

For the first time in recent years the system of "calling" stocks for trading was used yesterday when the Consolidated Stock Exchange opened for trading at 9:30 instead of 10 o'clock, the hour which has been the opening of the stock markets in this country from time immemorial. The space immediately in front of the Chairman's rostrum was roped off, and in this inclosure about 200 members gathered for the opening call. Only the most active stocks on the list, some seventeen issues, are included in the call. The Chairman banged his gavel, and announced Amalgamated Copper as the first stock on which the brokers might concentrate their attention. The first transaction was 50 shares at 82⅝, which was ¼ above the previous night's close on the Stock Exchange. Then came 50 shares at 82⅝, and 90 at 82¾. Down through the list the trading prices averaged about ¼ above the closing prices of Wednesday. The most active trading was in United States Steel, which reported transactions of more than 3,000 shares out of the total of 10,990 shares bought and sold on the call.

It took about twenty-two minutes to go through the list of seventeen stocks, and then, although it still lacked eight minutes before the opening of the Stock Exchange, trading began in the regular way at the posts, as if there was no such thing as a primary market on the Stock Exchange.

One of the purposes of the early opening is to give Consolidated Exchange houses a closer connection with the London market, but the heavy vote by which the 9:30 o'clock opening was adopted represented to a large extent the determination of the brokers on the "little board" to prove that they are capable of making a market independent of the course of prices on the Stock Exchange. The early "call" is now an established institution.

IRON MOUNTAIN DIVIDEND.

4 Per Cent. Declared for Current Year Ahead of New Financing.

Following the announcement of the intention of the St. Louis & Iron Mountain Road to sell $26,000,000 of bonds under its new refunding mortgage, Directors of that company voted yesterday to pay a dividend of 4 per cent. for the current year. The company paid nothing on its stock last year. In 1910 it paid 6 per cent. and in 1909 4 per cent.

The declaration of this dividend will mean an addition of $1,773,000 to the income of Missouri Pacific, which has a controlling interest in the Iron Mountain.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

The declaration of an initial dividend of 2 per cent. on the common stock of the Standard Milling Company follows the retirement of $250,000 of the debenture bonds of the Hecker-Jones-Jewell Milling Company and a deposit of 1 per cent. in the sinking fund of the Standard Company for the retirement of preferred stock.

The shareholders of the Irving National Bank have voted to change the name to the Irving National Bank, New York. This has to be formally passed upon by the Controller of the Currency.

John D. Barrett, Edward Cornell, James M. Gifford, Philip Lehman, Noah C. Rogers, and Frederick W. White have been elected Directors of the Columbia-Knickerbocker Trust Company.

Chester Dale and Arthur L. Chambers have been admitted to partnership in the Stock Exchange firm of W. C. Langley & Co.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Business on the Consolidated Stock Exchange in the first half hour, under the new plan of opening at 9:30 A. M. with a call of the leading stocks, reached a heavy total and it was the general opinion of those interested, that the innovation had started favorably. Trading in United States Steel common and Reading on the call was on a particularly broad scale. Many hundred shares of Steel sold as high as 70¼, which compared with a closing price of that stock of the night before of 70. The market undertone throughout the day was generally firm. The impetus of the active trading on the call was felt for some time after 10 o'clock, but gradually the volume of business lessened.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Sullivan Leasehold on Fifth Avenue Bought for Trade—48th Street Theatre Block Sale—Lexington Avenue Activity—West Side Transactions—Good Bronx Deal for Improvement.

Several good sales in various parts of the city yesterday showed a gradual return to a healthy and active real estate market. Lexington Avenue showed continued evidence of investment buying, and Fifth Avenue, in the retail small shop section north of Forty-second Street, furnished an important deal which will lead to the improvement of another plot with a high-class six-story loft. The property is that at 584 Fifth Avenue, on the west side, 50 feet north of Forty-seventh Street. It is now occupied by a four-story residence which for over twenty years was the home of the late Arthur T. Sullivan of the dry goods firm of Sullivan & Vail.

The property is a Columbia University leasehold and the Sullivan estate has an unexpired term of fifteen years on the plot. The building with the leasehold has been bought by Samuel H. Stone and Simson Wolf. It carries two renewal privileges of twenty-one years. It was the only single lot on the west side of Fifth Avenue from Forty-second to Forty-eighth Street available for a long-term lease, and with this single exception all of the Columbia leaseholds on Fifth Avenue have been converted into business uses.

The plot has a frontage of 27 feet by 100 deep. The new holders will tear down the old house at once and erect a six-story loft, and negotiations are practically concluded for the leasing of the entire new structure to a large millinery firm. The deal was closed by John N. Golding.

On the Forty-seventh corner adjoining the Sullivan house is a nine-story building lately erected and now owned by the Windsor Trust Company, and on the Forty-eighth Street corner is the new building nearly finished of Black, Starr & Frost.

48th Street Sale in Theatre Block.

J. B. English and J. C. Hough & Co. have sold for the Milbank estate to Edmund K. Jordan the three-story dwelling 154 West Forty-eighth Street on lot 18.9 by 100.5. This is one of the new theatre blocks in the city, the Brady Playhouse having been opened last season and two other theatres are nearing completion for opening in the Fall.

Demand for Lexington Ave. Plots.

The constantly growing demand for Lexington Avenue property by investors both small and large was shown yesterday in the sale of the northwest corner of Thirty-third Street and the southwest corner of Eighty-ninth Street.

The Thirty-third Street property, which consists of a five-story apartment house with stores, on a plot 26.8 by 100, was sold to an investor by the Carvo Realty Company. This corner was purchased by the Carvo Realty Company at auction last April, being sold by Joseph P. Day, and has been held at $100,000.

The property is diagonally opposite the old car barn block, bounded by Lexington and Fourth Avenues, Thirty-second and Thirty-third Streets, recently purchased by Samuel Untermyer. David Vogel was the broker in the transaction. Another deal is reported pending on the same block.

Further north on the avenue in the old Yorkville section, where there has been marked activity along the avenue and in the adjacent side streets, the group of buildings occupying a plot 100 by 92 at the southwest corner of Lexington Avenue and Eighty-ninth Street were reported sold. The property is known as 1,328 to 1,338 Lexington Avenue and 120 East Eighty-ninth Street, and consists of six dwellings on the avenue and a five-story flat on the street.

The buyers are said to be operators who will resell the property to builders for improvement with a high-class apartment house. Title to this property is now held by the Central Trust Company, as Trustee, which acquired it in 1910.

Onondaga Bought in at Foreclosure.

The Onondaga apartment house, a six-story structure on the south east corner of Riverside Drive and 152d Street, on plot 99.11 by 140, was sold in foreclosure proceedings yesterday by Joseph P. Day, and was bought in by the plaintiff, Joel Newman, for $260,833, being $21,374 less than the encumbrances. Thomas J. Brady, ex-Superintendent of Buildings, was the defendant. He bought the property last January, and the result of the sale shows that it was a losing investment.

Resale of Lyndon Arms.

Lyndon Arms, a six-story apartment house at 524 Riverside Drive, has been sold by the Croton Securities Company, of which Leslie R. Palmer is President, to an investor.

The property, which is located on a plot 75 by 86, near 125th Street, has figured in three deals during the past couple of months. Gurney & Terhune were the brokers in yesterday's transaction. The property has been held at about $250,000.

Frankfort Street Plot Resold.

The Citizens Investing Company, of which Dominick Abbate is President, has made a quick resale of the property at 27 and 29 Frankfort Street, taken in trade the preceding day from John S. Welcher, who bought the new loft at 237 and 239 Lafayette Street. The Frankfort Street plot, 59 by 102 feet, has been sold to an investor by William H. Whiting & Co. The seller in the deal was represented by E. H. Ludlow & Co.

Investors Buying Tenements.

The old four-story front and rear tenements at 291 East Seventh Street, on a lot 20 by 97.6, have been sold by George R. Lockwood. It is understood that the buyer, who is a client of George R. Read & Co., and an investor, will improve the site.

Bernard J. Foss has sold to a client for Andrew Beer, 439 West Thirty-seventh Street, a five-story tenement on a lot 25 by 98.99. The buyer is an investor.

Builder Buys Heights Plot.

A builder has purchased for improvement from Jacob Ashlag the plot, 50 by 100, on the north side of 179th Street, 100 feet east of St. Nicholas Avenue. Duff & Brown were the brokers in the sale.

Bronx Borough.

Harry B. Davis has sold five and two-thirds lots on the southwest corner of Seneca Avenue and Hunts Point Road to George G. Grant, who will improve the property at once with three apartment houses. The property was recently acquired by Mr. Davis from Mary E. Hastings in exchange for the Dardanelles apartment, at 460 West 147th Street. The brokers in the deal were M. Cohn & Co.

Kurz & Uren have sold for a Mrs. Van Kirk the northeast corner of Verio Avenue and 236th Street, Woodlawn Heights, a plot of seven lots.

S. Rosen has sold for the Bethel Construction Company 1,465 to 1,469 Fulton Avenue, two five-story apartments, 50 by 100 each.

Brooklyn.

Tutino & Cerny have sold for John H. Schiernbeck to a client, for investment, the northwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-ninth Street, a four-story and cellar brick store property, on a plot 20.6 by 100.

Long Island.

The David P. Leahy Realty Company has sold on its South Ozone Park development to Henry Teltzer a seven-room house in Boss Avenue, for $3,850; to Cornell Zolly, a similar house adjoining for the same price; to Frederick Lankenau, a six-room house in Martin Avenue for $3,300; to Philip Brooks, a cottage in Brinkmeyer Avenue for $3,200; to Minnie Lewis, a six-room house in Boss Avenue for $3,400; to Edwin Harley, a five-room cottage in Ashby Avenue, 100 feet north of Horan Avenue, for $2,950, and to George Garrell, a seven-room house in Presberger Avenue, 300 feet from the Rockaway Road.

The Somerville Realty Company has sold at Arverne twenty lots on the east side of Bernam Avenue, between Morris and Almeda Avenues, to the Felix Realty Company; a plot 40 by 100 on the east side of Clarence Avenue, north of Amstel Boulevard, to L. E. Bovingdon, and a plot 40 by 100 on the west side of Clarence Avenue, south of Amstel Boulevard, to M. Spirantella.

MORTGAGE LOANS.

Commercial Leases.

The Cross & Brown Company has leased space in the new twenty-story United States Rubber Company's building, Broadway and Fifty-eighth Street, to George D. Sproul, Incorporated; Edward F. Korbel, Martin Beickert, and Ralph Behrmann. The same firm has leased space in the new Meyrowitz Building, at 235 and 237 Fifth Avenue, to Max Braunstein.

Webster B. Mabie & Co., agents for 245 to 251 Seventh Avenue, northeast corner of Twenty-fourth Street, have leased the second and third lofts to the Economist Manufacturing Company, (Salo J. Jackson and Elias T. Silverstein,) manufacturers of cloaks and suits.

Russell Sage Foundation Home.

Plans have been filed for the construction of the Russell Sage Foundation office building on the southwest corner of Lexington Avenue and Twenty-second Street. It will have a frontage of 65.6 feet on the avenue and 90 feet on the street, with an extension. The façade will be of marble, and it will be fireproof. It is located on the same block with the Princeton Club. Grosvenor Atterbury, the architect, has estimated the cost at $350,000.

123d Street Apartment.

Plans have been filed for a six-story apartment house, with stores, on the south side of 123d Street, 100 feet west of Amsterdam Avenue. It will have a frontage of 100 feet and a depth of 87.11 feet and have accommodations for forty-seven families. The 114th Street and Seventh Avenue Construction Company, of which Max Weinstein is President, is the owner. Charles B. Meyers is the architect, and has estimated the cost at $125,000.

19th Street Building Loan.

The City Mortgage Company has made a building loan of $150,000 to the Wyanoke Realty Company on the new loft being erected on the north side of Nineteenth Street, 80 feet west of Seventh Avenue, on a plot 75 by 92 feet.

Lightning Has Struck Staten Island

MANHATTAN
BRIDGE
STATEN ISLAND
LITTLE FARMS
1000 PER ACRES
ALL IN NEW YORK CITY

LIGHTNING has certainly struck, and struck hard. Gee whiz!! but we were surprised when the City and Transportation Companies adopted a route to Staten Island to be built within the next few years, and connected with Annadale—the home of Little Farms—by a run of fifteen minutes. We have never promised purchasers, and hardly hoped for, a subway to Staten Island, and here is one dropped in our lap like a bolt from the blue sky, and, what is even more important to you, our prices were all based on present transportation facilities. But the unexpected has happened—the impossible has taken place, subways are assured to Staten Island while our prices remain the same.

Think of it—an acre in New York City for $1,000—$10 monthly—on transportation—only fifteen minutes from the subway's entrance. If this offer was made in Chicago, St. Louis or San Francisco, we would be mobbed with buyers, but there are so many flat-foolish and lobster-loving people in New York, that this advertisement won't probably raise a ripple. But, what do we care—the longer we wait, the more we get—and the more you, or some one else, pays. To illustrate: For several years we tried to sell you (the public) 97 lots for $9,700—$100 per lot—IN VAIN; we finally took the property off the market and three years later sold it for Ninety-seven thousand dollars, all cash. You can have the buyer's name if you want it. We are in the business to sell real estate. We want to give you the chance in preference to some out-of-towner. Won't you take it?

IF AN ACRE IS BEYOND YOUR MEANS, $120 TO $190 BUYS A BUNGALOW PLOT, AND $590 BUYS A LITTLE FARM, BEAUTIFULLY IMPROVED.

RICHMOND LISTENS FOR SUBWAY NOISE

From The World, June 10.

Staten Island operators bought several large acreage tracts yesterday in sections quickly accessible to the projected Subway.

Now that the Public Service Commission has adopted the proposed Brooklyn and Staten Island routes, a two-track Subway is assured from a point in Brooklyn under Fourth Avenue near Sixty-fifth Street, where a connection can be made with the Fourth Avenue route as already legalized, thence under Sixty-seventh Street, Owl's Head Park and the Narrows to a point near Arrietta Street, in Richmond. There it will part in two branches to the north and the south shores of Staten Island.

Land has held at lower prices on Staten Island than in any other part of the Greater City, and it is believed that a Subway will start a great movement.

(Arrietta Street is about 15 minutes from our Acre Plots at Annadale.)

TAXING OURSELVES RICH MAKES HIGH PRICES HERE

Cost of Living Goes Up by the Elevator, While Wages and Salaries Take the Stairs—The Tax Burdened Farmer.

By J. J. ROONEY.

"What is the matter with the cost of living?" What has caused the prevailing high prices?

This is the prime question of the day—domestic, economic, political. The statement that other peoples, Europe, Asia, or Africa, are suffering in the same way does not help the inquiry. Moreover, the figures show beyond dispute that the people of the United States are the chief victims. They lead the world by a long distance in this bad supremacy. Then, too, other great countries show actual declines in the ten-year period in prices of certain important commodities, such as steel and iron, food products, clothing, and fuel.

Scarcity of commercial commodity is reflected in a high price; abundance in a low price. The object of industry and invention, improvement in transportation, and the processes of production and distribution is to produce abundance and a constantly falling price. In other words, the true object of trade is the obtaining of large profits and wages through large production and distribution. The obtaining of large profits through restriction of production and maintaining scarcity of products at a high price is an uneconomic and false object of trade. Restricting supply of a commodity and controlling the price at an artificial level is reflected, not alone in the price of the article itself, but along the line of many other commodities, thus tending to raise the general price level.

When this process is applied to the chief raw materials of industry and manufacture the effect is very striking. No cause is more directly responsible for the abnormal prices in the United States than this. At the very root of production the artificial lifting process is applied. The effects become, in their turn, causes of higher costs of production and higher prices in other industries depending on the partly finished products as their raw material or as tools of production or distribution.

It is conservatively estimated that a cotton or a woolen mill in the United States costs from 30 to 40 per cent. more to build and equip than in competing countries. The machinery, the building materials, everything that goes into the mill has been artificially advanced in cost of production and price. If of domestic origin, an advance equal to the tariff has passed into the price; if of foreign origin, a duty of 45 per cent. in the case of machinery is a part of tax laid upon it. Much of the woolen machinery is imported.

In the case of wool, if imported, duties averaging over 60 per cent. are levied; if domestic, the price is raised somewhere approaching the foreign price, plus the duty and cost of importation.

In turn, all these taxes pass along into the price, and a profit is taken by each handler of the article upon the tariff tax itself. The dye stuffs that go into the cloth are likewise taxed and artificially raised in price, whether domestic or foreign.

Coal, lumber, ores, fibres of nearly every description, at the base of production, are treated in like manner. Food products of every description are taxed, and food is the raw material of man-energy.

The farmer works his field with a tariff taxed plow, a taxed spade, reaps with a taxed reaper, binds with a taxed binder, uses taxed wagon material, taxed nails, tools, lives in a taxed house, lumber, tin, &c., full of taxed household articles, and when he ships his products he must ship them over a railroad the materials of which, steel and iron, &c., have been artificially raised, by reason of tariff taxes, by at least 40 per cent. over and above the cost of railroads used by his competitors in other parts of the world.

Thus, at the root of production everywhere in the United States is a cost-raising process. If this process stopped with each article itself the general result would not be so striking. But it requires little knowledge to see that all who come within the effect of the process must recoup, if possible, from others the extra tax-made prices. Thus the effect is transferred along the line of production and distribution.

Wages and salaries limp far in the rear, in such advances, both in amount and point of time. "Prices go up by the elevator; wages by the stairs," is a fair description of the process.

These tariff taxes on the raw materials of industry are in turn made use of as an excuse of corresponding "compensatory" taxes on the finished products of manufacture, of course over and above the "protective" taxes laid for the artificial raising of the price of the finished article.

That this artificial raising of the cost of production of our products, especially manufactures, is at the base of our huge price structure is clearly shown in many ways.

The process itself does enormous harm to our ability to export into the world's markets, shuts up many of our manufactures to the United States markets alone, thereby narrows production, produces artificial scarcity, and special domestic price.

In lines where our natural advantages of production are great, exportation is possible, even on a large scale. But there are two prices: a domestic and an export price. These prices differ by from 25 to 50 per cent. in favor of the export list. Literally, thousands of instances of this situation could be cited. Much of such exports become the material of further manufacture for foreign producers, who are thus enabled to use our own materials against us in competition in the world's neutral markets.

So striking has been this effect that many leading lines of American manufacture have actually been transferred to Canada and to Europe to obtain the benefits of cheaper world's materials.

No other great manufacturing and producing country in the world thus taxes production, except food products, at its source.

The plan is part of the National method we have adopted of taxing ourselves rich.

THE CIVIL SERVICE.

City.

The Street Cleaning Department recently notified the Municipal Civil Service Commission of the transfer of Nick Di Muzzio from sweeper in Manhattan Borough to sweeper in Brooklyn. The Labor Clerk reported that this action was taken without the authorization of the commission; that there is a preferred list in existence for Brooklyn, and that he directed that certification of Di Muzzio's name on the Brooklyn pay roll be withheld. The commission has approved the Labor Clerk's action.

The rating of L. H. Starke in the mental examination for promotion to third-grade Inspector of Electrical Conductors, Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, has been raised from 70 to 75 per cent.

Mr. Field has notified the commission that at the recent examination for court attendant Candidates 314 and 324 were disqualified for speaking to each other.

The following supplemental reports of Mr. Field have been filed by order of the commission: Experience statements of candidates on list of Inspector of Masonry; of those on list of examining physician; those on list of school farm attendant, and those on list of Inspector, Board of Water Supply. The commission has ordered him to continue his investigation of the statements as to experience made by Brino T. Feldman, candidate for Inspector of regulating, grading, and paving. He has been instructed also to continue his investigations in the case of Arthur Freedman, candidate for junior mechanical draughtsman.

The commission has asked the Corporation Counsel for an opinion on two recent decisions against it by the Supreme Court, First Department, Appellate Division. One decision is to the effect that in the examination for Inspector, Fire Prevention Bureau, the commission has not the right to set the age limit. The other decision is that the Board of Elections is under the control not of the Municipal Civil Service but of the State Civil Service. In each case there were three Judges against and two Judges for the Municipal Civil Service Commission's contention. It is said that if the Fire Prevention decision holds the examination for Inspector may have to be abandoned.

GIRL'S SLAYER DIES AS FATHER ADVISED

Nathan Swartz Turns on Gas in East Side Tenement, with Police Close on His Trail.

"I'M INSANE," HE WROTE

Farewell Letters to Members of His Family Tell of Belated Regret for Killing Julia Connors.

In a gas-filled room in a tenement on the east side the police found yesterday the body of Nathan Swartz, slayer of twelve-year-old Julia Connors, who was found dying of forty knife wounds in a vacant lot at 172d Street, Fulton and Third Avenues, the Bronx, on Sunday morning, July 7. The young man, for whom there has been a search in all parts of the country, had taken his father's advice—to end his life—but only when the detectives who had been hunting him had almost caught up with him, and he believed that there was no longer a chance of escape.

For more than a week, however, Nathan Swartz had lived and walked about in the neighborhood where he had formerly lived, and beyond a change in name he had taken no care to conceal his movements.

On Monday afternoon, just a day after the body of little Julia Connors was found, Swartz came to the little flat of Max Kaplan, on the fourth floor of the crowded six-story tenement at 219 Chrystie Street, in search of a room. He had inquired for lodging of a woman living on another floor and had been sent by her to the Kaplan flat. He explained to Mrs. Bessie Kaplan that he was a shirtwaist cutter out of work. He said he expected either to get employment or to go abroad.

He agreed to take the room for $1.50 a week. The young man paid $1, the bill which his father had given him on the day before, when he had met old Samuel Swartz at Houston Street and the Bowery and had confessed to him that he was the slayer of Julia Connors. It was at that meeting that his father told him to commit suicide.

Nathan Swartz told the Kaplans that he was Max Hirschkowitz, and he added that he had once been a waiter. He got a small room in the flat next to that occupied by the two small Kaplan children. Swartz is described as having been morose and not talkative. Every morning he left the house, apparently in search of work, and he did not return until nightfall. Where he spent the time without being captured with a cityful of detectives on his trail is a question which even the police would like answered.

Swartz, the police know, met his father, not only on Sunday, but on the following Monday and Tuesday. It was at that last meeting, the police believe, that the father told his son that he was under suspicion and that the police were looking for him. After Tuesday he never met his father again, for after that day there was never a member of the Swartz family free from the constant surveillance of the detectives. Each time the father met his son he gave him a small sum of money, and it was this money that kept the boy going. He never paid the Kaplans any more rent, but he told them that he expected work soon, and they, following the custom of the poor, kept their roomer, in the hope that he would pay later, and advised him to cheer up.

But Kaplan became dissatisfied, and on Wednesday he told Swartz that he would either have to pay his room rent or get out. He pointed out to him that the family was poor and could not bear the additional expense of supporting an able-bodied young man, even though sympathy urged them to do so.

Swartz assured them that he would be able to get some money yesterday. The Chrystie Street lodger said that he had given up his intention of going abroad and that he intended to get work soon, and money he was sure to have on Thursday, he said.

"I have only 10 cents," he told Kaplan, "but I expect to have some more soon."

No Answer to Landlord's Knock.

Swartz went away from the flat in the morning. He returned about 10 o'clock on Wednesday night. Mrs. Sadie Fiskell, who lived on the floor below, saw the young man go to his room. He looked pale and very dejected. In his hand he had a paper telling of the finding of a body in the river off Tenth Street, Hoboken, and giving the account of his relatives' unsuccessful trip to identify it as that of Nathan Swartz. The slayer went to his room.

Kaplan had called his roomer every morning at 6 o'clock. He knocked on his door yesterday morning, but there was no response.

"Time to get up," he called, but there was no reply, even after he had pounded on the door. Then Kaplan detected the odor of gas. He summoned Samuel Haffat, the janitor. They called Policeman Magunsin of the Fifth Street Police Station, broke open the door and found the roomer dead.

Swartz was in bed, unclothed. Fastened to his mouth by a string bound around his head was one end of a gas tube. It was fast between his clenched teeth. The other end was fastened over a gas burner in the centre of the room. The cracks of the doors and windows had been stuffed with papers and cotton. When Dr. Mytinger of Gouverneur Hospital arrived he said that the man had been dead several hours.

"Max Hirschkowitz," a shirtwaist maker out of work, was dead, and it was so reported. It was not until newspaper men who had been interested in the Julia Connors case examined the effects of the dead man that it began to dawn on the authorities that the dead man might be the much-sought-for Bronx slayer. Across a chair in the small room lay the clothes which the murderer wore when he killed the girl in the vacant flat. Beside them was the black derby hat that his brother Jacob had given him when he visited him in East Tenth Street two days after the murder.

Police Headquarters was notified, and within an hour Detectives McKenna and Brenner arrived with fourteen-year-old Philip Swartz, a brother of Nathan. The boy did not want to look at the body and placed his hands over his eyes when he entered the room.

"It's not Nathan," he said, after taking a frightened look at the body on the bed.

Detective McKenna was not satisfied and he made the boy take a closer look. This time he said he was sure it was his brother. He began to cry. It was shortly after ten o'clock when Samuel Swartz, the father of Nathan, and Henry Alexander, Nathan's brother-in-law, arrived. The old man showed much emotion as he entered the little room, but he looked at the body without faltering.

"Yes, that's my son," he said. "That's my boy."

Capt. Price, who has had charge of the case, was not satisfied, so he sent for Detectives Brockman and Reilly, who arrested Swartz when he was charged with having attacked a fourteen-year-old girl in a dentist's office in Harlem. They identified the body as that of Swartz.

The Suicide's Farewell Letters.

Young Swartz died surrounded by newspapers which contained accounts of the Bronx murder and detailed the efforts the police were making to arrest him. He left behind many written messages, most of them written on the margins of the very papers containing accounts of the crime. On the wall over his bed he had scribbled:

> I owe this lady 60 cents for three days' board.

Under an ash tray was a clipping of the pathetic note his mother had written urging him to come forward and prove his innocence. On an envelope he had written this note on Wednesday:

> This is only to my dear mother, who I am always homesick for and the same to the rest, and Pa, whose word I am now taking by doing this, which I figure is the easiest death in my estimation. I want to say that if I will appear to be revived in order to be executed, why, I'll take that medicine just the same. My last job was at the Pocketbook Manufacturing Company, at 74 Grand Street. He owes me for two days. Please secure pay and give it to mother, for she is very poor. As for the truth, my older brother has lots of money and doesn't want to settle the old folks on a farm for the simple life.
>
> I am sorry to cause the trouble to my neighbors, but all he'll have to do is to call a cop. Tell mother again that I am really guilty and she shall not cry her eyes out. I know she thinks I am innocent. I am sorry I done it, but I get crazy, as I often do, and you can't blame me nor any one.

On a soiled collar the suicide had written:

> I am guilty and I am insane. It was caused by the beautiful make-up of women.

On the margins of the newspapers he had scribbled farewell messages to members of his family.

> I felt sorry just two minutes after I done it. So don't cry for me, because I am probably with Sylvia by now.

Sylvia was his sister, who died about two months ago. Other notes read:

> Lillie (his sister,) I never knew you were to call that Saturday night. You certainly got fine friends. Like Miss —— you were the one that advertised my record and here I am. Well, don't be sorry for me, for I like you like a stranger and not a sister.
>
> To Mary—I am very sorry I was tempted to do it. Tell mother I should have died two years ago as let her forget as that is two years already.
>
> Morris—Sorry I disgraced you at your place of work.
>
> Dearest Phil—I hope you get a job and succeed although——and——(naming certain persons) do not care a rap for you.
>
> I worked at 61 Cortlandt Street, the first job, the second at 74 Grand Street. All out of money and since I read of mother and father not being able to rest, I thought I would do this and not disgrace the name. I never made good on any job anyway. I was born with a weak will and power only for love.

Beside the body was a short-bladed, pointed, kitchen knife, evidently new, but which may have been the one he used to kill Julia Connors.

Swartz, the detectives believe, committed suicide only when he was sure the police were close upon his trail. They knew he was hiding on the east side, for they had not only the testimony of his father that he met his son several times there, but on Thursday a young girl met the missing man at Eighteenth Street and Fourth Avenue. When Swartz fled after committing his first offense he went to board at 7 St. Mark's Place. The detectives went there searching for him and found that the woman whom he formerly lived with had moved to 217 Chrystie Street, and they went there on Wednesday searching for him, not knowing that Swartz was then living next door. They believe that he heard of their visit, and that this made him take his life.

Dr. Otto Schultze, Coroner's physician, performed an autopsy on the body of Swartz at the Morgue. Dr. Norris of the psychopathic ward at Bellevue was interested in the fact that many gray hairs were found on the youth's head. Although the burial will be at the expense of the Hebrews' Free Burial Association, one of the last expressed wishes of the murderer will be respected, and the body will be taken to the Ocean Grove Cemetery on Staten Island, where his sister is buried.

EDISON DIDN'T TESTIFY.

Attempt to Show That His Former Manager Had Outside Interests.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., July 18.—Thomas A. Edison was not able to appear at the home of Emile Schultze, referee, to-day and give testimony in the suit of James H. White and John R. Schermerhorn against Percival L. Waters, but testimony given by his advertising manager, Leonard C. McChesney, threw light on the methods of William E. Gilmore when he was President of the Edison companies. Another day will be set for the appearance of Mr. Edison.

Mr. McChesney testified that Gilmore was President of the Essex Press, a Newark printing concern, in 1908. It had a contract with the Edison companies to do their printing at a price based on the cost of the work plus a margin of 15 per cent. profit. That contract was in force until April 1, 1908, when it was abrogated in favor of a new instrument, making the margin 33 1-3 per cent. This contract was abrogated simultaneously with the withdrawal of Gilmore from the Edison concerns. Mr. McChesney refused to say whether or not he had ever informed Mr. Edison of the existence of the contracts, but he said they were not signed by Gilmore, but by the Vice President of the Edison companies, William Pelzer.

Affidavits submitted by Selden Bacon, attorney for White and Schermerhorn, implied that Mr. Edison knew nothing about the Essex Press until a few days before Gilmore resigned.

The original contract was for one year, but the contract under which the profits were to be 33 1-3 per cent. was for three years. Mr. McChesney testified that the gross business of the Essex Press for the three months in which the more favorable contract was in force amounted to $30,000. The inquiry into the business of the Essex Press was made with a view of impeaching testimony previously given by Gilmore in the original trial of the same suit. He had said on the stand that he never gave his consent to a partnership between Schermerhorn, White, Waters, and himself, and never was interested in any other business while at the head of the Edison plants.

BROKER KILLED IN AUTO.

R. A. Smith Suffers Broken Neck When Car Hits Obstruction.

TORONTO, July 18.—Robert A. Smith of the banking and brokerage firm of Osler & Hammond, and a former President of the Toronto Stock Exchange, was killed shortly before midnight in an automobile accident at Richmond Hill, 15 miles north of Toronto. Lorne Campbell, another broker, was fatally injured, and Victor H. Ross, financial editor of The Toronto Globe, suffered a broken leg.

The accident occurred while the party was on the way back to Toronto from the North York Conservative picnic, held at Jackson Point yesterday. Some road repairs were being made at Richmond Hill and the chauffeur turned out, warned by a red light. Apparently the car struck a pile of soft earth, for it stopped with a jerk and the passengers were thrown out, although the car remained upright. Mr. Smith was occupying the front seat with the chauffeur. His neck was broken in the fall.

BIG ENGINE DRIVERS SPEAK FOR INCREASE

Tell Arbitration Board That Heavier Trains Make More Work for Them.

GET $100 TO $170 A MONTH

Engineers Trying to Show That Weight of Freight Trains Has Been Increased Since Wage Adjustment.

Engineers who pull freight trains under varying conditions, with low or heavy grades, and one who pilots a slow passenger train described their work, hours of duty, and wages yesterday to the Arbitration Board which is to decide whether the fifty-two railroads in the Eastern district shall grant increases of pay estimated at 18 per cent. The purpose of the testimony, which was brought out by Warren S. Stone, Grand Chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, was chiefly to show that the tonnage pulled had increased considerably since there had been an increase of wages, which is one of the principal grounds on which an advance is asked.

The introduction of larger engines, some using superheated steam, was emphasized, as was the fact that in some cases the number of cars was limited only by the fact that more could not be contained within one block of the signal system.

All the men told of the time they put in before the beginning of a trip, and at its conclusion, in inspecting the engine and getting everything ready for the run. For this they get no additional pay, except in some cases when they are already entitled to overtime for the hours actually spent on the run. Several of them dwelt on the time it took them to get from where they lived to the roundhouse or storage tracks.

R. E. Reed said he was a "spare engineer" on the New Haven and worked on any of six divisions. He has to carry six time tables and be familiar with them. On the longest run, 140 miles, he said, there were 150 signals to be observed. One of the things he mentioned as taking time at the end of a trip was signing the "law book." It developed that this is a record kept by the railroad in order to keep within the new law which prohibits the working of train crews more than sixteen hours continuously.

Mr. Reed said his earnings varied from $30 a month to $170, according to how much "spare" work there was. The rate was $4.65 for a hundred miles. Sometimes he worked several days in place of regular engineers.

"I've had seventy-five or eighty jobs in a year," he said. "If I had one for a week I'd shake hands with myself."

W. M. Duncan, of counsel for the railroads, brought out that on the New Haven the men were paid for overtime on a double basis; that is, they were paid for the extra time and also for the extra miles they made. For running 140 miles in twelve hours, Mr. Reed said, he would get $7.43.

F. A. Hallet has a local freight run on the Boston & Maine, twenty-four miles in length. It takes him about 15½ hours to make the round trip. He said he had "no rights," meaning that he had to wait for any other train that came along. The work of loading and unloading at the different stations and keeping out of the way of first and second class trains, he said, was what consumed the time. He said he always got back the same day because, if it took him twelve hours to finish the trip out, it was apparent that he could not get back within the statutory sixteen hours and the company brought him in on a passenger train, sending another crew to take charge of his freight. He gets $28.66 a week for four days' work.

George E. Hanley was called as one of the men who handles a great tonnage under the present system. With a Mikado engine he handles 4,600 tons in about sixty cars. He makes his run of 122 miles in fourteen hours. The engine he formerly had, he said, pulled only 3,600 tons, so that his work had been increased. He was away from home two days on a trip and had to pay his own expenses. On some trips he was away five or six days. He makes about $1,200 a year.

J. W. Smith runs from Cumberland to Grafton, West Va., on the Baltimore & Ohio, and has to have the aid of two extra engines in hauling 1,275 tons up into the mountains. He said there had been several runaways on the down grade, in one of which five men were killed. His pay averages $118 a month.

William H. Uhr hauls freight west from Syracuse on the New York Central and averages $150 a month.

F. I. Singleton works on the Newark division of the B. & O., his labors consisting partly of distributing empty coal cars to the mines, which takes much time. He said the tonnage had increased largely in the last two years and that he could not make as much now as formerly, owing to slackness of business, which prevented all the men being worked as many days a month. He said, with the long trains he now has, more work and skill are required in handling the air brakes. In the last four months he had averaged $121.

Other witnesses, whose stories varied little from these, were L. J. Carr of the Boston & Maine; Arthur Force of the New York Central, who said he did much more work than formerly for the same pay, and Robert F. Jackson of the Pennsylvania, who said the high grades between Pitcairn and Altoona made a great deal of work and subjected the men to being "called on the carpet" frequently.

Grand Chief Stone said he would put some of the men who drive electric engines on the stand to-day, when the hearing will be resumed.

NEGROES FELL A POLICEMAN.

Beat Him with His Own Club—He Shoots One.

The reports of several revolver shots started several policemen hurrying from near-by streets to Ninety-eighth Street and Third Avenue about 11 o'clock last night. They found a crowd of about a dozen negroes kicking and striking at Policeman August Schupp of the East 104th Street Station, who lay on the ground, his revolver in his hand. His head was cut, his uniform was torn, and one negro wielded the policeman's club, striking with it at his head.

The rescuers charged into the crowd and belabored the negroes with their nightsticks. All of them ran, but the policemen captured one man and found another lying groaning on the sidewalk. He was shot through the neck. They called Dr. Korn from the reception hospital, and he took seven stitches in Schupp's scalp. He took the wounded negro to the hospital, saying his condition was serious.

Schupp said that he had noticed the crowd while walking down the avenue. He saw that they were drinking beer from cans and were insulting women and pushing men who passed from the sidewalk. Schupp walked up and ordered them to move on. Instead they closed about him. He swung out with his nightstick and knocked one of the negroes down. Instantly the crowd set on him and knocked him to the sidewalk. They wrenched his club away from him and the negro he had struck aimed a blow at his head. The end of the club struck the sidewalk as another part of it hit the policeman's head so that the force of the blow was broken somewhat. Otherwise, Dr. Korn said, Schupp's skull would have been fractured.

Every man in the crowd kicked at the fallen policeman, and realizing that they mean apparently to kick him to death, Schupp drew his revolver and fired a shot. Instantly there sounded other shots, which Schupp says the negroes fired. He was certain that it was a bullet from one of their revolvers and not from his own which struck the negro in the neck.

That youth said he was Benjamin Christian, 17 years old, of 1,700 Third Avenue. The prisoner proved to be the same man Schupp had hit and who struck the policeman with Schupp's own club. He said he was George Barnwell of 152 East Ninety-eighth Street. He was locked up, charged with assault. Schupp was relieved from duty and was taken home, though Dr. Korn urged him to go to the hospital.

SUFFRAGIST ADDS VICTIMS.

Miss Wingate of Bad Checks Forgets Board and Wages.

Special to The New York Times.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 18.—The police have been asked to help find Miss Geraldine Wingate, 23 years old, a suffragette, who is or was editor of The Historical Suffragette, a magazine published by the Suffrage Literary Society at 506 Monolith Building, New York. She left the Hotel Pittsburgh here with a three weeks' board bill unpaid. A stenographer, too, hasn't been paid for two weeks. On Sunday night Miss Wingate told the stenographer, Miss Amy Hickman of this city, to take a vacation. Since that night all trace of the woman has been lost. She became quite well known among Summer people during her sojourn here, and she had arranged to address a meeting on suffrage in Library Hall next Monday night.

Miss Wingate was haled before Magistrate Borden last Saturday because she had not paid her board bill, but the Magistrate dismissed her until Tuesday on her promise to return at that time with funds to pay her bills. When the police searched the girl's effects at the hotel they discovered, among other things, the manuscript of a suffrage play.

The whereabouts of Miss Geraldine Wingate is a matter of interest to various persons in this city also. On June 14 a brand-new suffrage society from Chicago gave an entertainment at Carnegie Lyceum here, with Miss Wingate as Chairman and General Manager. Shortly thereafter Miss Wingate, the society, and every one connected with it apparently dropped out of sight, but there remained as souvenirs various bad checks which had been given for services rendered.

Eugene Sweetland, manager of Carnegie Lyceum, received back one bad check for $75 for the rent of the hall. Mearson & Silver, printers and engravers, in the Monolith Building, in which Miss Wingate had had an office, held a check for $200 which they said they had cashed for Miss Wingate in order to enable her to pay them a bill of $50 for work done. The check was made out to the Historical Suffrage Society, signed by Alice F. Lane, Treasurer of the organization, and indorsed by Miss Wingate.

SHIP STRIKE ORATORS ASSAIL GOVERNMENT

Socialists and Labor Leaders Harangue a Big Meeting in Union Square.

ABOUT 1,400 IN A PARADE

While the Band Plays "Steamboat Bill"—Police Ready for Trouble, Which Did Not Come.

About 1,400 striking longshoremen, seamen, marine firemen, and oilers assembled at 5 o'clock last evening in Union Square, and for more than two hours stood with unbroken ranks in the drizzling rain listening to fiery and revolutionary harangues by labor leaders and Socialist orators. The demonstration followed a parade by the strikers and attracted a crowd of more than 4,000 persons, who cheered the speakers to the echo.

All of the orators paid their respects to J. Pierpont Morgan as the head of the shipping trust, and several of them denounced the United States Government as "more tyrannical to the working class than Russia, Spain, or Italy." The reason for the bitter attacks on the Federal Government was explained on the ground that the "blue jackets of the American Navy had been compelled to act as scabs and strikebreakers" on the Panama Steamship Line, having been assigned to supplant the striking firemen and oilers.

Jacob Frost, a Socialist worker, presided at the meeting and aroused enthusiasm with the announcement that the steamship Havana had arrived from Cuba during the afternoon with two of the strikebreakers who had shipped as firemen dead on board.

"They are the victims of the frightful heat which all of you men have experienced in the stokeholes," he shouted, "but more especially are they the victims of the rapacity of the steamship companies which are willingly to send out ships insufficiently manned with inexperienced men. The most that is asked of a regular fireman is four hours' work at a time, but these men were compelled to work six-hour tricks. The Havana has made her trip to and from Cuba, but the cost of the achievement has been two human lives."

M. H. Woolman, Secretary of the Transport Workers' Federation of America, told the strikers that they were men without a country, and that the American Government stood for the rule of Morgan and the oppression of the working class. E. S. Edgerton, a Socialist agitator, informed the crowd that it was false patriotism to swear allegiance to a Government which stands only for a semblance of liberty and equality. He was followed by James Vidal, National Secretary of the Transport Workers' Federation, who spoke in the same vein. Joseph L. Kaufmann, a Socialist, shouted that he scorned a Government which gave the weight of its assistance to the strong against the weak, and Harry Canter, an Independent Workers of the World organizer, denounced the police of this city for the brutality which he alleged had been displayed toward peaceful pickets of the union along the water front.

The parade which preceded the mass meeting started promptly at 3:30 o'clock from in front of the headquarters of the Transport Workers' Federation at 229 West Street. A band led the procession and blared forth the appropriate air of "Steamboat Bill" as the marine strikers wended their way through West Street. The officers of the Transport Workers' Federation and of the Marine Firemen, Oilers, and Water Tenders' Union rode in a large truck at the front of the parade. On either side of the truck were displayed streamers bearing the exhortation, "Don't Be Scabs, Longshoremen."

From the offices of the Clyde Line pier H. H. Hammond, Vice President and General Manager of the company, who is also the Chairman of the American Steamship Association, viewed the procession. At his side stood Carl J. Jungen, the general manager of the Morgan Line. The marchers carried banners bearing such inscriptions as "Passengers, Remember the Titanic" and "Ships Undermanned Are Unsafe."

Police Inspector Daniel Daley was in charge of the police arrangements, assisted by Capt. Reiss of the Charles Street Station and Capt. Rohrig of the Leonard Street Station. About 100 policemen lined the route along West Street. When the parade reached Eleventh Street it was feared that there might be trouble owing to the fact that the headquarters of the International Longshoremen's Association, which is at odds with the Transport Workers' Federation, is situated there. The former organization is composed of English-speaking longshoremen who are not on the best of terms with the Spaniards who compose the federation. Both unions are on strike, but they are not working together in any way. No trouble occurred, however.

The parade turned into Seventeenth Street and marched west to Broadway to Union Square. Throughout Seventeenth Street the strikers received a continuous ovation from the girls employed in the various garment manufacturing lofts on either side of the street.

TAKES PRISONER SWIMMING.

Life Guard Captures Policeman Who Struck His Wife on the Beach.

A row between a man and a woman on the beach at the Municipal Bath at Coney Island brought together a great crowd of swimmers and persons who had been sitting on the sand yesterday afternoon. The man struck at the woman several times, once breaking her glasses, and two little boys clinging to the woman's skirts cried and screamed, calling the man "Father" and begging him to stop. The crowd became angry and started for the man who was in a bathing suit. He rushed into the water and started to swim out.

Arthur O'Neil, a life guard, swam after him but they were almost 500 yards from shore when O'Neil overtook the man. He fought the life guard but O'Neil, with the help of several men who had followed in a life boat, caught him and brought him ashore.

There Policeman Heney of the Coney Island station was waiting for him. The man said he was Edgard A. Olive, a policeman attached to the West Sixty-eighth Street station and living at 209 West 107th Street. The woman, who insisted on his arrest, said she was his wife. She said they had been separated for several months and she and the children lived at 307 Columbus Avenue. She said she met him on the beach yesterday with a strange woman and that when she remonstrated he struck her.

Olive was locked up in the Coney Island station but later was bailed out. He will be arraigned in the Coney Island Court to-day, and afterward will report at the office of Deputy Police Commissioner Walsh.

DIVORCE FOR MRS. SIEBRECHT

Case to be Appealed for Sake of Mrs. Miner, Who Was Named.

A divorce has been granted to Mrs. Julia W. A. Siebrecht from Henry A. Siebrecht, Jr., the florist of this city, by Justice Mills in the Supreme Court at White Plains, at the close of a bitterly contested suit in which the counsel for Mrs. Siebrecht introduced several witnesses who told of her husband's relations with Mrs. Francina Miner, wife of Frank Miner.

Justice Mills in granting the decree refused to compel Mr. Siebrecht to reconvey to his wife their homestead in North Avenue, New Rochelle, worth more than $50,000, which was originally deeded to Mrs. Siebrecht by her husband, and reconveyed to him, she claimed, when she was about to undergo an operation.

Siebrecht has made known his intention of taking the case to the Appellate Division, and in his appeal it is understood that he will be assisted by Mrs. Miner and also her husband, who declares that Mrs. Miner is innocent.

TWO HAVANA PLAGUE CASES.

American Physician Says That Is All Proved So Far.

Among the passengers arriving yesterday on the Ward liner Havana from Cuba was Dr. D. T. Laine, an American physician, who has been in Havana for the last fourteen years. Dr. Laine said that up to the time he left on Monday only two plague cases had been discovered, although thousands of persons had been examined and rats had been tested for plague symptoms. Of the two cases one died and one recovered. The plague was not so bad in Havana as it had been reported, he said.

MADE LOST GIRL A PRISONER.

She Tells Paterson Police of Being Kept in a Mill by Men.

PATERSON, N. J., July 18.—All night long David Poersna of Butler searched the streets here for his sister Dinah, about 22 years old, and, according to her brother, not entirely of sound mind. He had lost her at the Straight Street Station of the Susquehanna Railroad when they were waiting for a train to Butler last night.

Early in the day Policeman Kinney saw a girl answering the description of Miss Poersna wandering about at Straight and Market Streets. She seemed dazed and ill, and when the policeman questioned her admitted she was Miss Poersna.

She said, having become separated from her brother last night, she had wandered from the station. A man accosted her, and, instead of leading her back to the station, as she asked, took her to a mill, where he and several other men kept her all night. The girl was put in an automobile and driven around the city until she pointed out the mill of the McNabb-Harlin Company, as the one in which she had been kept prisoner.

The police arrested David Harrison, the night watchman, and on the strength of his statements are looking for two other men. The girl was taken to the General Hospital, where she is a patient.
